SOAK RICH BILL GOES TO SENATE; TROUBLE AHEAD

House Piles Up 282 to 96 Majority.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Less than seven weeks after President Roosevelt's sudden message to congress ordering passage of a new tax bill, the house today approved a measure based partly upon his recommendations. The vote was 282 to 96. Eighteen Democrats joined with 78 Republicans against the bill.

The Illinois delegation split strictly on party lines. Nineteen Democrats voted for the bill and six Republicans against. McKeough, Chicago Democrat, did not vote.

Never before has a revenue bill been acted upon so speedily by the lower body. The bill was drafted in a week after perfunctory open hearings and debated only two days on the floor. It now goes to the senate, where trouble besets its path and where its progress is expected to be considerably slower.

Increases Higher Levies.

The bill imposes increased levies on high individual and corporation incomes and on inheritances and gifts. It departs in several respects from the President's recommendations. Among the major differences is that the increase in surtax rates starts with the $50,000 income bracket instead of the 1 million dollar bracket.

Again, the graduation of corporation income taxes is in a range of 1 per cent only instead of 6 per cent. Provision is made for new excess profits taxes but none is made for intercompany dividend taxes as suggested by the President. In flat opposition to the expressed wishes of the President is the provision allowing corporations a tax exemption up to 5 per cent of their net income on gifts to charity.

Quarter Billion Expected.

In its present form the bill is expected to produce approximately 250 million dollars in revenue. The senate, however, probably will rewrite the bill radically before adopting it.

The senate finance committee announced that it would delay until tomorrow its further consideration of the bill. At that time it is expected that Robert H. Jackson, counsel for the bureau of internal revenue, will appear to discuss technicalities of the pending measure and tax policy.

What Bill Provides.

Briefly, the bill provides:

1. Inheritance taxes to yield 86 million dollars, with rates starting at $50,000 inheritances graduating up to 75 per cent on inheritances above 10 millions.

2. New gift taxes to yield 24 million dollars, based on three-fourths of the inheritance tax rates. The recipients of gifts pay the tax.

3. Excess profits taxes to yield 100 millions. The taxes take 5 per cent of profits between 8 and 12 per cent of net income and up to 20 per cent of profits above 25 per cent.

4. Hiked personal income taxes, affecting approximately 8,000 individuals with net earned income in excess of $50,000 a year. The new surtax rates range from 31 per cent to 75 per cent on income above 5 millions.

5. Graduated corporation tax replacing the present flat 13¾ per cent rate on net income. The bigger corporations will pay 14¼ per cent and the smaller 13¼.

La Follette Threatens Trouble.

In the senate, La Follette [Prog., Wis.] declared he would seek to amend the bill by "broadening the base" of the income tax schedule and thus obtain more revenue.

The senator would not explain his plan in detail. It is apparently his plan to seek an increase in the basic normal rate applying to all taxable income and a boost in surtaxes below the $50,000 income level where the house began its increases. There probably also would be an adjustment of surtaxes in the very high levels to compensate for a bigger normal rate, and some easing of taxes on big inheritances in reply to "confiscation" charges.

Borah Seeks Bonus Rider.

Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho] and others were planning tentatively to try to hook on, from the senate floor, a rider for immediate cash payment of the 2 billion 200 million dollar bonus and the 3 billion dollar Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill through the issue of more than 5 billions in new money.

Democratic chiefs insisted the last two would be beaten. Vice President Garner was reported to be active in the campaign against them.

Mrs. Louise Schaffer Bauer was in technical custody of the police in a hotel last night while prosecutors prepared for the arraignment in Felony court this morning of her former sweetheart, Mandeville W. Zenge, who is charged with the savage mutilation-murder of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, her bridegroom.

With these developments the murder case, one of the most shocking in Chicago's history, appeared to be nearing a climax.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty declared yesterday he will ask Judge Justin F. McCarthy, who issued the murder warant against the young Missouri farmer, to continue the hearing while the prosecution staf attempts to more firmly establish the motive.

"Arrest" Finally Admitted.

The motive, as advanced at present, was Zenge's loss of his childhood sweetheart and financée to Dr. Bauer, Kirksville, Mo., chemist and college instructor, whom she met through her duties as night superintendent of nurses at a Kirksville hospital.

Revelation that Mrs. Bauer was secluded with a policewoman in an unnamed hotel came late in the afternoon. Mr. Dougherty and his staf of investigators had denied this for several hours, but finally admitted that she was in "technica' custody," and had been served with a subpena to appear before the new grand jury which was sworn in yesterday.

"This does not mean that Mrs. Bauer is necessarily hostile to the state's investigation," asserted the prosecutor. "But we want to insure her appearance before the grand jury as soon as possible.

"Can't Be Chivalrous."

"There are several points of this case which we hope will be cleared up in Kirksville. We want to know all about this case. We can't be chivalrous in this instance—we must find out everything."

Mrs. Bauer was questioned for several hours last night in her hotel room by Mr. Dougherty, Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, and half a dozen policemen. Dougherty gave no intimation of what he learned, but Mrs. Bauer seemed to be enjoying her examination. She could be heard laughing and joking with the prosecutor, and read all the afternoon and morning newspapers.

Her brother-in-law, Joseph Bauer, spent the night at the same hotel, preparatory to testifying today before the grand jury.

No Vote Expected Today.

Mr. Dougherty declared also that there was little possibility of a true bill being voted against Zenge today. The testimony of Mrs. Bauer and of William Leinert, 921 East 40th street, the taxicab driver, an acquaintance of Zenge's, who turned him up to the police, will probably be taken, said Mr. Dougherty, but the other members of the investigating force are also needed in the trial of Mrs. Blanche Dunkel and Mrs. Evelyn Smith for the murder of Ervin Lang.

From the manner in which Mr. Dougherty and Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad went about their preparations yesterday, it appeared that the circumstantial case they have built up against Zenge had been strengthened by the discovery of new evidence. The nature of this could not be learned.

Mr. Dougherty revealed for the first time that no finger prints were obtained from the automobile of Dr. Bauer, in which he was mutilated. The only trace of prints were smeared and of no avail to the investigation, the prosecutor said.

Hold Chauffeur as Witness.

One theory was that Leinert, on the promise of not being implicated in the case, may have learned the details of the crime from Zenge and given this information to the state's attorney. Leinert also was held as a material witness at the state's attorney's office.

Zenge was much more cheerful yesterday than during the hours of questioning he has been subjected to since his arrest early Friday. He apparently felt yesterday was the last day he would have to maintain rigid control of his emotions under the persistent hammering of his inquisitors.

He was brought before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington on a writ of habeas corpus, which had been obtained by his father, J. Andy Zenge; his brother, Leighton, and his lawyer, Joseph Green. Attorney Joseph Roach appeared yesterday as associate counsel with Mr. Green.

Hearing on the petition was delayed

McCUTCHEON IN ARGENTINA

Cartoonist Finds Citizens Glum Over Lack of Rain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 5.—Today was clear and sparkling, but when we expressed our delight the local citizens looked glum. Rain is long overdue.

More preconceptions exploded: It never snows here; there is no such thing as pampas grass in Argentina; the tango was invented by outsiders and is not a characteristic native dance.

Argentina is a white man's country. There are few Indians, except in remote districts. The native Gaucho as a type is disappearing and is being replaced by immigrants.

The newspaper La Nación, edited by grandsons of Bartolomé Mitre, former president who is called the "Lincoln of Argentina," prints rotogravure in its regular editions.

A pugilist is called a boxiador.

The local subway, beautifully constructed and having escalators, is bored through low, muddy soil.

Going "in the camp," which means out in the country, today we visited two great estancias, approached by splendid avenues of eucalyptus trees and artificial lakes. They are manorial homes, suggesting a feudal patriarchy. Five generations sometimes live together. There is a strong clan spirit.

9 Bandits Raid Roundhouse; Seize Torches

Nine bandits, riding in three automobiles, invaded the roundhouse and yards of the Chicago and Alton railroad near Meade avenue and Archer avenue last night, routed an army of fifty employés with revolver shots and escaped with three acetylene torches and six tanks of gas.

The gunmen were first observed near the roundhouse by A. R. Osmun, 3727 West 61st street, and John Murray, roundhouse foreman, 6242 South Mozart street. Murray and Osmun advanced to question them.

Bandits Slug Foreman.

Hardly had Murray begun to question the bandits when one of them knocked him to the ground with a blow with a pistol butt. Another bandit then put a gun to Murray's head and pulled the trigger, but the cartridge failed to explode.

As the bandits were examining goods about the casting platform, Murray leaped up and attempted to escape. He ran into the arms of one of the bandit guards, and again was slugged. Meantime, Virgil Rawlins, crew dispatcher, had been informed of the trouble and mobilized an army of some 50 car men, shop workers, and car inspectors.

Bandits' Shots Rout Rescuers.

They began a march on the scene, but were soon spotted by one of the bandit lookouts.

A barrage of shots rang out and the railroad men fell back a moment to plan a fresh attack to rescue their two comrades. In this interval the bandits hastily loaded their loot into their cars and sped away, still firing warning shots to discourage pursuit.

Chicago police, who were informed of the affray, questioned witnesses closely to determine if the leader of the bandits might have been Midget Fernekes. No description of such a man was obtained, however.

PUSHES BARROW FROM MISSISSIPPI TO COLLECT $200

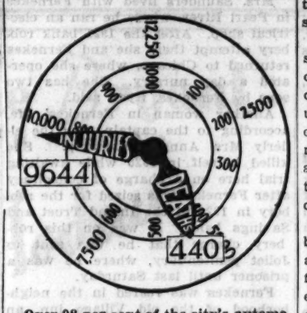
Julius O. Slade, 37 years old, was talking with some of the boys at Lumberton, Miss., where he used to coach the baseball team, about their lack of exercise. Said Slade, "I could walk 1,000 miles easily."

So the boys of Lumberton called his bluff and raised a kitty of $200 to be payable to Slade if he could push a wheelbarrow to Chicago, 1,000 miles away, in thirty days. Slade accepted the challenge and started July 14.

Last night Slade appeared in Homewood pushing the wheelbarrow and eagerly looking forward to collecting his bet. When he arrives in Chicago today he will have lost eight pounds from his weight of 132 pounds at the start of the trip.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

AUTO CASUALTIES IN CITY THIS YEAR PASS 10,000 MARK

Automobile casualties since the first of the year within the city limits of Chicago passed the 10,000 mark yesterday. There were 94 persons injured in the city during the day. Trafic engineers assert that 9,800 of these 10,000 casualties would have been physically impossible on elevated highways.

Specifically casualties for the year reached a total of 10,084 at 4 p. m. yesterday. Of these casualties 440 are deaths and 9,644 are injuries. With no motor deaths yesterday in Cook county the death toll for the year in the county remained at 554. Last year at the same time 706 persons had been killed in automobile accidents.

Since the first of the year THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has been running a "clock" every day, designed to show graphically how automobile deaths, the great majority of them avoidable, grow day by day into the hundreds, thousands, and tens of thousands.

SEA LION SCARES GIRLS AND GETS A FRIGHT HIMSELF

Three young women were swimming in the water off Long Beach, Mich., yesterday afternoon when they saw the bewhiskered nose of a sea lion rise above the surface. The three girls made all speed to the shore and the sea lion, apparently equally frightened, hastened to deep water.

"I saw its gleaming tusks," said Miss Lorraine O'Hara of Chicago when the three girls told their story at the Michigan City coast guard station.

"I saw the water glistening on its whiskers," said Miss Marge Hogan, also of Chicago.

"It looked as if it might bite," said Miss Geraldine Purdy of Long Beach, whom the other two girls were visiting. Coast guardsmen said the sea lion was probably the same one that has been splashing about the southern end of Lake Michigan for several weeks.

Locking himself in the inner office of his suite on the eleventh floor of the county building, Otto F. Aken, retiring county superintendent of schools, yesterday resisted the efforts of his successor, Noble J. Puffer, to take over the office. Flying fists and the screams of women enlivened the early phases of the siege, which neither side appeared ready to end last night.

Aken, whose term expired yesterday, has filed mandamus proceedings in Superior court, contesting the qualifications of Puffer, who was elected last fall. The retiring superintendent has refused to relinquish his office until the mandamus suit is settled.

Find Aken Locked in Office.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning Puffer, accompanied by his attorney, Harris Williams, and a group of friends, arrived in the county building. They found in the former courtroom, which was later to serve as a battleground for the rival parties, that Aken had locked himself in a private office.

Last night the situation remained the same. Aken, fortified with food, pulled down the blinds and stuffed the window and door cracks with newspapers. Then he retired for the night. On the outside, Puffer likewise was well provisioned and determined to last out the siege until the courts rule. He, too, went to sleep.

Aken, whose term under law expired on the first Monday in August, charges that Puffer lacks the four years of teaching experience the law requires for the position. Puffer answered that he has had nearly eight years' experience as assistant superintendent, in addition to three years six months' actual teaching experience.

Plan Quo Warranto Action.

Today, however, counsel for Aken will seek the aid of the state's attorney or, failing in that, the attorney general, in instituting quo warranto proceedings compeling Puffer to show his right to the position. The present action seeks to enjoin Puffer from assuming office.

Late in the day, after Puffer had strongly entrenched himself in the outer offices and delved into the records and files that Aken had been unable to take into the small private office, the new superintendent announced that he had discovered what appeared—from the records at hand—to be irregularities in the handling of county school funds.

A $500 fund for office supplies had been overdrawn by $600, Puffer said, and all except $237 of a $4,000 fund for extra office help had been exhausted on July 1, although the money is to cover the entire year.

Attempts Forcible Entry.

Attorney O. Leon Bunn, counsel for Aken, started the day's activities by appearing before Superior Judge Joseph B. David and obtaining an injunction restraining Sherif John Toman from forcibly ejecting Aken from office until after Judge James J. Kelly has ruled on Aug. 19. The injunction, however, failed to name Puffer, and a few minutes later the new superintendent attempted a forcible entry.

Puffer's friends who had come to attend the induction of a new office holder entered into the spirit of the attack. They swarmed into the office and up to the door to the inner sanctum, where Aken partisans halted their advance. Blows were struck.

"Don't hit him, don't hit him." Mrs. Lucille Puffer screamed, and sought to protect her children.

When deputy sherifs had restored order, Puffer proceeded to take office. Miss Isabel Welsher, secretary to Aken, left her desk for a moment. Into her chair slipped Miss Agnes Hallinan, Puffer's secretary.

While Miss Welsher wept loudly, Puffer began his first dictation to Miss Hallinan.

HORNER INQUIRY UNDER ATTACK OF PROSECUTOR

While Gov. Horner last night conducted a secret investigation at Joliet into the astounding escape from the old prison there of Henry J. [Midget] Fernekes, the responsible Will county authorities who have been frozen out of the proceedings condemned what they suspect is an effort to "whitewash" the entire affair.

Fernekes, diminutive Chicago killer and bank robber who had been a convict since 1925, strolled out the front gate of the prison last Saturday afternoon by a ruse in which he posed as a civilian visitor to the penitentiary.

Conspiracy of Some Sort.

Not only four guards who have been suspended but others in the prison must have been in a "conspiracy of stupidity" to permit the escape. Observers found that a conspiracy of bribery was a more reasonable explanation.

Continued denials came last evening, however, from Gov. Horner and his political appointees that there was any evidence that Fernekes had resorted to bribery to effect his escape.

Hearing the story of these investigators that only negligence had allowed the midget outlaw to hoodwink guard after guard in his stroll to freedom, Will R. McCabe, state's attorney for Will county, said:

"Gov. Horner termed the escape 'the result of stupidity.' It is evident to me the officials of the prison aim to justify the governor's conclusion.

Wants Less Secrecy.

"I think the investigation, as conducted, is subject to criticism. If the officials of the state were concerned in advising the public as to what really happened, there would have been less secrecy and a more open desire to get at the facts."

Mr. McCabe pointed out that the law enforcing officials of Will county, who have unquestioned jurisdiction over any crime within that territory—including crime within the penitentiary itself—have never been officially advised that Fernekes has escaped.

Chicago police were told only a few minutes after the discovery of the escape that the desperado was at large, but Will county, the scene of the prison break, remained in official ignorance of the fact that a killer was loose.

More Murder in Prospect.

"Fernekes probably will kill before he is retaken," said Mr. McCabe. "I think knowledge of that possibility should prompt those officials [Horner and the prison heads] to wish that the public would know why Fernekes walked out of the penitentiary, and who permitted it."

Last night's investigation, which was attended only by the governor, his political aids and lie detector experts from the crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university, was held in the guards' room of the old prison.

Present besides the governor were Prison Warden Frank D. Whipp, Assistant Warden George F. Sehring, T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification; Leonarde Keeler, developer of the lie detector, and Keeler's assistant, Fred Inbau.

Ex-Guards Under Lie Detector.

One at a time they brought in the four prison guards, past whom Midget Fernekes calmly walked to freedom. Each was questioned under the lie detector.

The four, all of whom were suspended Sunday night, are: Michael Leonard, captain of guards, who was watching in the visitors' room of the prison when Fernekes, posing as a visitor wanting to see a prisoner who had been transferred to the new prison at Stateville, walked in and out; Frank Friend and Robert Shaw, who were on duty at the two barred doors in the administration building, and opened them to let Fernekes go through to freedom, and James Nolan, who had charge of the fibre shop, where Fernekes was supposed to be working.

McCabe's Assistance Spurned.

When State's Attorney McCabe learned of the investigation, he visited the prison at once and spoke to Gov. Horner, offering what assistance he might be able to furnish. Nevertheless, he said, he was not invited to attend the "star chamber" session, from which newspaper men and other representatives of the public also were barred.

In the meantime Gov. Horner was led over the ground which Fernekes

As Fernekes' escape was reconstructed, the governor was shown the fibre shop where Fernekes and some 56 other convicts were under the supervision of Nolan. Although Fernekes slipped out of that shop without permission some time before 1:30 p. m. on Saturday, Nolan admitted he did not miss the diminutive convict until nearly 4 p. m.

Fernekes Changes His Clothes.

Meanwhile Fernekes procured either civilian clothes or a suit of blue denim prison garb which had been bleached to approximate a "dirty gray." It is presumed that he went to the coal pile beside the power house and there arrayed himself to appear as a visitor in the penitentiary.

Convicts questioned earlier, reported seeing a man answering the description of such a civilian strolling about the prison yard with a roll of paper which appeared to be an architect's blueprints, and examining the buildings. Presuming that this man was engaged in construction work, neither convicts nor guards, if any guards observed him, took any further notice of him.

Seizing a moment when no eyes were upon him, Fernekes slipped into the visitors' room and presented a slip of paper indicating that he had permission to visit a prisoner. When informed that the prisoner was in the Stateville institution, several miles away, the supposed visitor nodded and left.

Stories of Guards Conflict.

On duty in the visitors' room was Leonard, who was relieving Capt. Charles Rogers for a short time. Guards Friend and Shaw, on duty at the two gates in the administration building, declared that Leonard had pressed the buzzer which rang at their posts and indicated to them that the departing visitor was "all right."

Leonard, however, did not admit that he had done so. Another discrepancy was revealed when Nolan, foreman in the fibre shop, declared he had seen Fernekes there as late as 2 p. m. This conflicted with Leonard's story that the Midget had been in the visitors' room at 1:30 p. m.

Before the guards were taken into the "star chamber" session, they refused to discuss the case with outsiders, but did declare that they were perfectly willing to submit to the lie detector tests. After their examination, the details of which were not revealed, Gov. Horner and Warden Whipp declared that the lie detector charts had shown no deviations from normal.

Guard May Know More.

The chart of one guard showed deviations, it was admitted, when he was asked the question:

"Is that all you know about this case?"

However, Warden Whipp was inclined to pass this off with an explanation that the guard was probably thinking about some entirely different phase of the escape, since his chart had been clear on direct questions involving bribery.

At the same time, however, Mr. McCabe and other Will county authorities were demanding to know why the inquisition was passing up points which might be fruitful.

In order to go from the fiber shop to freedom Fernekes had to pass under the eye-to-eye scrutiny of at least five guards, and was in all probability directly seen by as many as ten or a dozen. That none of these men, supposed to be trained in detecting all kinds of schemes to escape, stopped the outlaw has been set down by the prison authorities as "stupidity."

Prosecutor Expresses Doubt.

Mr. McCabe questioned this, pointing out that one, or two, or even three guards might be duped, but that to assume a dozen might be duped in rapid succession would be putting a strain on the law of averages.

Fernekes attempted bribery at least once before when he was a prisoner of the Chicago police in 1925.

This was shortly before he was sent to prison to serve a sentence of ten years to life for the robbery of the Inland Trust and Savings bank here. Since the Midget's incarceration it has been reported that at least $60,000 of the loot he obtained from various robberies was in a secret hiding place against the time when he would again be free.

Further, Fernekes did not wish a parole. He is wanted in New York state for the murder of two bank employés in a holdup and a parole from Joliet would mean his immediate arrest and extradition to the east. An escape, however, would mean freedom and a chance to resume his trade of robbery.

In Chicago, earlier in the day, police aided Capt. J. L. McGuire of prison guards in questioning a cousin of the escaped convict. She is Mrs. Lillian Pizzuto, 2449 Adams street, the wife of Philip Pizzuto, a commission merchant.

Mrs. Pizzuto, according to prison officials, has been visiting Fernekes regularly twice a month at the prison for more than a year. Until a ban was placed on such displays, her meetings with her cousin were very affectionate, prison attendants said. They embraced each time.

Mrs. Pizzuto denied that she had played any part in his escape Saturday, but admitted that she visited him last Thursday. She and her husband spent most of Saturday evening in a saloon owned by Nick Deleo at 510 South California avenue, she said.

Radio Tuned to Police Calls.

Capt. McGuire and other guards went to her home as soon as Fernekes' escape was discovered. With the aid of the police they entered the Pizzuto apartment and found a radio in the kitchen. Without changing the dial they turned the radio switch and found the dial set to receive police calls.

Then they talked to Lawrence Pizzuto, Philip's brother and his partner in a commission business at 706 West Randolph street. This quizzing of Lawrence resulted in a telegram which the state officials puzzled over for a time. The message was sent to Philip at the Deleo saloon about 10 o'clock Saturday night. Neither he nor his wife was there and Deleo sent Violet Lowe, 3032 West 42d street, to the Pizzuto flat with the telegram. She is a divorcée who knows Mrs. Pizzuto.

Capt. McGuire intercepted the wire at the apartment. It read:

"Please come home at once. Lawrence needs you. Please hurry for my sake. MARGARET."

Capt. Charles McGurn of the Warren avenue police explained yesterday that "Margaret" is Lawrence Pizzuto's wife and that from outside the flat she saw the police and prison guards questioning her husband, became frightened and wired his brother, not knowing what the questioning was about.

None of the Pizzutos are being held, Capt. McGurn said.

TWO PREVIOUS JOLIET ESCAPES BLOCKED BY ALERT GUARD CAPTAIN

Details of two attempted escapes in which convicts sought to use the same ruse successfully employed by Henry J. [Midget] Fernekes were recalled by officials at the old state prison at Joliet yesterday. In each of the previous attempts, in which prisoners obtained civilian clothes, the alertness of former Guard Captain Frank Kness balked their efforts.

Eight years ago John [Piker] Reilly and another prisoner working in the power substation in the prison yard tied up Chauncey Robinson, foreman of the furniture factory, and Claude Cox, a civilian electrician. Clad in the civilian clothes of Robinson and Cox, Reilly and his companion entered the interview room, from which Fernekes escaped. On that occasion, however, they were stopped by Capt. Kness.

"Where are you boys going?" the captain asked.

"To solitary," Reilly replied. He was right.

In an earlier attempted escape, John Quinn, a prisoner who closely resembled Robinson, seized the latter, tied him up and walked into the prison yard in Robinson's clothes. Quinn was joined by three other convicts and all entered Robinson's automobile. As they drove to the gate, which a turnkey had unlocked, believing Robinson was driving, Capt. Kness recognized Quinn, jumped to the running board and forced the prisoners back.

POLICE RECALL MIDGET'S BRIBE OFFER IN 1925

Fernekes Will Be a Hard One to Catch, They Say.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Policemen who helped to hunt down Midget Fernekes in 1924 and 1925 expressed the opinion yesterday that he probably would stay in Illinois but that catching him would tax the powers of the law enforcement authorities of any state.

"He will be a hard man to catch," said Capt. William J. Schoemaker of Marquette station, who was chief of detectives in 1925.

The reason he probably will not stray over the Illinois border, the police believe, is that any other state, if it captured him, would probably turn him over to Pearl River, N. Y., authorities. He is wanted for the murder of two men in an attempted holdup of the First National bank of Pearl River on Dec. 29, 1921.

A Killer at Large.

"That is also why he wasn't very anxious to be paroled," said Capt. John Ryan of the Fillmore street police. "He knew the New York authorities would be waiting for him as he left the prison grounds at Joliet.

"He's a cool killer. He probably will kill some one before he's caught and his captors will have an awful time getting him."

Capt. Ryan recalled that in 1925, when he was locked up in Fillmore street station, Fernekes told one policeman it "would be worth $2,000" to him to get out.

"He isn't a man who would stop at a little thing like bribery," said Capt. Ryan. "And he had money. He never spent it. He never smoked, chewed or drank, even a glass of beer. When he went into a saloon it was only to meet some one, and then he stayed not longer than ten minutes.

Where Is His Money?

"He didn't trust many people and if he turned his money over to any one it was to his ex-wife or to his father, old Pete Fernekes, who went back years ago to the family home town, Valparaiso, Ind. I believe his wife remarried after her divorce from the Midget, but we learned that he and she were still friendly."

His wife was Lulu Mae Woodward Fernekes, who got the divorce in 1915 in Valparaiso on the ground that Fernekes had been convicted of a felony. At this time he was serving a term in Pontiac reformatory for robbing an office on the tenth floor of the First National Bank building here.

After his release from Pontiac Fernekes led a gang in the $105,000 robbery of the Argo State bank in 1918. One of his companions in this foray, according to Capt. Ryan, was Gus Saunders. Saunders and two others were captured. Fernekes fled to the east with his own and Saunders' share of the loot and also Saunders' wife, Capt. Ryan said.

They Return to Chicago.

Mrs. Saunders lived with Fernekes in Pearl River, where he ran an electrical shop. After the 1921 bank robbery attempt there she and Fernekes returned to Chicago, where she operated a day nursery. She has two sons by Fernekes, Ryan said.

Another woman in Fernekes' life, according to the captain, was the elderly Mrs. Anna Beauchamp. She killed herself in 1925 while awaiting trial here on a charge of conspiracy after Fernekes was seized for the robbery in 1924 of the Inland Trust and Savings bank. It was on this robbery charge that he was sent to Joliet penitentiary, where he was a prisoner until last Saturday.

Fernekes was reared in the neighborhood of the old Village inn, an all-night café and disorderly house operated by his father and his stepmother, known as "Pete and Lizzie's place." It was on the south side of Erie street near Clark street. The building has been torn down.

FORMER KING ALFONSO REPORTED PLANNING TO BECOME A MONK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Aug. 5.—Don Alfonso, who used to be Alfonso XIII., king of Spain, intends to become a monk, according to an intimate friend of his, a Spanish grandee who has just returned to Madrid after spending several months in the company of Spain's former monarch.

The ingratitude of his subjects, his matrimonial strife with ex-Queen Victoria Eugenia and the death of his youngest son, Don Gonzalo, weighs heavily on the ex-king, Alfonso's friend said. He added:

"Alfonso declares his life is ruined and that only by seeking peace of the spirit can he hope to find comfort for the series of misfortunes which have rained on him during the last few years."

STATE OFFICIALS DISAGREE OVER PRISON POLICIES

Horner Puts Decision Up to Committee.

State prison officials and criminologists, meeting here yesterday with Gov. Horner to chart the expenditure of $1,250,000 appropriated by the legislature for prison improvements, disagreed on the state's future prison policy. As a result requests for a new cell house and dormitories at Stateville and for new dormitories on the prison farm at Vandalia were held up until a special committee determines whether the state favors walled or honor-system prisons.

Gov. Horner blocked indorsement of the honor, or prison farm policy which was proposed by Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, Dr. E. H. Sutherland, of the University of Chicago, and Joseph Regan, state superintendent of prisons.

Judge's Plan for $1,250,000.

Judge Fisher urged that the $1,250,000 be spent on honor system prisons in outlying districts which would rehabilitate the prisoners and the construction cost of which would be comparatively low. Stateville prison, with a population of 5,700, should be decentralized rather than made larger, and the old prison at Joliet should be abolished, he said.

Gov. Horner predicted that adoption of a new criminal code for Illinois would reduce the Stateville population by reclassification of criminals and would clear the way for ultimate elimination of the old prison.

Horner for Walled Prisons.

The governor declared, however, that prison farms or reformatories should not be substituted for walled prisons.

"I believe it is for the good of society to build our prison cells and dormitories within walls," he said. "Despite what the legislature may do, Stateville will still be overcrowded. I don't think we should lean too strongly to minimum security prisons."

A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare who presided at the meeting, named Judge Fisher, Dr. Sutherland, and Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating directors of the Chicago crime commission, as a committee to decide the prison policy.

BAUER'S WIDOW HELD; FILE ZENGE MURDER CHARGE

until afternoon, when Mr. Dougherty explained that a murder warrant would be obtained. Sergt. Hugo Olson, one of the investigating staf, then appeared before Judge McCarthy in the Felony court and was granted the warant.

Informed of this at the afternoon session, Chief Justice Harrington dismissed the petition, without objection from the defense counsel, and Zenge was returned to the detective bureau, where the complaint was formally entered against him. He did not return to his specially guarded cell, but was assigned one near the other prisoners.

While waiting in the squadroom off the state's attorney's office until his case was called yesterday morning Zenge had his second interview with his father, a prosperous Canton, Mo., dairy farmer.

Happy Meeting with Father.

"Hello, dad," smiled the 26 year old carpenter-farmer, his stolid face breaking into a smile.

"Hello, boy," replied the elder man happily, as they hugged each other. Zenge and other members of his family and their lawyers were then allowed several minutes together alone. They laughed and talked and several times Zenge was slapped on the back by his relatives.

Dr. Bauer was kidnaped Tuesday afternoon in Ann Arbor, Mich., where he was attending the University of Michigan summer school. His abductor, known as "E. L." Jones of Chicago, who registered there at the same hotel, forced him at pistol point to drive to Chicago's south side, where he emasculated Dr. Bauer with a penknife. Dr. Bauer died later from loss of blood. "Jones" has been identified as Zenge.

Widow's Old Job Filled.

Kirksville, Mo., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Louise Schaffer Bauer, widow of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, will not return to the Laughlin hospital here as a night supervisor of the institution.

Asked today if Mrs. Bauer might return to her old job, Miss Ruth Story, nurse superintendent, said: "The position is filled."

The position was taken by Miss Rubye Marie Riggle, formerly of Shenandoah and Des Moines.

KIDNAP SUSPECT SLUGS TURNKEY AND FLEES JAIL

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 5—(AP)—Joe Hanley, returned from Texas under indictment for kidnaping a bank messenger, slugged a turnkey and escaped from the county jail tonight under gunfire.

Hanley, also suspected in the kidnaping June 6, of a Rockport, Mo., sheriff and deputy, was aided in the break, according to P. C. Fitzpatrick, the injured turnkey, by another prisoner, Tony Prochello, 20, who Fitzpatrick overpowered as he sought to follow Hanley.

Prochello asked to be taken to a drinking fountain. As they came abreast of Hanley's cell Prochello pushed Fitzpatrick against the bars, seized the jail keys and opened Hanley's cell. While Fitzpatrick wrestled with Prochello, Hanley fled.

3D VICTIM DIES; PILOTS BLAMED FOR AIR CRASH

Dickson Webb, 32 years old, 6346 Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, died in the Hinsdale sanitarium early yesterday, the third fatality of the collision between two small sport airplanes which occurred Sunday afternoon near Stinson airport, 55th street and Joliet road, near Lyons.

Webb's death came a few hours after federal bureau of air commerce inspectors concluded their investigation into the circumstances of the crash in which two others were killed and a fourth man critically hurt.

Two Others Fatally Hurt.

The other dead were John G. Harvey, 36 years old, 530 South avenue, Glencoe, pilot of one of the planes, and Kermit Hobbs, 30 years old, of Houston, Mo., an instructor who lived at the airport. The injured man is Frank Krieger of Grant Park, Ill., who was receiving instruction from Webb. Krieger's condition was described by physicians at the Hinsdale sanitarium as "very serious."

Inspector C. F. De Lassaux for the air commerce bureau said yesterday that the crash apparently was caused by the failure of either pilot to see the other plane. Hobbs and Harvey, salesmanager of the Burdick Enamel Sign company, 36 South State street, were riding in an Aeronca cabin monoplane powered with a 40 horse power Aeronca motor.

Blames Momentary Carelessness.

Webb, a transport pilot who was employed at the Western Electric company, was instructing Krieger in a Fleet open cockpit biplane with a Warner 125 horse power motor. "It seems to have been momentary carelessness," said the inspector.

At an inquest yesterday a coroner's jury held that Harvey's death was an accident. His funeral will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon from St. Elizabeth's Episcopal church in Glencoe. The boy will be cremated.

Because Hobbs and Webb died in Du Page county, a separate investigation into their deaths will be held there today or tomorrow.

State Tells All of Plot; Demands Death.

Moving with unexpected speed, the state yesterday opened the trial of Mrs. Blanche Dunkel and Mrs. Evelyn Smith for the murder of Mrs. Dunkel's son-in-law, Ervin Lang, 28 year old grocery clerk. The case is being heard without a jury by Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court.

The decision to proceed immediately with the trial came as a surprise to the two women, since it had been previously indicated that the prosecution did not plan to begin until later in the week.

But when Mrs. Dunkel and Mrs. Smith stood on their pleas of not guilty and signed jury waivers yesterday morning, indicating their willingness to take a trial without jury before Judge Harrington, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty proceeded immediately to his opening argument.

Unmoved by Death Plea.

Without any outward show of emotion the two women sat side by side in court and heard themselves described as the "cold blooded murderers" of Lang.

Dougherty concluded his address with the assertion that the prosecution's evidence will justify the "extreme penalty"—death in the electric chair—for both women.

Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, counsel for the two women, waived an opening statement.

Hearing of evidence will begin this morning with the likelihood that the state will complete its case during the day. The women are expected to take the stand in their own defense tomorrow. The case will probably be in the judge's hands tomorrow night with the possibility of an immediate ruling.

Prosecutor Describes the Plot.

In a calm, dispassionate tone Prosecutor Dougherty related the details of the two women's confessions. He also declared that Mrs. Dunkel and Mrs. Smith had planned twice before to kill Lang.

"Last May Mrs. Dunkel asked Mrs. Smith to get her a man to do the job," Dougherty said. "Mrs. Smith got in touch with a man in New York and asked him to come to Chicago and do the killing for $100 and expenses. After an exchange of telegrams and letters, the man said he couldn't come but would send another man.

"Mrs. Dunkel gave Mrs. Smith $30, and $20 of this amount was sent to the New York man, but he did not get here. It had been planned that Lang would be lured into an automobile ride and the assassin would shoot him in the head somewhere on the north shore.

The Man Named Culler.

"Mrs. Dunkel was still insistent on Lang's death and then Mrs. Smith thought of a man named Culler. [This was Andrew Culler, 1325 North Dearborn street, whose story to the police brought Mrs. Smith's confession.] Culler asked how much Mrs. Dunkel would pay and he said he wanted $1,000. She offered $500 and Culler would not do it.

"Finally Mrs. Dunkel asked Mrs. Smith why she and her husband couldn't do the job. Mrs. Smith inquired whether Mrs. Dunkel would be able to stand up 'under the heat' of an investigation and Mrs. Dunkel assured her she 'was a woman of stone and there was no possibility of her melting.'"

Dougherty then described Lang's arrival at Mrs. Smith's apartment on the night of July 5.

"After Lang had passed out from the liquor," the prosecutor continued, "Mrs. Smith told Mrs. Dunkel to go home so she could say she had not been present at the murder. After Mrs. Dunkel had gone, Mrs. Smith applied the ether to Lang and twisted the rope around his neck until all semblance of life was gone."

Later, Dougherty said, Jung arrived after Mrs. Dunkel had called him from his laundry, at Mrs. Smith's request.

"Jung fainted when he saw the body," the prosecutor declared, "and after his wife had revived him she went to a hardware store and bought a hacksaw. She came back and severed Lang's legs. Then the torso and legs were disposed of.

"This was a long premeditated murder on the part of these women. Mrs. Dunkel tried continuously to procure people to kill her son-in-law. Nothing but the extreme penalty should be meted out to these women."

UNCLAD DANCER FAINTS AT 30 DAY JAIL SENTENCE

Outdoes Beach Sights, Asserts Censor.

Renee Villon, 23 years old, a dancer who claims to have appeared in Paris, London, and Agua Caliente, folded her white peacock feathers, fainted, and wept real tears yesterday when Judge Edgar A. Jonas in the Women's court sentenced her to 30 days' imprisonment in the House of Correction for giving an indecent performance in a loop theater.

Demurely attired in a white dress, she told the court in a barely audible whisper that she had nothing to say in her defense. When sentence was passed she crumpled up into the arms of a policewoman and an alert policeman. But by the time her counsel had posted a $500 bond pending an appeal she had brightened and cheerfully invited court officials to view her "art."

"Have you ever been to the beaches?" Judge Jonas asked.

"O, yes," replied the policeman, "but she wore only a beaded G-string.

Attorneys for the theater interrupted to say that Renee had added a gauze brassiere to her costume, but Sergt. White insisted that even after a warning she had performed her dance with practically nothing on. From his fourth row seat, Sergt. White said, he saw Renee dance onto the stage carrying a pair of drooping peacock feathers. These and the bodies of the chorus girls who danced in front of her were her sole screen, the censor said.

William S. Briscoe, acting manager of the Oriental theater, charged with permitting an indecent performance, was granted a continuance until Oct. 1 after he had told the court that he had no power to alter Renee's wardrobe after it had been approved by the theater's production department.

Sally Rand, one of the many claimants to the honor of originating fan dancing, arrived in Chicago yesterday and was quite unperturbed by the police and court action against Renee.

GERMAN, MADE HERO OF NAZIS, QUITS NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Paul Kress, who was "Mr. K." for several days and has been an international incident for about two weeks, announced today that he would return to Germany Wednesday night on the Hamburg.

He was much relieved, he said, to leave behind him the violent discussion which followed Mayor La Guardia's declaration that he could not have a license in New York City as a masseur because Germany had discriminated against Jews who were American citizens. He said he did not like trouble makers between nations and did not like being an international incident. It makes him uncomfortable, he explained, because he is a Seventh Day Adventist, interested only in peace and earning a quiet living.

He might have had to stay and fight for his masseur license, but for the fortunate arrival of a letter from his parents in his home town in Germany. They want him to come home and take charge of the small laundry business. His mother is ill. He will send for his wife whom he is leaving in their flat in the Bronx. He spent six years here and applied for first and second papers and expected to be a full citizen next year.

NAZIS CALL FOR GENERAL ATTACK ON CATHOLICISM

Church Takes Challenge; Flings Back Defy.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Germany was placarded today with huge red official posters denouncing "political Catholicism," charging Catholic leaders with systematically trying to stir up a religious war, and calling for a concerted attack on such enemies of the Nazi state.

"Grafting Center party [Catholic] agents are working hand in hand with bolshevism and using its methods against the National Socialist faith," the posters screamed. "Give over to general contempt the betrayers of the people, who wish to carry out their filthy trade under the mask of religion!

"Now German people, take care and guard against dark elements who come in sheep's clothing but are inwardly ravening wolves!"

Crowds Read Posters Silently.

In Berlin crowds gathered around the posters, but remained silent as they read them, failing to display emotion of any kind. Their attitude confirmed the report of a Catholic delegation, which traveled throughout Germany, that anti-Catholic agitation has failed to shake the confidence of the Catholics in their leaders—that on the contrary it seems to have increased their religious enthusiasm.

In the Rhineland the population showed more signs of excitement in front of the posters. At Coblenz a member of a Catholic organization was caught tearing off the inflammatory anti-Catholic appeals. He was arrested and will be tried, the official news service declared.

In Solingen, a strongly Catholic district, the headquarters of the Hitler Youth and a Storm Troopers' office were demolished, and it was intimated this was done by a Catholic group trying to stir up unrest.

The Catholic Reply.

The Catholics replied defiantly to the Nazi posters with a proclamation entitled "At War," published in the church paper issued by the Berlin diocese. Accepting the Nazi challenge to battle, it called on the faithful to continue to resist attacks on religion.

"No doubt is possible that we Christians are in a grave battle," the church's appeal asserted. "Against us are some who openly call themselves pagans and regard it as an honoring name. Others, less consistent, decline to be called so though their thinking springs from the same roots.

"Weapons are used against us which centuries have dulled. We defend ourselves, attack false presentation and correct. But our word does not reach far today and if we have beaten back one attack new shots are fired at us from another quarter."

Kerrl Found in Office.

Meanwhile, Hans Kerrl, Nazi minister without portfolio who has been named to handle church matters, is known to be working in his office though, according to an official statement, he has taken a leave to recuperate from illness.

Catholic spokesmen assert that his "holiday" is merely a ruse to gain time before answering the Vatican's recent note of protest against Nazi attacks on the church.

Kerrl has requested the commissars who handle the funds of the Protestant church to report to him tomorrow, signalizing a new attack on the Protestant church.

See Plan to Curb Protestants.

Bishop Mahrarens of Hanover, who to date has been free of Nazi supervision in financial matters, was given a commissar last week. Protestants believe the commissars will attempt to use church finances to break up the remnants of Protestant independence and build a church run solely by the state.

Hans Hinkel, the commissar appointed by Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, to supervise artistic and cultural activities of Jews, has ruled that all Jewish groups of this kind must unite in a National Association of Jewish Cultural Groups before Aug. 31 or disband.

In Gladbach, a town of 60,000, Jewish children are not allowed to attend schools with other children, and Jewish dealers are not allowed in the markets. Jews are not allowed to purchase real estate or use the public baths, golf courses and tennis courts.

ARREST PORTER; LEARN FATE OF PRIZED PEARLS

Keeps Jewels 4 Years in Fear of Law.

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The strange influence of two valuable pearl necklaces in the life of a quiet, colored porter, who was haunted by fears so great he kept the jewels hidden for more than four years, was unfolded today.

The necklaces, one a strand of 129 pearls with a clasp containing seven diamonds, and the other a strand of 110 pearls with a clasp of six diamonds, had been reported missing by Mrs. Grafton Minot, formerly of 11 East 19th street, on May 8, 1931.

$100,000 Insurance Paid.

Insurance policies totaling $100,000 on the two necklaces were paid a few months later, after an investigation under the direction of Noel Scaffa, private detective, had failed. The disappearance of the jewels appeared to be a permanent mystery until the arrest of the porter today.

The colored man, James Hinton, 43, of Jamaica, Queens, told detectives that his wife, Ethel, had found the necklaces on the floor of the dress shop of Hattie Carnegie, Inc., in East Forty-ninth street, while scrubbing the floors on the night of May 7, 1931. He explained they had feared to return the jewels, expecting to be charged with theft.

He planned to sell the diamonds from the clasps, he said, and got $90 for nine of them. His wife quit the dress shop after a year; they changed their address because of fear. For the next few years, until today, the necklaces lay almost forgotten in the bureau drawer at their home.

Needed Money for Baby.

Mrs. Hinton was going to have a baby and they needed money. He took the pearl necklaces to lower Manhattan to sell them. He entered the offices of a jeweler and after asking to fices of a jeweler and after having the necklaces appraised he left the building, taking the jewels with him. Detectives were notified. They followed him as he walked up lower Broadway to City Hall park and sat on a bench. They searched him and found the necklaces.

Hinton finally told of his wife's finding the necklaces more than four years ago. He had read of a reward of $7,500 for the return of the necklaces, but feared to tell the police.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Germany's People's court started a string of spectacular trials today against communists which, according to Nazi spokesmen, will help "make enemies of the state realize they cannot hope for leniency from the Supreme court.

The court today sentenced Albert Kayser, former communist member of the reichstag, to death for "preparing high treason."

Tomorrow ten Munich communists, including one former member of the reichstag, will go on trial. They will be followed on Aug. 12 by nine persons charged with working for a secret military organization of Reds.

The rumor persists that the chief of the communist party in Germany, Ernst Thaelmann, who has been a prisoner since the Nazis assumed power, will be tried for high treason in the course of the month.

OFFICIALS AGREE TO ASK CASH FOR HOSPITAL PARK

City and county officials yesterday agreed to take action toward obtaining a federal loan and grant of $75,000 for the creation of a park the entire length of the Cook County hospital, fronting on Harrison street. The park would occupy a two block area bounded by Lincoln, Wood, Congress and Harrison streets.

At a conference between County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, Walter Wright, superintendent of the city's parks, and Ald. J. M. Bowler [25th], Wright was authorized to present the park proposal to the city council, after Commissioner Kelly gave assurance that Cook county will transfer its lands in the two block area to the city for park purposes.

A playground and athletic field fronting on Roosevelt road between Cicero and Central avenues, to be built with $137,000 federal funds, was proposed in plans for a project sent to Washington for approval yesterday by the Illinois office of the Works Progress administration.

JOHN BARRYMORE ASKS POLICE AID AGAINST CROWDS

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—John Barrymore called the police today because of overwhelming public curiosity in a boudoir shopping trip on which Elaine Barrie, his pretty young protégée, accompanied him.

But police wouldn't chase lookers-on, and Barrymore came off with ruffled temper and a split fingernail—the latter received when he went personally to the chase.

Barrymore, Miss Barrie and Miss Barrie's mother, after a tour of 5th avenue bedroon suites, finally settled upon and bought a "directoire" set under the sheltering arm of the law.

TWO TEACHERS INVENT A MACHINE TO GRADE EXAMINATION PAPERS

Woodridge, N. J., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The school teacher's dream, a machine which automatically will correct examination papers, has been invented by Herbert Lehmann and Joseph Svada, two school teachers, it was disclosed today when the two filed papers for a patent.

According to the inventors, the machine is an accurate examiner of the true and false type of tests. Students are given a sheet of questions which they perforate to indicate whether the question is true or false, and the sheet, run through the machine, allows electric contacts to be made through the perforations, which automatically lists the number of answers right and wrong.

ETHIOPIA VIEWS LEAGUE ACTION WITH SKEPTICISM

Grateful for Revival of Arbitration Efforts.

BY WILL BARBER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 5.—No one whooped with joy when the text of the league of nations council's resolution on the Italo-Ethiopian dispute was received today in Addis Ababa—thirty-six hours after it was voted, which is a comparatively speedy time for this remote land—but there were, on the other hand, no deepening gloom.

The official reaction to the league action in providing for resumption of arbitration efforts can best be described as "satisfaction diluted by skepticism," as one man put it. The Ethiopians, however, are pleased that a fifth member of the commission of conciliation will be named, and hope that he will be Nicholas Politis, Greek minister in Paris, who knows this country and is considered sympathetic with its independence.

Sure of Ualual Ownership.

It is understood here that the commission can take into consideration the Ethiopians' firm conviction that they own Ualual, where the principal border incident under investigation took place. This also pleases the government, as it is sure that the Ethiopian delegates will have no difficulty in establishing ownership.

It is maintained here that even if the arbitration commission decides that the Ethiopians started the shooting at Ualual, which they of course deny, it would be obliged to consider mitigating circumstances, since the Ethiopians feel that they were acting as any one would in chasing out an intruder.

In a communique issued this afternoon the government expressed full satisfaction with the league promise to examine all the disputes between Ethiopia and Italy at the council meeting Sept. 4.

"We are not afraid of any Italian charges," one official said, "and we are ready to face all of them with the certainty of proving our good faith."

Await Mussolini's Attitude.

But, before whooping with pleasure, the Ethiopians want to see how Premier Mussolini is going to interpret the league council's resolution and they want to see what Great Britain, France, and Italy are going to do when they start private negotiations under the 1906 treaty. This is the treaty which divides Ethiopia into British, French, and Italian zones of influence. In addition the Italians were promised British and French support in obtaining a concession for a railroad linking Eritrea and Italian Somaliland west of Addis Ababa. The Ethiopians fear that the Italians will be able to win new French help for concessions which might later give the Italians a tight hold on Ethiopia.

Another reason for the dilution of satisfaction is the failure of Great Britain to wrest from Mussolini a promise not to ship more men and munitions to the Italian East African colonies.

The failure makes the Ethiopians certain that Mussolini intends war if he can get away with it, and they are determined to continue their efforts to buy ammunition wherever they can.

New U. S. Envoy Arrives.

Cows, sheep, mules, and white togaed Ethiopians jumped nimbly out of the way as Cornelius Van H. Engert, new American chargé d'affaires, drove through the gates of the palace at 5 o'clock this afternoon for his first meeting with Emperor Haile Selassie I.

They did not stay jumped. They never do, for they clutter up the road in front of the emperor himself when he rides forth. It was amid such scenes in this almost Biblically picturesque land that Engert presented the best wishes of the American people, and the emperor expressed his thanks for President Roosevelt's message on the Kellogg anti-war pact.

Engert "Gets the Dogs."

Engert "got the dogs"—in other words, the emperor's white dogs played about as they talked. Not everybody "gets the dogs," and the fact that Engert did showed that the emperor was in a happy mood and enjoyed the interview.

Engert described the interview as very pleasant, and the emperor as a hard working, intelligent, highly cultured and deeply patriotic man. He was accompanied by W. Perry George, retiring chargé d'affaires, who was a particular favorite of the emperor. The son of the foreign minister translated Engert's English into Amharic. The emperor and Engert exchanged a few words in French at the close of the audience.

Seek Fifth Arbitrator.

GENEVA, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The names of three jurists were mentioned for the vacancy on the Italo-Ethiopian arbitration commission as the Ethiopian delegates met tonight to consider an Italian suggestion that the deliberations be resumed in Venice.

Among those unofficially proposed for the fifth membership in the group are: Nicholas Politis, Greek statesman; Max Huber of Switzerland, former president of the world court of international justice, and Dr. K. H. Hammarskjold, former premier of Sweden.

The four arbitrators have not decided when to resume their effort to patch up the differences between the two countries. Their recent negotiations in Holland bogged down but action by the council of the league of nations Saturday provided for resumption of deliberations with the appointment of the fifth member.

Typhoon Lashes China

Arrow points to Chaunchow, center of destruction of the typhoon which ripped into Fukien province in southern China yesterday. Hundreds of persons were killed and 2,000 homes were reported destroyed at Chaunchow.

TYPHOON STRIKES SOUTHERN CHINA; HUNDREDS DEAD

Many Villages Engulfed; 2,000 Homes Destroyed

AMOY, China, Aug. 5.—(AP)—China, already suffering from the severest floods in years, was dealt another blow by nature today when a typhoon tore through southern Fukien province, leaving hundreds dead.

Fragmentary reports from interior points said many of the victims were drowned. Streams overflowed and many villages were completely inundated. Fears were increased by weather predictions that another similar storm is on its way.

The deadly typhoon affected virtually every section of the southern half of the great province, centering at Chaunchow, 100 miles north of Amoy. There 2,000 homes were reported destroyed.

Worst in Many Years.

It was described as the worst typhoon to strike China's south coast in many years.

Fukien is one of south China's three maritime provinces and much tea is grown there. The province has an estimated population of 20,000,000.

It lies immediately opposite the Japanese owned island of Formosa, which was battered July 30 by a typhoon which also struck the Foochow section of China. Many persons were injured and property damage was large. The present typhoon is the fourth of the season in that section of the orient.

Recent floods in the Yangtze river valley made 10,000,000 homeless and thousands were drowned.

Seventeen Dead in Philippines.

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Seventeen persons were reported dead in northern and central Luzon Island today in floods following typhoons. Twenty more are missing, thousands are homeless and marooned, while rain continues. Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy mobilized governmental relief agencies and the Red Cross coöperated in establishing stations for points in Tarlac, Pangasinan and Pampanga provinces.

Earthquake in Jamaica.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 5.—(AP)—An earth shock of three seconds' duration was felt here at 8:46 a. m. today. Apparently no damage was done.

Tokio Threatens a 2d Nanking Shakeup.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5.—Col. Liu Tso-chiu, commander of police in the eastern section of the demilitarized zone in north China, was assassinated yesterday and a Japanese army sergeant, Sonosuke Kitamura, was seriously wounded when two assailants threw two hand grenades at them. The attackers were allegedly Chinese.

A Japanese officer, Maj. Chikamitsu Nukui, who was walking on the Lwan-chow railway station platform where the killing occurred, 100 miles north of Tientsin, escaped uninjured, although shots were fired at him simultaneously with the throwing of the hand grenades.

Col. Liu had gone to the station to greet Yin Ju-keng, Chinese commissioner of the demilitarized zone, who had been in Shankaikwan conferring with Lieut. Gen Yoshijire Umezu, commander of the Japanese forces in north China.

Tell of Another Murder.

Japanese reports also tell of another murder which occurred last Thursday. Su Peng-hsien, a Chinese professor at the Tientsin Commercial school, was found strangled and with a bullet hole in his head.

According to Japanese dispatches from Tientsin tonight Japanese military officers charge that the assassinations reflect the "insincerity" of recent promises made by the Chinese to stop anti-Japanese activities.

Immediately following the assassination of Liu Tso-chiu, Chinese authorities declared martial law in Luan-chow and arrested four suspects. The Japanese now demand that these four be handed over to Japanese military authorities for punishment.

Col. Takashi Sakai, commander of the Japanese garrison along the railway between Tientsin and Shanhaikwan, went to Peiping for a conference with Wang Keh-ming, acting head of the Chinese political council. Col. Sakai declared:

"Nothing can be accomplished in north China until the administration is reorganized and completely divorced from the administrative control of the Nanking government."

Charge Lack of Sincerity.

The Japanese claim that recent changes which Nanking was forced to carry out in north China are unsatisfactory, since the new officials lack independence and sincerity—this despite the fact that their appointment was dictated by the Japanese army and that the new appointees are mostly Chinese officials supposedly friendly to Japan. It will now be necessary to effect a further reorganization, according to Japanese spokesmen.

Japanese military authorities in Peiping today demanded the arrest of twenty alleged Chinese terrorists, warning the Chinese that unless their demands are immediately complied with "the Japanese military officials reserve the right to deal with the situation as they see fit."

FRIENDS AND FOES MEET PORTO RICO CHIEF ON RETURN

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Gov. Blanton Winship, returning today from Washington, was greeted by approximately 30,000 persons equally divided in demonstrations of welcome and protest.

The protestants assembled in answer to an appeal Friday by Senator Antonio Barcelo, president of the Liberal party. Accusing Winship of being a threat against the plans of Porto Rican reconstruction, Barcelo said the governor's return was "an insult to the people."

Bearing banners inscribed "Fuera Winship" [begone Winship], the unfriendly marchers passed La Fort Aleza, the governor's residence, shortly before noon. They walked at a funeral pace, their bands playing dirges. Some of them bore flags of mourning.

The other places raided were located at 6706 Rhodes avenue, 717 East 75th street, 179 West Washington street, 117 North Clark street, 100 North La Salle street and 180 West Adams street.

Laundress' Face Scarred; Sues Doctor for $50,000

Miss Lillian Burry, 27 years old, a laundry worker, filed a $50,000 damage suit yesterday against Dr. Jean Paul Fernel, 677 North Michigan avenue, a plastic surgeon, charging that she was permanently scarred by an infection which developed after a facial operation. The bill, filed in the Circuit court, charged that the instruments used by the doctor were "unsanitary."

JAPANESE ANGER OVER CARTOON IS CALMED BY HULL

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—With a gentle flow of suave and soothing language Secretary of State Hull today calmed the tempest in a Japanese teapot caused by publication of an American magazine cartoon representing the Mikado as a jinrikisha man.

Hirosi Saito, Japanese ambassador, came all the way from his Connecticut summer home to lodge official protest on behalf of the Japanese government against irreverent caricaturing of Emperor Hirohito, whom the Japanese are taught to regard as a divinity.

Wounds Japanese Feelings.

In a brief meeting with Mr. Hull this afternoon the ambassador said that he had called to make informal representations to the American government regarding the cartoon appearing in Vanity Fair which depicted Emperor Hirohito drawing a cart containing the Nobel Peace prize and tagged a "highly unlikely historical situation." The ambassador said he desired to inform the American government that because of the reverence of the Japanese people for the emperor the cartoon had wounded their feelings.

Realizing that the federal government possesses no power to regulate the press and that the first amendment to our constitution provides for freedom of the press Mr. Saito contented himself with a request that the state department take whatever action it found possible. He intimated that if his protest should accomplish nothing else it would prevent the recurrence of such irritating incidents in the future.

Hull Issues Statement.

In reply to questions after the departure of the ambassador Mr. Hull issued the following statement:

"The secretary of state, in reply to the representations of the ambassador of Japan relative to material which had appeared in the current issue of an American periodical, referred to the reported statement of the publishing company denying any purpose to give offense.

"The secretary then said that he is always sorry when incidents occur or situations arise which are taken amiss or occasion misunderstanding between this and any other country."

Frank Crowninshield, editor of Vanity Fair, in the statement referred to by Mr. Hull, has said that the cartoon was intended to be "perfectly good-natured."

Regrets Its Interpretation.

The secretary of state, it will be noted, expressed regret not at the publication of the cartoon, but at its misinterpretation in Japan. His statement, however, is susceptible of twisting into an appearance of an official apology for home consumption in Japan, which was the object of the Tokio government.

The whole affair was conjured out of Japanese politics. For months a controversy has been raging in Japan over the divine origin of the imperial family. The third article of the Japanese constitution states that "the emperor is sacred and inviolable." The basis for this statement is the legend that the sun goddess established her grandson on the imperial throne in 660 B. C.

In an interpretation of the constitution Dr. Minobe, an eminent scholar, was guilty of the temerity of scouting the divine ancestry of the emperor. Progressive Japanese supported Dr. Minobe. The militarists rallied to defense of divine origin with all the vindictiveness of English royalists supporting Stuart pretensions of the divine right of kings.

Establish Censorship.

The militarists eventually forced the cabinet to lay down a criterion for the censorship of textbooks and political literature in which it is stated: "The national policy of our nation was elucidated in a command given to the imperial grandson sent to earth by the sun goddess Amaterasu-Omikami, that the land shall be reigned over and governed by an unbroken line of emperors for ages eternal."

Next the Japanese militarists pounced on an article concerning the Japanese imperial family in an obscure Chinese weekly. Goaded into action by the militarists, the Japanese government extorted abject apologies and amends for the publication from the Chinese authorities in Shanghai.

In similar manner the incident of the American cartoon was manufactured. About 500 copies of Vanity Fair went to Japan and ten had been sold in Tokio. If anybody in Japan saw the cartoon he was not offended. For the Japanese government learned of the "irreverent" treatment of the emperor not from the home folks, but from a New York dispatch to a Japanese newspaper describing it as an affront to the emperor. The militarists pounced on this at once and forced the Japanese foreign office to order a protest, for the political purpose of supporting their defense of divine origin.

According to the terms of the protest, Japanese feelings were wounded not by the ironical representation of Japan's devotion to peace, but by the depiction of the divine emperor as a lowly laborer.

There have been many such protests lodged with the state department in the past and all have been met in the manner of Mr. Hull's statement of today.

Evanston Starts Arrests Under Safety Tag Law

Evanston police under Lieut. Frank Kreml of the traffic detail yesterday began a roundup of drivers who fail to display the city's stickers denoting approval of their automobiles by the safety department. Thirty persons were arrested under the new ordinance, which provides fines of from $1 to $25 for Evanston residents who fail to comply with the city's safety test.

POST 45 MILES AS SPEED LIMIT IN OUTER DRIVES

Some Sections to Remain Without Markers.

BY HAL FOUST.

A forty-five mile an hour speed limit is to be posted on the north side outer drive between Byron street and Foster avenue and on the south side outer drive between 14th and 56th streets.

This announcement was made yesterday by George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee, following an executive session with police and traffic men of the park district. Fleming has sought speed limit signs for all of both lake shore routes.

Other Sections Not Marked.

The arrangement still leaves the public in the dark as to the speed limits on other sections of Chicago's drives. Rush hour tests show speeds of 40 to 45 miles an hour with safety on the waterfront between Belmont and North avenues, but with no assurance of immunity for unreasonable arrest.

The Illinois traffic code specifies certain speeds as prima facie evidence of recklessness. These are 20 miles an hour in business districts, 25 miles an hour in residential districts and 35 miles an hour in suburban areas, cities and park districts, under the statute, are permitted to raise these limits providing that the higher rates are posted.

Mr. Fleming suggested that the park district drop its requirement for a cash bond from speeders. He pointed out that many drive the boulevards without sufficient money on their person for bail should they be accused of speeding and that it is a hardship to demand this bond rather than to issue tickets as do the city police.

Let Motorists Sign Bonds.

Chief Michael J. Hayes of the park police said his patrolmen will continue to take motorists to the station, but that the offenders will be permitted to sign personal recognizance bonds if they are able to identify themselves as residents of Chicago.

John Conway, 37 years old, living on Conway road, west of Lake Forest, yesterday became the first person arrested and held to the grand jury in Lake county under the new state traffic code. Police Magistrate Edwin Burgess of Lake Forest held him to the grand jury for driving while intoxicated.

Conway was arrested Sunday night a. Waukegan and Conway roads when his automobile collided with that of Clement Bieschke, 2427 North Artesian avenue. Bieschke's mother, Mrs. Harriet Bieschke, 78 years old, was critically injured.

SECOND DEFICIENCY BILL FOR 272 MILLIONS GOES BACK TO SENATE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The second deficiency bill carrying $272,000,000, a slash of $36,000,000 from the total approved by the senate and an increase of $48,000,000 over the house figure, was reported back from conference today to the senate.

TVA dam construction funds were cut from 38 to 36 millions, and the milk and textile inquiry funds from $300,000 to $200,000.

Senate items eliminated included:

$6,462,145 for payment to California in reimbursement of expenditures made in aiding the government in the civil war and a similar fund of $171,034 for payment to the city of Baltimore.

$10,000 to the mother of the late Senator Cutting of New Mexico.

$100,000 for continuing construction of the Mount Rushmore National memorial in South Dakota.

The $300,000 added by the senate for payment to Atlee Pomerene, former senator from Ohio, and other special United States attorneys for services rendered in the oil scandals litigation was cut to $176,767.

RIGID ECONOMY IS DEMANDED BY N. Y. TAXPAYERS

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia was urged today to eliminate the luxuries of government from the 1936 budget unless he wished to face a revolt of taxpayers.

Joseph Goldsmith, president of the Council of Real Estate Associations, hinted at the possibility of a tax strike in a letter to the mayor demanding economy in the 1936 budget. Goldsmith noted that almost every city department whose budget schedules have been received asks for an increased amount next year. He asked the mayor to withhold approval from all increases unless they were essential to conduct of the city's business.

FARMER IN AUTO KILLED BY TRAIN IN LAKE COUNTY

Delbert Lewin, 65 years old, a farmer living near Russell, a village 14 miles northwest of Waukegan, was killed yesterday when his automobile was struck by a fast train at the crossing of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad on state route No. 173 near Russell.

Lewin was riding alone. Deputy Sheriff John Froelich of Lake county said that the view of the tracks is obstructed by a nearby house and that the crossing is protected only by a sign. Lewin is survived by the widow, a son, Leslie, and a daughter, Mrs. William Steihr.

Sylvester Jordan, 36 years old, 3048 Drake avenue, an entertainer, was arrested last night by Sheffield avenue police, and charged with being the hit and run driver who earlier in the day injured Mrs. Lena Lindquist, 52 years old, 3231 Osgood street. Mrs. Lindquist incurred a broken leg when she was run down as she was walking at Barry and Seminary avenues. Jordan is said to be employed in a Franklin Park night club. He denied any knowledge of the accident.

DEBATE IN SOUTH, LONG CHALLENGE TO ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Senator Long [Dem., La.] today proposed an open political debate on the New Deal with President Roosevelt and offered to "guarantee the crowds."

Long made the sugestion in the senate because of published reports that the President soon may visit Arkansas to support Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.] and open an anti-Long campaign in the south.

Although saying he would prefer to meet Mr. Roosevelt on a Louisiana platform, Long declared:

"If at any time I can accommodate the gentleman in helping to lay before the voters the great issues before us, I am at his beck and call, and, as a humble servant, ready to bow in respectful service to the learned chief executive of the United States."

Once quoted as saying he would try to defeat Robinson for reelection, Long said today he only undertook "to fight on my own soil," and that "I never invade foreign territory." He added he "didn't know the President conceded me a territory so large."

Patrick Dalton, 102 years old, 516 South Damen avenue, was the oldest settler at the 61st annual Old Settler's picnic, sponsored by the Chicago Turn Gemeinde yesterday at Riverview park.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Beaubien, 1043 61st court, Cicero, shared honors as son and daughter of the oldest permanent settlers in Chicago. They are second cousins. Mrs. Beaubien's father, Alec Beaubien, was the first white male child to be born in Chicagoland, while Mr. Beaubien's father, Mark, built the first house here.

The oldest couple to waltz at the afternoon dance were Mrs. Mary Marchant, 78 years old, 1635 Hollywood avenue, and Charles Schmidt, 80 years old, 2022 Marchand street.

INDIGENTS TREK INTO CALIFORNIA, UNWILLING HOST

State Wondering How It Can Carry Burden.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—California—particularly its southern part—is host to a horde of jobless, expectant indigents from almost all other parts of these United States, and more are coming to the estimated number of four or five hundred a day.

Exploitation of the Golden State's climatic charms has worked as a magnet to attract this embarrassing migration. They are coming in all manner of conveyances, droves of families without any means of support, camping en route and are quartered on the tax paying population of this state. And the people here don't know what to do about it. At any rate, just at present the residents are doubting the wisdom of the Golden State ballyhoo.

Traced to EPIC and Townsend.

This unwelcome invasion is a response to the recent state and local campaigns in which Sinclair and Townsend "share the wealth" agitation had so impressive a part. The wail of regret rises loudest in the Los Angeles area which is bearing the brunt of the influx.

"Make them work for their eats" is one remedy proposed to discourage the invasion into this supposed sunny land of milk and honey. Judges and charity leaders are making it a slogan. "California has all she can do to take care of her own," is what the Los Angeles Times has to say about the situation. Far sighted authorities express most concern over what may happen in the autumn when the federal government's aid to the destitute will be confined to work relief and when unemployables will be the charge of the state.

"The moral responsibility is on the federal government and on Upton Sinclair, who invited the migration," declares one authority.

Twelve Thousand a Month.

A request for official figures today brought information that an average of 12,000 transients are coming into California each month. During July the transient burden reached the boom stage with a total of 32,901 arriving. Of that burden, the load in Los Angeles county was 19,800 cases, or 62 per cent. Most of them comprise whole families.

Mrs. Dorothy Wysor Smith of Los Angeles county's transient aid department is authority for these figures. She says, however, that some go back home and some drop into private employment or find temporary occupation on the works relief program.

The only records available from the transient service naturally are of those persons who actually register with the service. Only those who can not escape it register, because the federal transient service seeks to make them work, explain why not, or leave the state, once they register. Some are sent back to their homes, the others are released if they can show they have a job either in hand or promised—the rest are put to work in camps. That is the theory.

Many Fail to Register.

But one employé of the transient service in Los Angeles estimated that only 50 per cent of the transients who enter the state register with the service. In the main they are pathetic and pitiful groups drifting in penniless from the central states where until recently dust storms and hard times were a feature.

Among the incoming groups, many are quoted as having been lured by reports, relayed to them in all sorts of ways, that old folks in this state will receive $50 a week or a month, or that homes will be provided, that orange groves are to be had for the asking, that Utopia is to be had. All these are more or less twisted versions of the Townsend or the Upton Sinclair proposals.

Speedily Disillusioned.

Arriving, they are quickly disenchanted. But they are here and the state is in a great quandary as to what to do with them.

Able bodied transients who cannot find a place for themselves in private or public employment, are put to work in Los Angeles county in the mountainous forest areas or upon the roads. During March the transient service estimates that in this area their men did $263,000 worth of such spading, rock laying, brush burning, and grading.

When the legislature was arguing over the proposed law that would bar transients who were paupers, or who would likely become public charges from entering the state, one assemblyman informed his fellows in a speech at Sacramento that from April, 1934, to March, 1935, 232,378 individuals registered with the federal transient service in California.

Senate Leaves Bars Down.

The effort to bar the transient paupers from the state in the last session of the legislature succeeded in the lower house, where the bulk of the EPIC's sit, but, strange to say, it was killed in the conservative senate. Reason: In the senate too many of the elder statesmen felt that they themselves, and many of their friends, came to California many years ago, virtually penniless, and made good, and they would not deny the same chance to any one else—emergency or no emergency, depression or no depression.

State Senator Culbert Olson of Los Angeles, chairman of the Democratic state central committee and leading Sinclair follower, sought unsuccessfully to amend the bill to include not only paupers who should be turned back at the state borders but also: "Financial racketeers, stock and bond jobbers, industrial monopolists, water stock manufacturers, corporation plunderers, despoilers of the savings of the poor, bank wreckers and defaulters, sweatshop owners and child labor exploiters, defrauders of widows and orphans, fraudulent promoters, family deserters, violators of private or public trusts, bribers of public officials, recipients of bribes, beneficiaries of fraudulent contracts secured through public agencies, millionaire wartime profiteers, and promoters of war."

In the assembly Lee Geyer, EPIC school teacher of Los Angeles, offered an amendment to bar also just plain millionaires, but he was likewise defeated. Then the original bill was beaten. And that leaves California as it was before, wondering what to do about it.

DR. RALPH WILLARD.

MONKEY, FROZEN SOLID 3 DAYS, IS BROUGHT TO LIFE

Chemist Seeks Cure for Tuberculosis.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—A monkey dead for three days and frozen solid was returned to life today, according to Dr. Ralph Willard, 32 year old research chemist who asserts his experiment may aid in stamping out tuberculosis and social diseases.

The scientist who quietly commented on his experiment is a Russian trained research chemist and former student of the College of the City of New York. His account tells how a small Rhesus monkey afflicted with tuberculosis, whose heart had not beaten for three days and who was frozen stiff in a specially prepared ice chamber, returned to life.

Died Last Thursday.

The experiment began last Thursday night when the tiny monkey was placed under ether and pronounced dead by a co-worker.

Then the monkey was subjected to periodic hypodermic injections of sodium nitrate, preventing coagulation of the blood while the rest of its body froze as hard as rock. Working rapidly, Dr. Willard and two laboratory assistants then doused the monkey's head with liquid carbon dioxide, producing instant freezing and forestalling the dissolution of brain tissues normally produced by death.

Immediately afterwards twenty pounds of liquid air blanketed the monkey and it became stiff as a board in ten seconds. For the ensuing three days Dr. Willard kept his subject in a freezing chamber at a temperature of twenty degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

At 10 p. m. Sunday night Dr. Willard prepared to climax his experiment. The monkey was removed from the ice chamber and placed in a heated compartment equipped with lights, warming coils and a hot air fan for ten slow hours of thawing.

At 7:30 a. m. today the monkey's stiff flesh was restored to a condition of "normal" rigor mortis. Fast work was imperative to prevent immediate decay.

Ten cubic centimeters of his own blood went into the monkey's tiny heart arteries, the scientist said. Then a one one-thousandth andrelin solution was pumped into the monkey's left ventricle. Next came injections of pituitary fluid and finally oxygen was applied.

Monkey Comes to Life.

Two minutes later the monkey shook convulsively and emitted a feeble moan.

"The animal acted as though it didn't want to come back to life," Dr. Willard said.

Whether the simian has been cured of tuberculosis cannot be verified for several days, Dr. Willard said. He declared, however, that he has unqualified hopes his freezing cure will stamp out tuberculosis, social diseases and other dread ailments.

SENATOR POPE DENIES PEACE MISSION RUMOR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Published reports that Senator Pope of Idaho will be an "unofficial envoy" for this country in Europe during the Italo-Ethiopian crisis were denied emphatically today at the White House.

Senator Pope told reporters he merely would be a "vacationist observer" at the league of nations meeting which will consider the situat— beginning Aug. 24.

At the White House it was said the President was not even aware Senator Pope was going abroad.

"Entirely unofficial" was Pope's description of the trip, which he expects to take him successively to London, Paris, Geneva, Rome, possibly on to Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, then back through Paris and London to New York. He sails Aug. 14 from New York on the Statendam, to be gone until early October.

URGES UNION OF U. S. AND BRITAIN TO SAVE WORLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Cooperation of the United States and Great Britain to avert world chaos was advocated tonight by Sir George Paish, economist, addressing a conference of the All People's association at Oxford. If the world continues as at present, Paish, declared, revolution will come in every country.

"We never have had such a war mind in the world as today," he said. "Italy is trying to save herself but is injuring the whole world and herself more. You have the German and Japanese problems—infinitly more dangerous. Sooner or later Germany is going to make war."

Paish contended, however, that "the British empire and the United States, united, can save the world from disaster."

This was announced yesterday by G. F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., which sponsors the program.

The winner will be taken to New York City, all expenses paid, plus a fee for his appearance. He will sing on a Tuesday night in September. The fall program opens Sept. 10, and is heard in Chicago over WMAQ at 9 p. m. Forty-one stations are on this hook-up.

Deems Taylor to Be Judge.

Deems Taylor, New York composer, music critic and radio commentator, who is master of ceremonies of this program, will come to Chicago for the vocal finals of the festival Aug. 17 in the Drake hotel, and will act as guest judge.

This offer follows a similar one made several days ago to the winning woman singer by the Northern Trust Company of Chicago. The winner will sing with the Northerners, directed by Harry Walsh, on Monday night, Aug. 19, from 9:30 to 10 o'clock over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station.

The two vocal winners will sing at the festival Aug. 17 before 100,000 people in Soldiers' field and will be heard over W-G-N. The champion vocalists will have been chosen from a field of nearly 700 contestants. Leading voice teachers of Chicago are the judges.

WEST SIDE CONTEST

An enthusiastic crowd attended the west side tryouts for tenors, contraltos, and baritones which were held last night in the Midwestern Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue. More than 100 singers competed. The winner of each group will compete with those from other sections of the county in the county finals Aug. 15 in the Drake hotel. Tryouts for sopranos and basses of the west side will be held at the same club tonight.

The judges last night were Rose Lutiger Gannon, a member of the Chicago public school musical staf; Carl Craven, choral conductor and teacher, and Nelli Gardini, a voice teacher.

Roy Anderson Best Baritone.

First place among the baritones was won by Roy Anderson, 31 years old, 1121 North Lakeside avenue, who sang "I Love Life," by Zucca. Mr. Anderson is a clerk in the RFC division of the Federal Reserve bank. Second place was taken by George H. Littell, 37 years old, 4935 Hull street, Niles Center, an insurance salesman, who sang "The Blind Plowman," by Robert C. Clark.

Among the contraltos first place was won by Miss Jean Price, 20 years old, 5905 Ohio stret, a graduate of the Austin High school, whose selection was Carrie Jacob Bond's "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Mae C. Gartin, 32 years old, 5204 Berteau avenue, the mother of five children, who sang "Calm as the Night," by Bohm, was second.

Cuthbertson Best Tenor.

Roy Cuthbertson, 40 years old, 617 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, whose choice was "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," by Geoffrey O'Hara, was first among the tenors. Cuthbertson, a salesman, played with Sousa's band during the war. Michael Singnorelli, 28 years old, 364 Lexington street, a violinist, appearing in his first vocal contest, who sang the Bizet song from "Carmen," was second. Jack Savage, 26 years old, 4207 West North avenue, an employé of the Chicago Surface Lines, whose selection was "At Dawning," by Charles Wakefield Cadman, was third.

MOSCOW PARLEY WARNED OF U. S. FASCIST GROWTH

MOSCOW, Aug. 5.—(AP)—William Z. Foster, one-time communist candidate for President of the United States, told the seventh congress of the third internationale today that a growing tendency toward the left by American workers is matched by a Fascist growth.

He accused Hearst, Father Charles E. Coughlin, Senator Huey Long, and Dr. F. E. Townsend of heading "pseudo-liberal movements" which are in reality bodies with Fascist leanings.

Foster assailed capitalism as having "failed to defend the national economy against the ravages of the economic crisis and the increasing class differences."

Another American speaker was Gil Green, representing the Communist Youth League of America. He told the communist congress than more than 1,000,000 young American workers have rallied to the standard of the anti-Fascist united front.

DUKE'S SON FACES TRIAL ON CHECK FORGING CHARGE

Manchester Peer Must Appear Aug. 13.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Lord Edward Montagu, second son of the duke of Manchester, appeared in West London Police court today on charges of stealing one check and forging another. The proceedings were purely formal, lasting less than a minute, and the dapper Lord Edward was remanded on bail until Aug. 13.

Recently his father was convicted of fraud by pawning jewelry which belonged to his mother's estate. He was later released on appeal after spending nearly a month in jail.

Bail Surety Found.

A hitch occurred in today's proceedings over the provision of $125 bail. Harold Lyell offered himself as surety, but was found to be Lord Edward's solicitor and was rejected. Later a Mrs. Falloon was accepted. Montagu, who had spent the interval cooling his heels in a cell, was released.

Lord Edward, whose varied career includes an unsuccessful attempt earlier this year to join the French Foreign Legion, was described on the charge sheet as Edward Eugene Fernando Montagu, aged 29, and independent.

Faces Four Charges.

The four charges against him included stealing a banker's check for 17 pounds 7 pence [about $84.46] which was the property of Mrs. Violet van der Elst, forging an endorsement on the check with intent to defraud, on July 16 uttering a check knowing the same to be forged, and on the same date receiving 13 pounds [about $64.48] on account of the check.

Lord Edward stood easily in the dock with his outstretched arms resting on the iron rail. He appeared bewildered with the swiftness with which the case was dealt and as he left the dock he grinned and passed a hand across his forehead. He left in a car accompanied by Mrs. Falloon.

FRENCH STRATO PLANE CRASHES; KILLS TEST PILOT

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(AP)—France's first stratosphere airplane was wrecked in a test flight today, killing its pilot, Marcel Cogno, 28. The plane, which had been three years in construction, was undergoing a final test when it crashed near Bonnieres.

A few spectators saw the plane gyrating wildly as without a pilot, then plunge to the earth. This gave rise to the theory the pilot fainted in the rarefied upper air. Cogno was one of France's crack test pilots.

The plane, single motored, had an air tight cylindrical cabin for the pilot and was supplied with compressed air. Its motor cylinders likewise were supplied with compressed air by an especially designed apparatus.

Evanston Girl Is Wounded by Vandals Father Routed

Lucille Jordan, 19 years old, was shot in the foot last night by gunmen who hurled missiles through the window of her father's barber shop at 1047 Chicago avenue, Evanston. The father, James, told police he had been previously troubled by such vandals and that when they appeared last night he fired a shotgun blast at their automobile. The attackers apparently drove around the block, returned, and fired three shots, one of which struck the girl, who had rushed to the sidewalk. At St. Francis hospital it was said her wound was not dangerous.

2 Cubans Sentenced to Death for Kidnap Threat

HAVANA, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Felipe Garcia Gener and Ramiro Aguirre were sentenced to death by the Urgency court today for threatening to kidnap and kill Dr. Abilio Valdes and his wife. They were convicted of attempting to extort $15,000 from the physician to finance alleged revolutionary activities.

200 YR. MYSTERY OF ARCTIC ISLAND BELIEVED SOLVED

Soviet Airman Sights Peaks North of Siberia.

MOSCOW, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Discovery of a mountainous, uncharted island in the icy wastes off the northern coast of Siberia was reported today by the soviet airman Maslenikov, during a flight from Cape Schmidt.

The report, wirelessed to Moscow from Dixon Island, said the aviator believed the island to be mysterious Andreyev's land, the existence of which has been debated for two centuries.

Maslenikov made two flights over the mysterious arctic island, lying northwest of Cape Shalaurov, he reported. The center is a valley, he said, surrounded by mountains.

Await Second Polar Attempt.

Commander Otto Schmidt of the northern sea route department expressed belief the aviator may have mistaken an ice formation for land.

At the same time uncertainty surrounded the plans of Sigmund Levanevsky and his two companions, forced to turn back to Leningrad when oil trouble developed during their projected transpolar flight to San Francisco Saturday.

Although there had been no official information concerning the plane since it landed near Leningrad Saturday night, it was generally believed the flyers would return to Moscow shortly, direct repairs and prepare for a new takeoff from here.

Test "Parachute Balloon."

A new wrinkle in aviation—the "parachute balloon"—meantime was tried out successfully near Moscow. Pilots Modestoff and Lisoff soared 16,650 feet in the balloon, expelled most of the gas in midair and landed safely.

Simultaneously with the escape of the gas and the consequent descent of the balloon, the underpart of the bag is designed to fold upward in such a manner that the bag gradually takes the form of a parachute.

The balloon, of 1,850 cubic meters, was invented by Tikhon Kulinichenko.

Calles' Son Recognized as Mexican Election Winner

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The National Revolutionary [government] party recognized today the victory of Plutarco Elias Calles Jr., son of the former "strong man" of Mexico, over Gen. Fortunato Zuazua, for the governorship of Nuevo Leon. Dispatches from the state of Colima meanwhile said Col. Miguel Santa Ana, defeated Col. Francisco Carrillo in elections yesterday for the state governorship.

VETO EXPECTED ON FULL PENSION FOR THE VETERANS OF '98

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—A veto of the bill restoring full pension payments to Spanish-American war veterans was indicated today at the White House.

Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, and Daniel Bell, acting director of the budget, presented a report on that measure to President Roosevelt.

It emphasized there is no provision to raise the $45,000,000 estimated cost of the legislation. Mr. Roosevelt offered no comment.

Hines also discussed at the White House additional hospitalization for veterans, mentioning Detroit, middle Tennessee, and Texas as prospective sites.

DELAY IN SCOUT PARLEY ASKED IN PARALYSIS SCARE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Demand that the Boy Scout jamboree planned here late this month be called off because of the infantile paralysis epidemic was made in the house today by Representative Rankin [Dem., Miss.].

"With this terrible disease spreading through this part of the country, and even the capital," Rankin said, "I am calling on the public health service to call off the jamboree."

The epidemic has been particularly severe in Virginia and North Carolina. Virginia health authorities have advised boys from that state not to attend.

Officials of the public health service decided a few days ago not to call off the Scouts' meeting.

80 Year Old Man Resists Robbers; Shot; Saves Cash

Conrad Grener, 80 years old, 7021 South Morgan street, was shot in the left shoulder last night by two gunmen who attempted to hold him up near his home as he was returning from his butcher shop at 5704 South Halsted street. Grener's resistance prevented the robbers from taking the $29 he carried. He was taken to St. Bernard's hospital.

RHODE ISLAND'S ELECTION TODAY NEW DEAL TEST

Risk, G. O. P. Candidate, Attacks Democrats.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The major political parties mobilized their forces tonight for a showdown on President Roosevelt's New Deal at a special congressional election here tomorrow. The Washington administration is the paramount issue, but the voters have indicated their apathy by failing to attend the rallies during the ten days' campaign.

From the populous industrial center in Blackstone valley, along the easterly side of Rhode Island, to the exclusive society, colony at Newport, 120,000 voters are eligible to cast their ballots for Antonio Prince, the Democratic candidate, or Charles F. Risk the Republican nominee.

About 60,000 to Vote.

Indications were tonight that not more than 60,000 voters would exercise their right.

The election is being held at this time because Francis B. Condon, who was elected on the Democratic ticket in the first congressional district last November, with a plurality of 21,000 votes, was elected to the Rhode Island supreme court bench.

Even though neither the Republican or the Democratic national committees has taken any active part in the campaign the local political leaders have insisted the election was the first major test of the 1936 presidential campaign. But the outcome, according to the local leaders may be affected by several other factors, including the racial question, which has been injected into the contest.

Gets Word from Farley.

Prince, who is serving his second term as state treasurer in Gov. Green's cabinet, is confident he will win even though he does not expect the plurality run up by Judge Condon, one of Rhode Island's most popular Democrats.

The Democratic nominee displayed a cable he had received indirectly from Postmaster General James A. Farley, who is enroute to Honolulu on a vacation. The message offered "good luck" to Mr. Prince and expressed "good wishes" on a successful career in Washington.

Risk Attacks New Deal.

While Mr. Prince has been a staunch defender of the New Deal even at the expense of many local issues, Mr. Risk has pounded the Washington administration for its reckless expenditure of public funds. The only help he received, however, from the Republican national committee was during a visit to Newport last week by the national committee's counsel, John Hamilton.

Mr. Hamilton attacked the New Deal and urged Mr. Risk to redouble his attacks on the Washington administration.

During the last week, United States Senator Peter G. Gerry, Democratic national committeeman from Rhode Island, and United States Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, Republican, returned to their home state to take sides in the congressional contest.

Denounces AAA Tax.

In his closing speech on the radio tonight, Mr. Risk, a former police court judge in the city of Central Falls, said the question to be decided tomorrow was "whether we are going to be sacrificed for the benefit of other parts of the country or take care of ourselves."

According to Mr. Risk, the Rhode Island mill owners have paid the federal government $4,700,000 on processing taxes, while only $4,458 had been returned to the state's farmers on the tax adjustment. He said the remainder of the assessment had been distributed among the southern and middle west farmers.

G.O.P. Senators Battle Over Socialism in War Profit Quiz

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special]—Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa and Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, both aspirants for the Republican nomination for President, today debated the socialist implications of the senate munitions inquiry. A Democrat, Senator Bennett C. Clark of Missouri, entered the Dickinson-Vandenberg feud to accuse the former of seeking campaign contributions from the makers of war materials.

Almost the entire day's session of the senate was occupied by this controversy, which grew out of an attack Senator Dickinson delivered several months ago on Stephen Rauschenbusch, Socialist investigator for the munitions committee. In a three hour speech today Senator Dickinson said the committee's recommendations for "nationalizing" the manufacture of arms and "taking the profits out of war" was in line with the general socialistic trend of the government.

Sees Assault on Defense.

"One of the things the Socialist wants to do is to overthrow the defense of the country," the white haired Iowan declared. "I am not one of those who believe that because a man has a particular view with reference to public utilities that he is a Socialist. I am not one of those who believe that if a man happens to be convinced that public ownership of communications is necessary he is a Socialist. But I do suggest that the whole trend running through the government machinery at present is a Socialist trend, and one of the things they want to do is to see to it that they have control of the defense of the country.

"Under the AAA farmers are being regimented. Under the TVA the public utilities are to be regimented. Under the banking bill we find a centralization of power. There is a general tendency all along the line toward regimentation, and now there is a proposal by this committee that we have a yardstick, which would be a government navy yard, to determine the price at which a vessel is to be built."

Cites Honors for Pacifist.

Senator Dickinson said The Nation, a radical magazine, had placed upon its 1934 honor roll one Dorothy Detzer, executive secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, for "persuading almost single handed the Progressive senate leaders to demand an inquiry into the arms trade, and for her many realistic activities in the interest of peace."

He declared that Investigator Rauschenbusch and members of the committee were unduly influenced by Miss Detzer and that Rauschenbusch frequently had lunch with her in the senate office building. He read at length from the writings of Rauschenbusch, all of a socialistic nature, advocating government ownership of the forces of production. He said Rauschenbusch had access, as a senate investigator, to the secret files of the war and navy departments and could bring back such as he wished "or reserve in the back of his head such information as he may desire with reference to the future use he can make of it in carrying out the type of program he has in mind."

Calls Philosophy Absurd.

Senator Vandenberg, who, like Senator Clark, is a member of the munitions committee, said he offered no defense for a socialistic state but refused to accept "the absurd philosophy that I immediately become one if I happen to hit the war system which has crucified this world for a thousand years."

"I decline to allow the Socialist party and the communists of America," he said, "to enjoy a monopoly of that great thinking, right thinking, clean thinking effort which proposes, if humanly possible, to quarantine this war monster if it can be done and save the generations of tomorrow in so far as possible from crucifixion."

He said Senator Dickinson had sought to leave the impression that everything the munitions inquiry had produced in the way of an "anti-war program" was "either of Socialist origin or of communist net result."

Not Defending Socialism.

"I have no defense to offer for a socialistic state because I have no interest in it," he said. "But if the purpose is to make it difficult for the munitions committee and its principles to demonetize war and to promote neutrality, then I protest in the name of millions of Americans who are not Socialists and who are not communists but who decline again to be swept into needless war."

Senator Clark accused Senator Dickinson of "trying to get under the wing of the munitions makers and to make himself the candidate of the American Liberty ague for President." He repeated previously made charges that Senator Dickinson's material on Rauschenbusch was supplied by William B. Shearer, shipbuilders' lobbyist, which Senator Dickinson denied.

"The munitions makers always have been among the most liberal contributors to presidential campaigns," Clark declared.

Orders Gene Oliver's Arrest in Alimony Case

Judge George Fred Rush of the Circuit court yesterday issued a writ of attachment for the arrest of Gene G. Oliver, former county assessor who served a federal prison term for income tax evasion. Oliver is accused of being $160 behind in the $13 weekly alimony payments he was ordered last June to pay his wife, Nettie.

Oral Gets New Mattress and It Costs Him $17,000

Algood, Tenn., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Oral Bilbrey's wife made him a bed out of nice clean straw. The farmer was away from home when his wife decided to fill her mattresses. She had to empty the old straw, so she built a bonfire. Bilbrey had accumulated $17,000 in currency, stocks, notes and the like and hidden it in one of the mattresses.

JOCKIES BLAMED FOR U. S. LAG IN RECOVERY RACE

Talmadge Lists Riders of New Deal.

Dawsonville, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP)—In a new blast at the national administration Gov. Eugene Talmadge today said he would support President Roosevelt for reelection in 1936 if he quit "his course of communism" and let American industry and agriculture out of the "hospital."

The Georgia governor, whose recent activities have been interpreted as meaning he might make a bid for the presidency, added that unless the present policies in Washington are changed he will make a "coast to coast" fight to "put Americans there who will stand by the constitution and by the principles of Jeffersonian Democracy."

Court Week in County.

It's court week in Dawson county, and Talmadge spoke here to town and county officials and a group of farmers during the noon recess of the court.

Scoring the national administration, Talmadge said American industry "is making some strides in spite of the New Deal."

"It reminds me of a horse race where a horse is being held in with the bridle and bit," he continued. "What would happen in Saratoga and Louisville if the jocky were continually pulling up his horse with the bridle and bit.?

"Whole crowds would rise up and shout: 'Give him his head and give him the reins.'

Sees Destruction in Course.

"If you will take jockies like Tugwell, Hopkins, Wallace, Mordecai Ezekiel, Morgenthau, and other names I cannot spell and cannot pronounce, out of the saddle, you will see the American horse representing business and work come to the front.

"As long as President Roosevelt continues his course of communism he is going to continue to depress the industry of this country. As long as he continues to listen to the brain trusters he is going to shrivel the souls of the people who want to work. As long as he continues his course of thinking that every article should be taxed to the limit he is going to encourage destruction and pilfering from coast to coast.

"The present policies at Washington are not American, and if they are continued for four more years they will wreck the Union."

HOWARD HOPSON WINS VICTORY IN TAX ACTION

Court Decides Against U. S. Government.

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Howard C. Hopson, missing witness, who has been sought for weeks by the United States senate lobby committee, won a victory today in his fight to prevent the federal government from inspecting records of five corporations, all subsidiaries of his National Public Utilities Investing corporation, which is the subject of an income tax investigation.

The government sought the books and papers of record of the corporations to determine the tax liability of the parent company for the years 1929 to 1933, inclusive, and recently, Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe signed an order requiring Hopson to produce the needed documents.

Hopson Wins Appeal.

Hopson's attorneys appealed and today, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, by a two to one decision, vacated Judge Coxe's order, the majority opinion holding that the papers were not in Hopson's possession.

Hopson, so far as it could be learned, is still missing to the lobby committee, which wishes to question him about his activities in the fight of the utility interests against the "death clause" in the administration's holding company bill.

Books Sought by U. S.

In the income tax matter the United States attorney's office here sought books of the Utilities Investing Company, Inc., General Public Utilities company, International Public Utility Investing Company, Inc., North American Development, Ltd., all of Newfoundland, and Public Utility and Financial Securities Corporation of Delaware.

Hopson is president of the parent company under investigation. He is also one of its directors and its largest stockholder, according to John F. Davidson, assistant United States attorney.

ARREST 17 POLL OFFICIALS OVER FRAUDS IN 1934

Bonds of $2,500 each were set yesterday for seventeen officials in the primary and general elections of 1934 upon their arrest on contempt citations issued by County Judge Edmund J. Jarecki. Yesterday's seizures raised the number arrested on charges of elections frauds to 33. Forty-two other citations are in process of being served.

The bonds were set by Judge Win G. Knoch of Du Page, sitting in County court. With the consent of Attorney Thomas Johnson Jr., special prosecutor for the court, the bonds of two women officials, Mrs. Sophie Daley, 1000 Jackson boulevard, and Miss Gladys Konsack, 1301 Washington boulevard, were reduced to $1,000 each.

The first of the contempt cases will be called for trial before Judge Jarecki on Aug. 27.

SENATE WILL DIG INTO ROOSEVELT WHISPER ATTACK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The senate lobby committee tonight planned a deep investigation of what it termed the recent "whispering" campaign against President Roosevelt.

With procedure still tentative it expected to call public utility officials who received E. P. Cramer's suggestion that rumors questioning the chief executive's competence and sanity be broadcast as part of a general program for discrediting the New Deal. Cramer, New Jersey advertising man, testified his suggestion was not accepted, but that a whispering campaign had developed in recent weeks.

Plan Early Hearing.

At the same time the senate investigators planned to give early hearing to Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war in the Hoover cabinet. He is eager to discuss testimony that the Associated Gas and Electric company paid him $25,000 in connection with its campaign against the administration utilities bill.

Indications were evident meanwhile of a new effort to adjust the differences between that measure as passed by house and senate and break the deadlock that has delayed conference action three weeks.

"Whisperer" Is Fired.

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 5.—(AP)—E. P. Cramer, who suggested to utility officials that a whispering campaign be used to discredit President Roosevelt and the New Deal, was discharged today by Thomas A. Edison, Inc.

In a statement signed by Charles Edison, president of the company and son of the late inventor, the firm said:

"A careful investigation has developed the fact that Mr. E. P. Cramer, acting wholly on his own initiative and on his responsibility as a private citizen, has written letters to certain public utility interests recommending, among other measures, a 'whispering campaign' against the President and other national officials.

"Thomas A. Edison, Inc., is not a public utility, has no interest in the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, and no interest in Mr. Cramer's political views. Mr. Cramer's connection with this company terminates today."

TREASURY SEEKS TO REVIVE MEASURE TO MINT SMALL COINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—To avoid embarrassment for Illinois and three other sales tax states, congress should pass the bill permitting the federal government to mint fractional coins, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau declared today in an effort to revive the fractional coinage bill.

At the same time the treasury secretary made public the final opinion of his legal advisers saying that it is "unlawful" for Illinois and other states to issue sales tax tokens, but the treasury lawyers once more dodged sending a formal notice to Illinois demanding retirement of the tokens. Illinois has been only informally asked to withdraw its tokens.

Secretary Morgenthau probably will be forced to compromise with the house of representatives coinage, weights, and measures committee in order to rejuvenate his fractional coinage bill and get it passed. The committee tabled the bill because it gave the treasury wide discretionary power to mint any coins it saw fit instead of authorizing specific coins.

Treasury lawyers have already been talking with the committee chairmen in both the house and senate and will agree to a bill specifically authorizing a half cent piece and a one mill coin.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Grass Roots Chiefs Meet to Map Program.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Increasing shifts in sentiment against President Roosevelt and the New Deal were reported to the Republican Grass Roots committee of fifty from ten midwest states which gathered at the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday for a two day session.

In assembling a cross-section of public opinion, delegates declared that what farmers and business men are now talking of most against the New Deal are the "planned economy" socialistic experiments of the brain trust, the high cost of living, the loss of American markets abroad, the growing mountain of debt and increasing taxes, and the attacks on the constitution and on the Supreme court since it unanimously declared the national industrial recovery act unconstitutional.

Mapping Thorough Program.

The Grass Roots committee, which was created by the June G. O. P. Grass Roots conference at Springfield, is meeting to formulate a program for carrying the movement into every precinct and county in the ten participating states. These are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and South Dakota.

Headquarters are to be set up in Chicago. Four other states are to be invited to join—Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, and Tennessee. This is with a view of giving a setup for a central and midwest area of fourteen states conforming to regional divisions suggested by the national committee.

This was agreed on late yesterday. Today plans for a permanent organization with a full line of officers are to be submitted by a committee, of which C. J. Boyle of Springfield is chairman. Other members are Mrs. George Prichard, Iowa; Ward F. Senn, Minnesota; Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, Wisconsin, and Fred Coogan, Oklahoma.

Last night a committee on activities was working on a plan. It is composed of Edward A. Hayes, Decatur, former national commander of the American Legion, chairman; Miss Martha McClure, Iowa; Harvey Fleming, South Dakota; Grover Dalton, Missouri; Grant Gates, Kansas.

Lay Financial Groundwork.

A financial policy for raising funds to carry on the Grass Roots movement and the campaign against the New Deal and to "Save the Constitution" is being prepared by a committee composed of George A. Ball, Indiana, chairman; Arthur B. Fontaine, Wisconsin; Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Lake Forest, Ill.; Arthur M. Curtis, Missouri, and Tom C. Johnson, Kansas.

No candidacies for the presidency are under consideration. The committee is adhering to the policy of the Springfield Grass Roots roundup to keep individual aspirations for office out of the picture.

National committeemen and state chairmen have been made ex-officio members of the committee in states where they are not on the appointed delegation. John Hamilton of Kansas, chairman of the Springfield roundup, is temporary chairman of the committee, and Jo Ferguson of Oklahoma, temporary secretary.

Democrats Support Movement.

Support for the movement is coming from Democrats as well as Republicans it was reported by Harrison Spangler, Iowa national committeeman, who called the committee together.

"Our reports from ten states," he said, "are most encouraging. Our reports show the people are becoming more and more aroused to the dangers existing in a continuance of the policies of the New Deal. The country is not to be fooled by the unfulfilled promises of a Utopia being made daily by Mr. Roosevelt and his followers."

In Missouri, the attack on the United States Supreme court, President Roosevelt's famous press talk on "horse and buggy days," and the White House suggestion that state rights might be curtailed to develop a centralized burocracy, have many Democrats up in arms, according to Arthur M. Curtis and Grover Dalton. Mr. Curtis is Missouri national committeeman and Mr. Dalton is Republican state chairman.

"In Missouri," Messrs. Curtis and Dalton reported, "Democrats of the Jim Reed type are shifting from Roosevelt. Some of them are donating to the Republican organization now."

H. C. of L. Worries New England.

Conditions in New England were described by Chairman Hamilton of Kansas, who has just finished a ten day trip through that region.

"New England at present," he said, "looks safely Republican. In New Hampshire, a typical New England state, all one hears is complaint at the high cost of living.

"New Hampshire farmers this year received $40,000 under government crop allotments, but the government took $1,500,000 from textile industries in processing taxes to go down south.

"In New England the issue is: 1—High cost of living. 2—The threat of excessive taxation. 3—The failure to get proper tarif protection against importation of textiles, particularly Japanese."

Minnesota farmers, according to Ward F. Senn, chairman of the association of Republican county chairmen of Minnesota, are aroused over the invasion of foreign agricultural products, notably rye. Last year, he said, they got 60 or 70 cents for rye at the elevator, but this year only 30 cents. They are alarmed, too, over Washington's prodigal spending.

Arthur B. Fontaine, Wisconsin national committeeman, declared the New Deal doctrin of scarcity is causing must shift of farm sentiment.

FERRIS TESTIFIES HE DIDN'T SHOOT ATTY. DICKINSON

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—William Lee Ferris, police character, took the witness stand today in the Recorder's court. There he and his three "party girl" associates are on trial for the holdup murder of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney. The four are charged with robbing Dickinson of $134 after they had lured him to a lonely spot in Rouge park where he was slain.

The dapper Ferris, whose true name is William Schweitzer, told of a drinking party, in which he said the attorney and the three women—Florence Jackson, Loretta Jackson, and Jean Miller—had participated the night before the slaying. He said Dickinson drank out of Loretta Jackson's slipper.

"He tried to take Flo's slipper off," he testified, "but she refused, so he grabbed Bobbie's [Loretta's] before she could jerk her foot back, and drank out of it. Then he wiped it out with his handkerchief and got down on his knees and put her shoe back on."

As to the death ride, Ferris said as he stopped the car in the park he heard a shot and, looking back, saw the attorney lying across the seat with a gun in his hand.

ANNUAL SUPPLY SHIP OFF TODAY FOR PT. BARROW

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The motorship North Star will sail tomorrow on her fourth annual battle with the Arctic ocean ice floes to carry a year's supply of food, fuel, clothing to Point Barrow, Alaska.

Approximately 10,000 whites and natives of northwest Alaska are dependent on the North Star for their existence, said J. R. Ummel, agent for the department of interiar, which operates the vessel.

In addition to tons of all the staple articles of white man's diet, clothing, medical supplies, and school equipment the North Star will call at Seward for her usual load of coal for the fuelless far north.

Aboard her will be 14 teachers entering service in Alaskan schools.

Ice still is solid at Barrow and probably will go out in September. Usually the port of Barrow is open only 15 days a year.

PROCESS TAXES GET BLAME IN DETROIT STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Harassed Detroit butchers want the Agricultural Adjustment administration to explain existing meat prices to the women whose buying strike has cost them thousands of dollars in spoilage and lost sales.

"Thousands are naturally upset over high prices," Emil Schwartz, director of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, said today, "but we are going to try to get a government man to give an official explanation."

Retail dealers and packers blame AAA processing taxes as largely responsible. Strikers demand prices be reduced at least 20 per cent.

Schwartz predicted that almost all Detroit butcher shops would be closed after Thursday unless the strike ended.

THE KEY TO PRISON ESCAPES.

The criminal supermind is mostly myth. If you don't believe so spend a little time about police stations or the courts. Observe the specimens of humanity on whom the labels of master burglar, Fagin, arch criminal, etc., have been pinned. They don't measure up to their legends.

Once this premise is admitted the tales of the marvelous cunning by which prison breaks are effected crumble away. Jail and prison guards are usually no shining lights of intelligence, but neither are they complete morons, and they work more often than not under competent and intelligent supervision.

The story of Dillinger's wooden gun, fetching as it was, hasn't held water very well in the light of subsequent disclosures. The convict Fernekes may have twisted his warders at Joliet around his fingers, but it is more probable that if the whole story ever comes to light it will be found that some one was paid to look the other way.

As the story of the escape now stands Fernekes had to be not only a supermind but a hypnotist as well to get away by guile alone. The four guards already dismissed may well have been guilty of simple stupidity. Their principal fault was that they failed to penetrate his disguise.

But it is still to be explained how he assumed the disguise. It is stretching stupidity too far to expect it alone to account for the smuggling inside the prison of a suit of civilian clothes. It is stretching it too far to account for any one giving the convict a chance to don the suit and hide his prison uniform. Too many people had to be stupid.

Stupidity undoubtedly played its part, but the root of the Fernekes escape lies in politics. Politics was responsible, first of all, for the stupid guards. Politics, moreover, was the channel through which any payments flowed to make stupidity blinder.

Prison escape is the last resort of the alliance of crime and politics after efforts to fix the police, the juries, the courts, and the parole board have failed. The last card, the ace.

THE RIGHT OF PROTEST.

When K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, wrote to the seventy thousand stockholders of the company suggesting that they try to protect their interests it seemed probable that congress would soak the little fellows who are investors in big companies on the assumption that all the stock in big ones is held by big fellows. It seems less probable now. Mr. Kingsbury tried to start a correspondence between his stockholders and their congressmen. Maybe he did. General Motors undertook the same thing with its 415,000 stockholders; so also other companies with widely held stock. Presently congress will be mad again.

Supposedly the right of petition is unimpaired, but we doubt it. It was rash to submit petitions against slavery when slavery controled congress, although John Quincy Adams persisted in doing it. It is now becoming rash for an investor, big or little, to say he doesn't like to have inequitable laws take his savings from him. He doesn't like it. He doesn't know why he should submit to it.

When Dr. Hugh S. Magill of the American Federation of Utility Investors put his protests in the language justified by the cause and the occasion he was told that his statements might get him in trouble. They were self-evident truths. He was told he might be punished. When John Elliot's family asked for his body Charles L. said: "Let him be buried in the parish where he died." That was the Tower. Eliot had spoken a few truths. For that he was locked up. Charles in his own mind was a benign king.

The federal government needs to be put in its place and kept there.

A CARTOON AND AN EMPEROR.

An American magazine having included the emperor of Japan in a cartoon along with Huey Long, William Randolph Hearst, J. P. Morgan, and Admiral Byrd, the Japanese government makes formal diplomatic protest. Seizure of the magazine copies in Japan was not sufficient atonement. Huey Long has not been heard from. He is the only other potentate involved who might exercise prerogatives. He'll probably think it just so much more favorable notice.

Most people know that the Japanese emperor is regarded as a sacred person and most people do not gratuitously hurt other people's feelings. To Americans the cartoon was a harmless one, but they are willing to see the other fellow's side. Not one Japanese in a million could have seen the picture. The offense was here, where it was not seen as an offense. There are elements in the Japanese government which make the worst of every incident for provocative purposes. Here apparently is another instance.

American susceptibilities rarely carry further than the flag. The Yankees create few sacred persons or, putting it more truly, few of them create any. "Only a queen could wear a hat like that" had to come out of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" in Britain, along with references to the prince of Wales being a good Elk. He had to send to America for unexpurgated copies, but the British ambassador was not required to put on his tall hat and trot over to the state department.

A French cartoon treating Victoria scurrilously had the English in an uproar in her day. It was, you might say, Gallic. The British censor frequently works on American texts which reveal that the authors do not understand royalty and its place in the affections. When the American play "The Royal Family," went to London its title was changed. Everybody knew the theatrical family contributing the characters, but the censor took no chances.

The Nazis protested on the occasion of the recent offense to their flag in New York harbor, but that involved a disorderly act. Any one who failed of respect to Hitler, his name, his house, his book, his ideas, his person, or his dog in Germany would have a painful experience, but Hitler hasn't yet made an issue of the cartoons abroad. If he does he'll be busy.

A BILL FOR UNDESIRABLE ALIENS.

Proposals to break down the immigration quota system set up in 1924 to protect American labor against competition from the slums of Europe are not new. The alien bloc in congress introduces them at every session, and in the last decade has accomplished some effective chiseling at the barrier.

The Kerr bill, now pending in the lower house, is an exceptionally dangerous example of these measures, both because it contemplates a wider destruction of immigration barriers than has ever been accomplished before and because it has the backing of the department of labor. Madam Secretary Perkins sees in it the social worker opportunity which no social worker may be expected to forgo.

The Kerr bill sets new and undesirable limitations on deportable crimes. As an example, it distinguishes among aliens convicted of narcotic violations between dope peddlers, who may be deported, and addicts, who may be permitted to remain in the United States as a continuing burden on our correctional institutions and public health facilities.

Even the limited grounds for deportation are not in most cases mandatory. They are subject to the discretion of an interdepartmental committee, which to all intents and purposes is the discretion of Madam Secretary Perkins as to whether the deportation is "in the public interest." The direction which her decisions may be expected to take was indicated by the testimony of her aids at the committee hearing on the bill. Even under the present mandatory statutes deportations have been cut by more than half since she took office.

The provisions of the bill for deporting illegally entered aliens may only by the widest stretch of imagination be called law. They resemble more the rules for a glorious game of hide and seek, with virtually no penalties for being caught. If the alien intruder entered the country before July 1, 1924 (or, for practical purposes, if he claims he did, such illegal matters being naturally difficult of disproof), he automatically has a king's X against the immigration inspectors.

Or if he can dodge the inspectors for ten years he is reasonably safe, being in danger only from some unexpected tantrum of the secretary of labor. Still more comforting is the provision that he may be permitted to stay if he "has living in the United States a parent, spouse, legally recognized child, or, if a minor, a brother or sister, who has been lawfully admitted for permanent residence or is a citizen of the United States."

There is little wonder that a study of the measure caused an American minority in the alien-dominated congressional committee which recommended its passage to reach the following conclusion:

"The bill boldly and audaciously raises the issue of whether one is for or against America and Americans and law-abiding, law-observing aliens lawfully in our country. The bill would decrease alien deportations and increase immigration, and would substitute indefinite personal administration and personal government for traditional definite administration by written law, definite practices and fixed precedents, and we therefore urge its defeat."

Editorial of the Day

DANGEROUS GUESSWORK.

[Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.]

Expectation of $275,000,000 revenue from the share-the-wealth tax bill reported to the house yesterday, in obedience to President Roosevelt's orders, is not based on calculation, nor is it properly to be termed an estimate. It is aptly described as "rough guesswork." Gains to the federal treasury by reason of higher rate of levy can be figured out with paper and pencil. Losses to the federal treasury by reason of the brake put on business enterprises and consequent decrease of business earnings cannot be figured with accuracy, and no one seems to have given them any consideration.

Successful business enterprise in the past has made "excess" profits, that is, profits above the amount distributed to its owners, including stockholders, and it has been the custom of such successful management to plow these "excess" profits back into the business, in that way business has grown, plant and equipment have been expanded, facilities have been improved. The value to business in general, to employment, wage earners and wages, to general welfare, even to the federal treasury in taxable resources created, resulting from this plowing back process, is not easily to be calculated.

Taxation that destroys, or even deadens, enterprise is not productive, or in any way advantageous, no matter what may be the apparent increase of revenue expected from it.

THE END.

The motorist was hurrying and the pedestrian hadn't a chance. There was a grinding of brakes and a thump. Ten minutes later the pedestrian regained consciousness to find the motorist bending over him.

"Where am I?" he asked.

"What, don't you know?" roared the motorist angrily. "I've lost my way, and I've been waiting all this time while you came to your senses so that you could put me right."—Kabelgram.

WAKE-LINE MAIL BOX.

DEAR WAKE-LINE: I was looking through the dictionary trying to find out how to spell the word "pooch," meaning dog, and I came across the French word, "puce," meaning flea—don't you think that's close enough?

Anyway, the pooch I am writing about is a cocker spaniel, 5 weeks old, and he breezed into camp late one afternoon, all ears and smile. He was on his own, but he missed his mother at times and grieved, and the old maid English setter of the camp would not comfort him.

That night, as the cool northern lake evening closed, he and the camp kid made friends for life as they huddled under the bunk blankets and listened to the whispering birch and the chuck, chuck, chuck of the hammer crane along the lake shore. In the morning the kid's face and ears were suspiciously clean.

The birch smoke curled blue and the odor of bacon and coffee was in the air as he followed the kid to the camp dock for the morning plunge. And, Harvey, here's what I wanted to tell you [you and Bob Becker can believe it or not]: As the pooch stood on the dock viewing the great expanse of lake and watched the kid fluttering around taking his morning swim, old ancestral instincts awaked in his young developing brain. He jumped into the lake and retrieved the kid. Loco.

It was the morning after "circus day" in Madison, Wis. Ringling Brothers had just left after two crowded performances and every one was still excited over the wild animal acts, especially the small boys.

In a vacant lot, out on Blount street, stood a billboard with the circus poster still there. An enormous lion, with full tawny mane, mouth wide open, teeth gleaming, snarled savagely at the quiet street. But he was taken care of promptly.

On a packing box, pulled up before the poster, stood a ragged little boy of 10 years with a whip made of a branch of a tree and a clothes line. He was whipping that savage beast into submission with mighty lashes, shouting in a childish treble, "Careful, there, you lion. Don't you try any funny business now. [Whip, whip, whip on the billboard.] Guess that'll show you who's boss. Now back to your place; hurry now [slap, slap, slap]."

Don't you wish you were a small boy of 10 with a childish imagination after seeing a big circus? H. B. Moran.

How about giving the youngsters a chance in The Wake-Line? Why not devote one day's space to contributions from children and young people under 18 years old? Always Young.

THE OLD ARGUMENT.

"Then why, since lastly every fort must fall,
Prepare so gravely this heroic fight:
Since Time will grind the stone of every wall,
Defend a destined city with our might?
These temples that we carve so honestly,
Concealing from the gods no flaw or cheat,
What comfort will they hold for you and me
When we are dust against a century's feet?"

"My Love, the choice is neither yours nor mine;
When men build temples, then the gods command
And we who build acknowledging a shrine
Lie bruised but victors while our altars stand.
Perhaps some digger in the dust will free
The fragment of a perfect metope."

VACCINES AND COLDS.

THE pursuit of the elusive cause of colds continues and a veritable army of investigators is marching and countermarching, seeking an advantageous position for attack.

Colds abound wherever bacteria laden dust exists and affect all members of society. While there is a greater incidence of colds at the change of seasons, yet they occur with annoying frequency throughout the year. Summer colds are sometimes harder to shake off than winter colds.

It has been shown rather conclusively that a filterable virus prepares the soil for cold infections. If the mouth, throat, and nasal passages are free from bacteria the filterable virus in itself does little or no damage. It functions, however, much as the plow and harrow prepare a field for sowing. Through its vicious offices the mucous membranes of the body—perhaps the blood itself—are made ready to receive and nourish such disease producing organisms as the pneumococcus, the streptococcus, and the bacillus of influenza. Antibodies are found in the blood of patients convalescing from acute colds and in some perfectly well persons. Whenever these antibodies exist in high concentration there are fewer colds.

The recent report of George E. Rockwell and others is significant as indicating that vaccine [killed bacteria] administered by mouth would confer a certain amount of protection from infections. Two groups of individuals were compared. In the first, 500 persons, including nurses, office employés, machine shop workers, etc., were given vaccines, while 536 others pursuing similar occupations were observed as to the incidence of colds but were not given vaccine.

The vaccine was made by growing pneumococci and streptococci for 24 hours in beef broth. The bacteria were then precipitated and killed by heat. A paste was made by mixing the dead organisms with starch and the material was administered by capsules. Each capsule contained approximately one hundred billion killed pneumococci and the same number of streptococci. One capsule [with a half glass of water] was taken before breakfast for seven consecutive mornings; thereafter one capsule a week.

Rockwell's report notes that of the 500 treated cases 38 had suffered previously from continuous colds. After the administration of vaccine these 38 patients had during the year a total of but 41 colds. We cannot disregard the means that changed the status of these persons from a continuous infection that lasted throughout the year to but one cold per year, and that of only a few days' duration.

The remaining treated cases, namely, 462, had suffered an average of three or more colds per year. While taking the vaccine this number was reduced to 1.3 colds per person, or a decrease of 57 per cent. Among the group not receiving vaccine there was a reduction of 12 per cent in the number of colds. While the difference between 12 and 57 per cent may not appear large, yet to the cold sufferer this reduction constitutes a real achievement. No unfavorable symptoms due to the use of the vaccine were reported, and there was found in the blood of the vaccine users a marked increase in the amount of neutralizing substance to infection, the increase bearing a direct ratio to freedom from colds.

The method has a very practical application, inasmuch as it is simple. Just how and why this plan of vaccination succeeds is not entirely clear. We must either revise our former notions that vaccines given by mouth are without effect—that is, destroyed by the bile—or offer a new explanation.

DREAMS.

W. A. S. writes: I have read that it is natural to dream, but it does not seem natural in my case. I dream every night, all night long, and so startling and vivid are the dreams that they stay with me all day. Because of this I never feel rested when I wake up.

REPLY.

Dreams are the result of the activity of the subconscious mind. The more exhausted we are at bedtime the more we may dream. When the intestinal tract is overloaded dreams result. Most persons dream with fair regularity, but if the nerves can be rested during the day fewer dreams will occur. You require a greater amount of rest and less evening excitement. Try going to bed early, after a light evening meal. Keep the bowels open and avoid stimulating food and drink.

One cannot tell how long a dream may last. Events occupying hours may be dreamed about in a few minutes.

AMEBA.

D. R. writes: How is amebic infection—the kind that causes ulceration of the intestine—spread?

REPLY.

Amebic dysentery is caused by endameba histolytica. Each organism consists of a tiny bit of protoplasm that contains cysts. These cysts are typical of the disease producing ameba as they are not present in the harmless varieties. It is estimated that 5 per cent of the population of the United States is infested with endameba histolytica and about half of these will show some symptoms of intestinal disturbance. The infection may be spread by contaminated food and water, by flies, and by food handlers who are unclean in their personal habits. Thorough washing of the hands in soap and water will free them from infectious material. There are several effective forms of treatment, including the use of emetine, carbarsone, and certain other drugs that are poisonous to the endameba.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

A mine of information for the sufferer from tuberculosis is contained in the small volume recently issued by the Journal of Outdoor Life, 50 West 50th street, New York City, called "One Thousand Questions and Answers on T. B." This book is edited by Dr. Fred H. Heise and sells for 75 cents.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

MAY NOT APPLY.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—A young man came to this country from Spain in 1923 for a visit of six months and never went back. A year ago he married an alien who came to this country for permanent residence and who took out a declaration of intention [first paper] over three years ago. This man has never been in trouble with the law and is of good character and education. 1. May this man become an American citizen? 2. May his wife apply for her second papers and become a citizen? 3. Is this man liable to be deported merely for the reason stated? 4. Are there any steps this man could take in order to become an American citizen? W. K.

1. Under the facts stated, the husband is not in a position to apply for citizenship papers. Existing legislation provides only for the legalization of residence of those aliens here illegally who entered prior to June 3, 1921. There is pending in congress proposed legislation to extend this privilege to those who entered between June 3, 1921, and July 1, 1924.
2. Yes.
3. No.
4. The only way for him to adjust his status at this time would be for him to leave this country and make a legal entry for permanent residence.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT.

JOINT TENANCY PROPERTY.

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A will was made by my husband twenty years ago in my favor. At the time he made the will he owned no real estate, but since then real estate has been acquired. My name [wife] appears on abstract, and on mortgage to building and loan through which property was purchased, and also on the release of mortgage to building and loan. My husband passed away. 1. Since we were joint tenants, must the will be probated? 2. How long a time can I defer probate? 3. Since the home owned by joint tenants is the only asset, is there need of the will? Is will legal if not witnessed and sealed by ap [4] attorney or [5] notary? K. C.

1. Not necessary as to joint tenancy real estate.
2. Indefinitly as far as the facts stated are concerned.
3. Not if this is the only asset.
4 and 5. Not necessaray, but two attesting witnesses are required.

NAMING EXECUTOR.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it necessary under law for an executor of a will to furnish bond and for how much? 2. If a lawyer is named executor can he claim executor's fees and lawyers' fees also? 3. Where the estate consists of bonds, how long a time after death would it be most economical to settle estate? If turned into money for less than par, would a longer time be more expense than a lesser time? 4. Would it be proper, in giving an institution bonds, to name the bonds and amounts, or to sell the bonds and give cash instead? 5. What is the lawful sum allowed in a will for an executor? M. N.

1. Most wills expressly provide that the executor shall not be required to furnish surety on his official bond. The court in such cases usually requires his personal bond for double the amount of the personal property.
2. Unless the will provides otherwise, he could claim only in one capacity.
3. Ordinarily the settlement is a little after a year. We cannot advise on your specific facts without having those facts before us.
4. It could be done either way in the will. If the will makes the gift, then we cannot construe it without having the wording before us.
5. Depends on facts that are not before us. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Spaghetti is usually regarded as a distinctly "Italian dish," but the facts are that this dish did not originate in Italy but dates much further back. It is claimed that this food was used in China many thousands of years ago, long before the Italians even knew of such a dish.

MILITARISM AND THE R. O. T. C.

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 31.—There has appeared so much in the press recently against the youth of America, and especially in Chicago, having the opportunity of securing the benefits of the R. O. T. C. training that I felt a few facts might be of interest to your readers.

As is usually the case, this criticism is based largely on theory and comes as does much of our New Deal philosophy from those who have had no practical experience in the matter. Not to make too long an article, I will not touch upon the pronounced benefits that come from this training, physically, mentally, socially, and, to a larger extent than most of our church friends realize, morally.

I have been connected with a well known military academy either as commandant or superintendent for over forty years. This academy has always had the reputation with the war department of maintaining a very effective R. O. T. C. unit. At the beginning of the world war in 1917 the school had been in operation twenty-eight years, during which period 1,487 students had been in attendance one or more years. It stands to reason that a large percentage of these young men came to the academy because they were interested in military work in life and would probably want eventually to go into the army or navy. This academy has a naval department. From the careful records that are kept of the whereabouts of students who have attended the school it was found that at the beginning of the world war, out of this 1,487 students three were in the regular army and one in the navy, all of them being officers.

On the United States entering the war nearly 80 per cent of the remaining 1,483 who were eligible responded to the call, and in most cases served their country as officers. Due to their previous training they were able to gain their objective on the battlefield without that terrible loss of life that invariably results from soldiers being led by officers who have had only the superficial training received in short emergency camps.

Contrary to a very general opinion, there is no larger percentage of officers in the army and navy who want war than there are policemen who want a riot. They both know what war is. The P. M. S. & T.s who instruct these R. O. T. C. students are men carefully selected and they will be found not only to believe the correctness of Gen. Sherman's definition of war, but to do all in their power to teach their R. O. T. C. students its brutality and its horrors. On the other hand, it is true that they probably will also impress upon their students the obligations every real man and unselfish citizen owes to his home and his country that it be defended and that he shall, if need be, be ready to take up the defense of right against the forces of wrong, the principle that Christ both taught and practiced.

There is little danger of a militaristic spirit developing in the American people. The R. O. T. C. training or that of a properly conducted military academy does not inspire it. Brightly uniformed organizations led by martial music in street parades are far more apt to do so.

ONE MORE INCONSISTENCY.

Attica, Ind., Aug. 1.—For weeks the President has been exerting all the power at his command on congress in his fight against holding companies and large corporations, thereby jeopardizing the investments of millions of investors both large and small. And now we read with profound astonishment his statement in connection with the gift tax exemptions: "Many persons live entirely on the dividends from their investments and should have the right to choose the charities in which their money is put." To me these two attitudes are entirely opposite and do not make sense. If the President's first drive against investors is to be put through he should not worry himself about the latter, as this is very insignificant in comparison with the losses the first will inflict.

ROY HARRISON,
State Representative.

PAROLE.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—If a hombre has committed a crime soak him and soak him hard and let him know that no addle-pated political official can parole [pay roll] him out 10 days later. No parole is the answer to the parole business.

Every person 12 years of age or over who commits murder, sane or insane, should be hanged by the lousy neck until good and dead, and no parole.

I am 73 years old and I have seen [or known of] one skunk who killed three good men, one at a time, of course; drunk, not accountable, pardoned. That was in my native state of Michigan. If the dog had been strung up and killed the first time there would have been two decent men's lives saved. PAT.

SACRILEGE.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—In yesterday's TRIBUNE in the Debunker's space appeared the following: "There are no stars or stripes in the American flag. . . . The American flag bears mullets and barrulets rather than stars and stripes. . . . Stars in the heavens are not pointed; they are round."

It seems to me really a pity that the Debunker did not use some other subject for "debunking" rather than anything as sacred as the stars in heaven or the stars and stripes of our beloved Old Glory. MILDRED SAMMONS.

BASEBALL AT NIGHT.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Cannot something be done to stop the Cincinnati baseball broadcasts on Wednesday evenings? It is enough to have to listen to it in daytime with radios all going full blast. It is nerve wracking at night, these hot summer evenings when trying to get a little sleep after a hard day's work. If people had a little sense and would tune their radios in softly it would not be so bad. C. HOFFMAN.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

INCITING MUTINY BILL HELD PERIL TO A FREE PRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Alarm was expressed today by Representative Maury Maverick, radical Texas Democrat, over the possibilities of a bill providing for the punishment of attempts to incite mutinous conduct in soldiers or sailors by the printing of literature advising or urging the disobedience of military or naval regulations.

Maverick declared that enactment of the law will strike a serious blow at the freedom of the press. The bill passed the senate last June with little debate and has been reported to the house favorably by the committee on military affairs.

Effect on Press in Doubt.

An investigation disclosed that the radicals in Washington have been waging a bitter campaign against passage of the bill. "Freedom of the press" is the keynote of their arguments, and many members of the house have admitted confusion exists in their minds concerning the measure and what effect it will have upon the press.

President Roosevelt has been asked repeatedly at his press conference by a representative of the Daily Worker, New York communistic organ, to express his opinion of the bill. His invariable answer has been that he has not read the measure.

The bill, in the form reported by the house committee, provides that "whoever with the intent to incite disaffection advises, counsels, urges, or solicits any member of the army or navy of the United States to disobey the laws or regulations governing the army and the navy, or publishes or distributes any book, pamphlet, paper, print, article, letter, or other writing with similar intent," shall be subject to a maximum prison term of two years or a maximum fine of $1,000.

Provides for Seizing Literature.

The phrase "with the intent to incite disaffection" was added to the senate bill by the house committee.

"This amendment limits the possibility of indictment, trial, and conviction only to such persons as directly with specific intent do the things enumerated," declared Representative John J. McSwain [Dem., S. C.], chairman of the committee.

"We surely all can agree that whoever seeks to persuade a soldier or sailor to disobey lawful commands and orders should be punishable."

McSwain termed the "freedom of the press" argument "strange."

"This legislation is not addressed to propaganda circulating among the citizenry generally," he argued. "It is addressed solely and exclusively to a sort of intellectual insulation against disloyalty of the men who have specially contracted to be instantly prepared in mind and in body for the defense of the United States against its foes."

Blames Communists.

McSwain called attention to evidence that the Communist party was distributing circulars and pamphlets intended to incite dissatisfaction, particularly in the navy.

In a minority report Maverick was joined by Representative Paul J. Kvale [Farmer-Labor, Minn.] in a criticism of the bill.

"The bill is said to have as its purpose the riddance of communists and communistic influence from the army and navy" declared Maverick. "But that is a subterfuge; it is really aimed at the honest, peace-time expression of opinions on anything remotely concerning the army and navy. It is a brash piece of Hitleristic Fascism."

He charged that the bill was an insult to the army and navy, intimating distrust of the loyalty of soldiers and sailors.

Maverick Tells Objections.

Differing with McSwain, Maverick said that he interpreted the bill as a real blow to the freedom of the press.

"If a mother wrote her son, a soldier, and told him that the army was no place for him and enjoined him to get out, she would be subject to a penitentiary sentence," he contended. "Any newspaper so much as suggesting an increase or decrease in the army would be subject to its provisions. A newspaper suggesting that the navy did not have the best battleships could be charged with violation of the law in that they were inciting sailors to disaffection, thinking the ships might not be suitable for their sailing. Criticism of brutality, mistreatment, bad food, unsanity conditions—or anything of that character—could be met by the most brutal suppression, searches, and seizures, and penitentiary sentences."

A noted pacifist, Maverick asserted that the bill was sponsored by the munitions industry.

BUCK STORMY SEA AND FOG IN HUNT FOR LUSITANIA

Finish 21st Day of Ocean Charting.

[Special Correspondent.]

[Copyright: 1935: By United Feature Syndicate, Inc., and The Chicago Tribune. Reproduction in whole or part prohibited. All rights reserved.]

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP ORPHIR, Aug. 5.—Our twenty-first day of patient charting, a fine cris-crossing of a tiny area of the ocean's surface less than 1,000 yards square, was completed yesterday. Somewhere within the area lies the sunken hulk of the torpedoed Lusitania.

In the last week we have cruised 800 miles in the vicinity of the wreckage due south of the Old Head of Kinsale, Irish Free State. Yesterday the 500 ton ship resumed the search for the huge hulk our graph recorded last Monday, our marking buoy having been torn away by the heavy seas and precipitous swells of Friday.

The minute section of the ocean floor in which we discovered the gigantic wreck a week ago has thus far eluded our efforts to find it a second time. Stormy weather, fog, and strong spring tides have plagued us during the last four days, making accurate navigation difficult.

Sift All Evidence.

Capt. Henry D. Russell and Chief Officer J. A. Bestic are tonight sifting all the evidence we have gathered to date. Continuous lines, representing a constant course along the stretches of ocean bottom we have covered, have been pieced together and crossed with those we have taken at right angles.

I spoke at length today with Robert Chisholm, who was serving as second steward aboard the Lusitania that day in 1915 when the great Cunarder was torpedoed. Chisholm, who is now the chief steward aboard the Orphir, was one of the few persons who actually saw the torpedo which sank the Lusitania. He recalls the Lusitania's sinking as the most thrilling memory of his long seagoing career.

Speaking of the disaster, Chisholm said:

'It was my usual duty each afternoon at 2 o'clock to survey the smoke-rooms and lounges and to see to the comfort of the first class passengers. On the fatal afternoon I was returning to the dining room when I stopped on deck to look over the side. I yelled to a passing sailor as I saw a darting white streak: 'There's a torpedo!'

Wall Becomes Floor.

"I sped below shouting for every one to hold fast. The ship listed sharply. I landed against the companionway, for the wall had now turned to floor, and then fell flat. As the ship righted itself slightly I went to my own lifeboat, but soon found that all boats on the port side had fallen inward.

"As I hurried back to B deck I passed Alfred G. Vanderbilt vainly attempting to rescue a hysterical woman. I shouted: ' Hurry, Mr. Vanderbilt, or it will be too late.' He did not heed me and both lost their lives.

"As I looked down over the side, I saw a lifeboat 15 feet below with approximately 90 people in it—three men and the rest women and children. As chaos prevailed in the boat, I shouted a warning and jumped into the stern to take charge.

"To my horror, I found that the lifeboat was heeling over as the Lusitania sank. Our lifeboat, No. 13, was still fastened to the side of the sinking vessel. With the help of a 14 year old boy I finally cut the painter with a chopper. Grabbing the oars, I soon managed to get the lifeboat clear of danger. We were picked up by a patrol boat."

The chain girls are the Theal Nelson troupe, who, on one slight trapeze, work out remarkable gymnastic and symmetrical effects. Their rivals for holding trapeze attention are the "quintuplets," who perform at the same time in another ring.

The Chicago showing marks the first performance since April of Miss Amerika Olveras, aerial trapeze worker, who, when working over the stage in Madison Square Garden, fell 40 feet.

Other notables of the air are the Ozari family, a German family of 10, who do a double-flying, criss-cross act, the only act of its sort in the world.

FRENCH WORKERS' CHIEF THREATENS GENERAL STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Leon Jouhaux, secretary general of the Confederation Generale du Travail—France's federation of labor—today threatened a general strike if Premier Laval persists in his deflation program.

Jouhaux's threat has a new and heavy significance in view of the fact that his organization, numbering 700,000 members, is scheduled to combine shortly with its left wing counterpart, the Confederation Generale du Travail Unitaire, numbering half a million. The combine is part of the general movement to unite left wingers against the so-called Fascist front. Johaux's threat occurred in a speech before the national teachers' convention.

Clash in Red Sector.

An ugly example of what the tense political situation in France may suddenly produce occurred tonight when a simple little meeting of the Patriotic Youth, a nationalist organization, held in an ordinary café, provoked a riot in which even the police admit that seventeen shots were fired and several were wounded.

The clash took place in the Menilmontant section, a district which traditionally has been revolutionary. It is at present very Red.

Ship Workers Parade.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Workers in the naval shipyards at Brest stopped work today and paraded behind red flags protesting the 10 per cent pay cuts inflicted by the recent decree law. The 3,000 men will return to work tomorrow. The government is constructing the battleship Dunkerque and repairing the cruisers Lorraine and Jeanne d'Arc in the yards.

Shots were fired and 13 persons were injured in a clash between demonstrating workers at the naval shipyards at Toulon and political opponents.

Annoyer of White Woman Is Lynched in Mississippi

Pittsboro, Miss., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Bodie Bates, colored, accused of having attempted to attack a 22 year old white woman of Pittsboro Saturday night, was lynched by a mob which stormed Calhoun county jail last night. Sherif Jack Powell said Bates admitted he went to the woman's home and demanded admittance, but fled when she called neighbors.

CHICAGO COURT BACKS MEXICO IN BORIN CASE

Another attack on the jurisdiction of Mexican divorce courts was made yesterday by Simon Herr, counsel for Nathan Borin, wealthy metal products manufacturer, in arguments before Superior Judge Charles A. Williams. The court refused to grant Herr's motion to quash the letters rogatory through which the Mexican courts notified Borin that proceedings had been instituted there for the annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Claire Burman Borin.

"By issuing these letters the court is lending its arm to aid the jurisdiction of a court which is seeking to emasculate the local court," Attorney Herr said. "There has been a fraud here in the use of the courts of Mexico in an attempt to destroy the jurisdiction of the local court."

Attorney Herr's statement was based upon his contention that the annulment proceedings were instituted July 12 by Mrs. Borin, although the Mexican government, through its consul here, has claimed that the Mexican courts started the action as part of the new policy of cleaning up Mexican divorce and marriage records. Borin has filed a $500,000 alienation of affections suit against E. M. Asher, Hollywood motion picture producer, and has filed a cross bill to Mrs. Borin's suit for divorce here.

HOWE AS EDITOR STILL REPORTER FOR OWN PAPER

Atchison, Kas., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Ed Howe, "sage of Potato hill," squinted failing eyes across a vista of 82 years today. He admitted he still is a "pretty good country reporter."

The writing bug stung Ed Howe before he even started wearing long pants. He never got over it.

Now no longer able to explore widely for the small human incidents he loved to chronicle, the genial country philosopher has made the items come to his bedside. Visitors are interviewed.

Then he telephones what he has learned to the Atchison Globe, the paper he started when he was 24.

Phones Brave Woman's Story.

One paragraph recently read:

"An Atchison dentist says that before the time the pain was taken out of teeth extraction he pulled 26 teeth at one sitting for an Atchison woman and she never flinched."

Howe phoned that one in.

"I believe I am probably as thoroughly secluded a man now as the town affords," he said as he reclined in his study.

"But I pick up every day dozens of items that I would have written during my days of activity on the Globe."

Recovering slowly from an operation on his eyes in Baltimore, Howe's mind is as quick as ever. Wherever he is, he's a reporter. Here's one of his prosperity items:

Farmers Spending More.

At 82, he's asking for at least two more years of life in which to pen "the world's best book."

32-PAGE BOOKLET FREE!

Send for free copy of "Things People Won't Talk About," a new 32-page illustrated booklet telling what venereal diseases are, what they do, how they are contracted, how to avoid them, and how they can be cured. Mailed in plain sealed envelope.

GUARD YOUR ROMANCE

from these diseases which cause so many unhappy, childless marriages!

Because a venereal infection can be acquired innocently, and exist without your knowledge, it's wise to be examined on getting married

ARE you inclined to scoff at the need of a careful examination for gonorrhea and syphilis when marrying? Then read what the United States Public Health Service declared in a recent bulletin:

"The real significance of the statement that one-half million people are contracting syphilis each year is realized when considered in terms of a disease which is a tremendous factor in causing stillbirths. The occurrence of a million cases of gonorrhea each year is of equally serious import, for it is responsible for two-thirds of the blindness in the newborn. A large percentage of the pelvic infections in women are gonorrheal in origin; it is a frequent cause of sterility."

Other government reports have stated that untreated syphilis is accountable for most deformed and feeble-minded babies, as well as for much heart disease, blindness, apoplexy, paralysis and insanity among adults. And that untreated gonorrhea can be the cause of crippling rheumatism or serious prostate, bladder and other troubles.

No man or woman is exempt!

It is foolish for any man or woman to think that infection is impossible. For syphilis can be contracted innocently, from public drinking cups or toilet articles, and exist for years without the victim's knowledge! Also, countless married women are infected by husbands who supposed they had been cured of syphilis or gonorrhea.

Hence every prospective bride and groom, as well as every newly married couple, should submit to a thorough physical examination which includes a urinalysis and Wassermann test. Such an examination can be obtained from the Public Health Institute or from your family physician.

If by any chance infection is discovered, treatment can be instituted which will make it possible for a couple to live happily together and have healthy, normal children. This does not necessarily mean a long delay, for it is now possible to treat even those with active syphilis in such a manner that they can safely marry.

Treatments as low as $1.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute specializes in venereal diseases at extremely moderate fees. The staff includes both men and women physicians of long experience, and all treatments are given in absolute privacy.

A complete examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including urinalysis and Wassermann test, can be had for $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less. Thus superior treatment is now within the reach of all, especially since even those who are temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has given over 4,000,000 treatments to more than 220,000 individual patients. It is the world's largest venereal disease clinic!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Further light was shed today on the contributions made by Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. to Democratic campaign funds before he was able to pick the plum of minister to Norway which President Roosevelt gave him a fortnight ago. Biddle's contributions totaled $57,000. That establishes a new high for the cost of diplomatic appointments under the Roosevelt administration.

Mr. Biddle gave $25,000 to the campaign to elect George H. Earle III., another rich Philadelphia blue blood, to the governorship in Pennsylvania. Another $25,000 he gave to Frank C. Walker, treasurer of the "pre-convention Roosevelt campaign deficit fund."

Gives Additional Sum.

This went to liquidate the expense of the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt in 1932. Toward the election of Mr. Roosevelt Mr. Biddle contributed $2,000, and last February he came across with $5,000 more for the Democratic national committee.

In letters, which were mentioned in testimony in New York court proceedings in which Mr. Biddle was involved, Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, welcomed such generosity on the part of the donor. Mr. Walker promised to call it to the attention of Mr. Roosevelt.

Diversion of Funds Charged.

The court proceedings involved the affairs of the bankrupt Sonora Products Corporation of America, of which Mr. Biddle was a director. The Irving Trust company, which was receiver of the bankrupt concern, brought the suit charging, among other things, the directors with diverting 1½ million dollars from the corporation to their own pockets.

The federal District court acquitted Mr. Biddle and his associates. That decision was reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals. Mr. Biddle eventually made an offer of $160,000 in settlement that was accepted.

Again Accuse Biddle.

Last spring the Irving Trust company again went to court, complaining Mr. Biddle was conveying away his property and stripping himself of his assets before fulfilling the settlement.

The court required Mr. Biddle to post a $100,000 bond under the terms of which he could not have left the United States except with the permission of the court. Eventually, however, he settled fully and having the bond canceled was free to go abroad, without permission, to take the job of minister to Norway.

O. K. 40 MILLIONS TO PUT LAND IN AND OUT OF USE

Roosevelt Frees Cash to Two Bureaus.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today directed federal agencies to spend 22 million dollars to recover lands now idle and 18 million 350 thousand to retire lands now under cultivation.

The White House placed this total at the disposal of the Resettlement administration and the bureau of reclamation, giving the former authority to begin the purchase of a million acres of worn-out farm areas and the latter authorization to start a series of projects designed to put 100,000 acres into cultivation within one or two years.

Take 10 Out for One Added.

This program is in line with the President's established policy to buy and take 10 acres of land out of production for each acre that is put into use through reclamation and irrigation projects.

The resettlement administration is examining 250 possible locations for land purchases in areas all over the country. Projects approved for the reclamation bureau all lie in the far west.

The President today also allotted 7 million 784 thousand dollars of work relief funds for a census of American business, the largest "white collar" project yet approved. The chief executive's approval of the census bureau's application for this sum followed the recent allotment of $293,000 to the same agency for a survey of retail trade.

An announcement said the canvass would be started on Jan. 2, although preliminary work is to begin immediately, and that it "will cover all business activities with the exception of agriculture and manufacturing industries and will furnish information of importance to the federal government, to business and to labor."

Philadelphia Headquarters.

As with the smaller survey, Philadelphia was chosen as the administrative headquarters of the work. Reports will be put into shape there. That city was chosen, the official announcement said, "to facilitate the provision of working space and employment of white collared personnel from the relief rolls." Working space is difficult to find in crowded Washington.

The aim of the census, the officials said, "is to secure basic information relating to the number of operating units, employment, pay rolls, receipts, and other business data for all business enterprises."

100 BELOW ZERO USED IN MAKING NEWEST RUBBER

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 5.—(AP)—One hundred degrees below zero, the most intense cold yet used on a big industrial scale, was announced today by the du Pont company in the making of synthetic rubber.

The temperature is lower than anything naturally occurring on earth; 90 below in Siberia is believed the lowest. There is one stratosphere report of 133 below on Nov. 6, 1913, over Batavia, but stratosphere averages run 60 to 70.

The 100 below cold will be used as one factor in separating from acetylene the substance which is the base of artificial rubber. This is mono vinyl acetylene, one of acetylene's gases. All these gases turn into liquid at 100 below. Warming up, the liquid turns back into gas. But each gas comes off at a different temperature. Thus mono vinyl acetylene is obtained in pure form and large volume.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Corn Spectacle

Aug. 5, 1935.

PASSENGERS in airplanes flying over the Tribune Experimental farm near Plano and Yorkville nowadays get an impressive view of field No. 24 striped with dark green and light yellow rows of corn now being grown in a comparative test of four new hybrids and four established varieties. The yellow streaks are the result of tassels coming out on the established varieties a few days ahead of the bybrid strains. The corn in this field was all planted about the same time.

Yesterday Clarence Thurow, farm manager, stood in the hay mow of the barn across the road north of the corn field and identified the different varieties and strains a hundred yards away. To visitors he "called off" the name of each kind of corn, growing in rows one-half mile in length.

The varieties already tasseling are: Western Plowman, Queen of the Field, Will County Favorite, and Krug, all commonly grown grain varieties in Illinois. The four hybrids—numbers 214, 208, 614, and 616—are ready to send out their tassels. They are only a few days behind the established varieties. These hybrids also are valued for grain.

Mr. Thurow expects all the grain producing corn in the comparative field test to mature before a normal frost. All eight strains and varieties are making a good showing and should produce a fair yield of ears if rainfall is normal between now and picking time. Shoots are beginning to form on the tasseling corn.

The comparative test is being made under a plan launched last year at the Yorkville farm where corn was first tested on a small plot basis. The test this year is being made under ordinary methods followed in growing corn on a large acreage basis.

Practically all of the early planted corn at the Yorkville place is tall enough to hide a man riding through the fields on a horse. Some of the stalks are at least nine feet tall, according to Mr. Thurow.

About half the 60 acres of timothy hay being harvested at the Yorkville farm was cut and put in the barns last week. Ten acres more will be stored loosely in mows and the remaining 20 acres will be stacked in the open this week if the weather is favorable. The 30 acres harvested last week yielded approximately two tons to the acre. All of the alfalfa, including both first and second cuttings, will be stored in the barns.

Threshing oats is next on the work schedule at the Yorkville place. The threshing machine will be started soon after the timothy hay is all harvested. The oat crop is the only small grain to be threshed this year. The chinch bug menace has discouraged the growing of other small grains on the farm.

The harvesting of oats will be the main item on the work schedule this week at the Tribune farm near Wheaton. Oat harvesting was started a week ago, but with frequent delays due to rains and the repairing of the combine harvester, only 12 acres were cut last week; 52 acres are yet to be cut.

Oat harvesting was also interrupted during the latter part of last week when it became necessary to cut and "put up" 12 acres of alfalfa, cut the second time. Today the men finished storing this field of alfalfa in the metal hay keeper. The alfalfa was hauled in from the fields and chopped up while it was quite green; the stems and leaves contained much more moisture than ordinarily is found in hay cured in the regular way.

Fair Commission to Hold Its First Meeting Today

The Chicago fair commission, named by Mayor Kelly to create a permanent exposition in Burnham park, will hold its first meeting at 3 p. m. today in the mayor's office at the city hall. The ten commissioners said yesterday that they will study the state law creating the fair authority and listen to Mayor Kelly's outline of work on the fair project to date. Formal organization of the commission will probably be delayed a few days.

PULLING CONTEST FOR STALLIONS PLANNED OCT. 12

First Test of Sort for Breeding Stock.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

The first world's stallion pulling contest will be held at the Lincoln Fields race track, Crete, Ill., on Saturday, Oct. 12, according to an announcement yesterday by Wayne Dinsmore, executive secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America.

Ten cash prizes, totaling $1,500, are being offered by the association to the best pulling stallions. This is the first of a series of annual contests to be held to discover the finest young draft sires in the world.

The contest is open to horse owners, offering them an opportunity to test the pulling strength of their 3 year old breeding stallions. A dynomometer, owned by the University of Illinois, will be used in recording the actual pulling power of each team.

All Registered Stock Eligible.

All owners of good stallions, registered and sound, of any breed, are invited by the association to enter. No entry fee will be charged. The ten cash awards, ranging from $50 to $400, are as follows:

First prize, $400; second, $300; third, $200; fourth, $100; fifth, $100; sixth, $100; seventh, $100; eighth, $75; ninth, $75, and tenth, $50. The only stipulation is that each stallion be matched with another horse of any kind to make a pulling pair.

"The stallion contest is one more step in our campaign to improve the utility value of the average work horse or mule on farms," said Mr. Dinsmore in making the announcement from the association's Chicago headquarters.

A Scientific Matter.

"For the first time in history this contest will determine scientifically the best breeding sires of the draft animal world. The choice hitherto has been left to observation of the outside of a draft horse.

"With stallions pulling at the dynamometer we can get an accurate record of the animal's power, and those hidden qualities of obedience, courage, stamina, and spirit which distinguish the finest horse flesh. From now on scientific records of a stallion's ability to pull will be available. These records will be of great benefit to farmers in breeding better draft animals."

THE GREAT DIFFERENCES OBSERVABLE AMONG MANKIND

In a hundred men or women, it may be asserted that there are more than ninety who are what they are, good or bad, useful or useless to society, successes or failures, dependent on the instruction or education they have received. It is education that marks the great differences observable among them.

It is this premise on which De Paul University approaches education . . . that it may be an influence for the greatest amount of good . . . that character may be moulded and minds turned to worthwhile endeavors.

Teaching with us is an earnest, serious undertaking. It embraces more than presenting theories, experiences, and opinions. It means building manhood and womanhood by kindness, by warning, by precept, and by praise . . . but above all, by example. That, we submit, is why DePaul University can profoundly affect your life.

HITCHCOCK DIES; EX-MEMBER OF TAFT'S CABINET

For several months Mr. Hitchcock had been in failing health. His condition became serious a month ago when he acceded to the demand of his physician and agreed to go to bed while recuperating from torn muscles in his right side.

It was only for a few days, however, until he insisted on returning to his newspaper office. A general breakdown in health followed.

Lifelong Republican.

In a long period of public service Mr. Hitchcock performed outstanding work while postmaster general. As a young man he showed an interest in Republican politics and began his public career are chief of the division of foreign markets in the department of agriculture.

He held that post from 1897 to 1903. Then he was transferred to the new department of commerce and labor. There he later became chief clerk. The efficient system he established spread to other departments and still is being used in governmen' work.

It was during the administration of President Taft that he was promoted from first assistant postmaster general to head of the department. He established postal savings banks as well as starting preliminary plans for air mail service.

Manages Taft Campaign.

In his various jobs Mr. Hitchcock displayed versatility, of which the Republican party availed itself in many ways. He was assistant secretary of the Republican national committee from 1904 to 1908. In the latter year he was selected by Mr. Taft to manage his pre-convention campaign for the presidential nomination. Later he became chairman of the committee. In that rôle he directed Mr. Taft's successful campaign for the presidency.

A lawyer by profession, Mr. Hitchcock made a success of that calling after leaving government service. He also extended his interests into the field of newspaper publishing.

MANVILLE SUED BY FOURTH WIFE ASKING DIVORCE

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Thomas F. Manville Jr., heir to a large part of the estate of his father, the wealthy founder of Johns-Manville, Inc., was sued for divorce today by his fourth wife, the former Marcelle Edwards, a chorus girl.

Mrs. Manville, who married the defendant on Oct. 8, 1933, alleges that he "wounded her sensibilities by violent language," and on several occasions used her roughly. She charges that he struck her on June 20 last and said that when he sailed for Europe on June 22 he engaged accommodations for two other women.

An application for alimony suitable for the plaintiff, who says she has been accused to luxuries as Manville's wife, will be made shortly, it is understood.

Young Manville's three other marriages ended in divorce. In 1911, when he was 19 years old, he married Florence Huber. His father disinherited him. The first wife divorced him in 1922. Subsequently he was reinstated in his father's will, receiving 10 million dollars of his father's 23 million dollar estate.

Manville's second wife was Lois McCoin, his father's secretary who married him a few days before his father's death. After she divorced him in 1930 in Reno he was married to Avonne Taylor, in May, 1931. This marriage ended in a divorce in Mexico six months later.

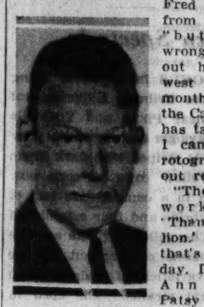
News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

"You'd think being off the air would be enough to keep a comedian quiet," Fred Allen writes from Hollywood, "but you're wrong. . . . Been out here on the west coast for a month now and the California sun has tanned me so I can make the rotogravure without retouching.



FRED ALLEN.

"The picture I'm working in is 'Thanks a Million.' Anyway, that's the title today. Dick Powell, Ann Dvorak, Patsy Kelly, Paul Whiteman, Rubinoff and Phil Baker are all in it. The executives are confident the picture will be whatever the word is they're using for colossal this month.

"Hollywood is a great town. At night, with neon lights going, it looks like New York with varicose veins. Harry Tugend, who helps me with my Town Hall Tonight scripts, is whiling away his vacation writing for the movies. By the time we return he will probably be a full fledged scenario writer and will know Janet Gaynor by sight.

"They don't make as many close-ups out here any more. The directors are afraid if the actors get too close they'll make a touch. The west is okay but I'm looking forward to returning east, where men are men and a fellow isn't compared with Clark Gable at every turn!"

It's reported that Ed Wynn won't be back on the air with his gasoline sponsor in the fall. . . . Phil Baker also is shopping around for a new advertiser. . . . James Melton hasn't started work yet on his first movie in Hollywood but already the title has been changed from "Thin Air" to "City of Make Believe." . . . Wallace Beery, who played in "Lightnin'" on CBS last night has christened his new plane "Lightnin'."

Ted Fio-Rito has added one of those new electric organs to his instrumental layout. Said to be the first orchestra leader to adopt it for use with a radio orchestra. . . . Dell Coon's orchestra will be next at Cocoanut Grove and CBS, succeeding Bill Hogan. Starts Thursday evening. . . . Singin Sam is posting his answers to fan letters in a town some distance from his Richmond, Ind., farm home. The idea is to escape sightseers. . . . Mary Pickford, passing through Chicago the other day, revealed that she did not have a sponsor as yet for this season.

Josef Koestner, radio conductor, was bitten by a snake the other morning while golfing near Crystal lake where he is summering. A potent hook sent him and caddy to the tall grass where he was struck by the reptile. Prompt medical attention prevented dangerous results.

If one may draw any conclusions from Eddy Duchin's National open radio contest contraltos and baritones are heavy favorites in radio this summer. Contraltos have had a clean sweep for two months. Not a soprano has been picked. Only two tenors have been chosen. Beth Peaslee, local winner, was heard last evening on the sponsored Northerners program over W-G-N.

Mrs. Freeman Gosden, wife of radio's "Amos" will leave next Tuesday on a Canadian trip which will include a visit to the Dionne quintuplets. She will be accompanied by her two children and her mother.

4,000 Rioters in Crete Battle Troops.

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Complete order has been restored everywhere in the rebellious isle of Crete, the government announced tonight, after a short-lived revolt by 4,000 strikers had taken a reported toll of six dead and 37 wounded.

The riotous strikers, who early today overwhelmed government forces in Candia, sacked the administrative offices and fought in the streets with stolen weapons, capitulated late today.

They dispersed peacefully and were given until morning to surrender all the stolen arms or face drastic measures, Gen. Bakopoulos, in command of the trouble zone, reported to Athens.

6 Strikers Killed.

Six strikers were reported killed. The wounded included 20 strikers, 5 officers, 8 soldiers and 4 gendarmes.

Two warships sent toward Crete at the first news of the revolt, along with a squadron of bombing planes and troop reinforcements, were recalled.

Five months ago Crete was the scene of an unsuccessful uprising led by Former Premier Venizelos, adherents of whom were blamed in some government quarters for today's trouble. However, labor circles blamed the revolt on the unrequited demands of the strikers.

Trouble Follows Strike.

The trouble, arising from a passive strike yesterday, flared this morning in front of the prefecture at Candia, where the strikers gathered to shout their demands for increased wages and shorter hours.

The question of restoration of the monarchy was believed generally to have had no connection with the rebellion.

Lake Geneva Golf Tourney on Thursday

Dinner-Dance Saturday to Close Event.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MOST of the summer houses around Lake Geneva will be Eve-less paradises on Thursday and Friday of this week, for those are the first two days of the annual invitation golf tournament at the Country club and the men of the families who summer at the lake never hesitate to let it be known that "wimmen folks" are de trop on those two days each summer.

Members of the fair sex are invited to join the house parties on the third day, however, for the three days' festivities end with a dinner-dance on Saturday night and a stag dinner would be like waffles without maple sirup. Friday night there will be a stag dinner at the club.

Every woman who spends the summer anywhere near a city finds it necessary to go to town occasionally, so many of the wives and daughters of the golfers will come to town to shop on Thursday and Friday and go back to Lake Geneva on Saturday, taking with them the wives or sweethearts of the men who are their husbands' guests.

Albert F. Madlener Jr., who is president of the Country club, and his brother, William Madlener, are going to have Louis Tilden, Norman Freer, Herbert Kennedy, W. Irving Osborne Jr., and Prince Nicolas Galitzine as their guests in the tournament. Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Tilden will join the party for the week-end.

Richard Juergens, John Bersbach, Edward Redden and Ralph Chatillon will be Lefens Porter's guests, with Mrs. Chatillon, the former Mary Elizabeth Reid, adding a feminine touch to the house party. "Chick" Evans and Frederick D. Corley will be with Philip T. Starck, and Leslie S. Gordon and Stuart Templeton will be Henry C. Bartholomay's guests. Dr. William P. Finney has invited Watson Newhall, Parker Blair and several others to visit him during the tournament.

Hold Flower Show on Aug. 16-17.

The following week-end will belong to the women at Lake Geneva, for the annual show of flowers, fruits and vegetables of the Lake Geneva Garden club will be held on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 16 and 17, and all the summer residents are interested in gardening. The Lake Geneva Gardeners' and Foremen's association assists the garden club in arranging the show, so it always is a very professional one, and people go from miles around to see it. There will be many house parties at the lake that week-end, too. Mrs. William N. Pelouze is general chairman of the large committee in charge of the show.

No sooner will the flower show be over than the sailors at Lake Geneva and their wives will be setting out for Oshkosh, where the annual Inland Lakes regatta will be held from the 19th to the 23d inclusive. A. F. Gartz Jr. is taking his A boat, the Bigfoot, to the regatta; Harry N. Gifford is taking his Little Smoke II., also an A boat, and Ernst Schmidt will take his Black Point III., another large boat. Mr. Schmidt's father, Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, has been president of the regatta association for years and on no island lake in this part of the country are there more enthusiastic sailors than on Lake Geneva, where the Schmidts have summered for many years.

Tomorrow the Lake Geneva Garden club will have one of its regular meetings, which always are parties with tea following the programs, this one to be at the lovely home of Mrs. Daniel E. Peterkin. Mrs. W. W. Toole of Barbaboo, Wis., will talk on "Herb Gardens" and will tell her listeners some recipes in which herbs are important ingredients, so no doubt there will be some new and delicious foods served in Lake Geneva before long.

This afternoon after their regular Tuesday golf and luncheon at the Country club many Lake Genevans will motor over to Lake Delavan, where the Delavan Lake Garden club is holding a show in arrangement of cut flowers at the Country club. This is an informal but interesting show, and many Delavan summer residents are giving luncheons today for their Chicago friends who want to see it.

Mrs. John Troike is chairman of the flower show committee and working with her have been Mrs. E. M. Anderson, Mrs. Russell Crawford, Mrs. Henry F. Jaeger, Mrs. R. H. Sage, Mrs. Fred J. Sauter, Mrs. S. K. Wheeler and Mrs. William M. Williams. In addition to arrangements of cut flowers there will be a class for table center arrangements of fruits or

Miss Helen Shoemaker, daughter of the Warren W. Shoemakers of Winnetka, has spent many cool hours this summer at the new pool of the Indian Hill Country club. Helen will not be thinking of a debut for a year or two, for she is not quite old enough. She wishes she were, however, so that she could take part in the fashion show the Winnetka board of the Northwestern University settlement will give on Tuesday, Oct. 8, for her mother is one of the women in charge of it.

Tibbett Back in Hollywood for New Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Lawrence Tibbett, who quit Hollywood "forever" in disappointment four years ago because of the confusion, complication, and personal worries involved in making singing pictures, came back when recent films by Grace Moore and Jeanette MacDonald made him believe that sound technique had progressed greatly.

Tibbett, who now is appearing in "Metropolitan" for Twentieth Century-Fox, says: "I was greatly surprised when I returned here and the producer told me the recording of one of my songs I had just heard in the projection room was done with equipment practically identical with that in use when I was in Hollywood before."

The difference is that in the early days of singing films [1931], a singer had to adjust his voice to the sound system, where as the sound machinery now adjusts to the singer's voice. That's why Grace Moore, Miss MacDonald, Nelson Eddy, and Tibbett are so content to accept movie contracts at this time and why such a procession of opera performers as Nino Martini, Everett Marshall, Marion Talley, and Mary Ellis is joining them.

Hot weather comfort notes: At Columbia studio film players keep good sized squares of chamois skin immersed in a bucket of cracked ice and water. The skin wrung half dry is mopped over the face, cooling without smearing the makeup. The head makeup man asserts that the iced chamois skin held on the veins of the wrist for a moment seems to cool the whole body.

June Knight went out on the shielded fire escape of her Beverly Hills apartment house for a sun bath Saturday. A gust of wind closed and locked the door behind her. It was her maid's day out. She couldn't run down the fire escape and in the front door for obvious reasons. She was out there more than an hour before her cautious yells for help brought the custodian's wife upstairs to unlock the door.

When James Braddock fought Baer, Pat O'Brien, Jim Cagney, Frank McHugh, Allen Jenkins, and Hugh Herbert took a flyer on old Ireland and sent Braddock, whom none of them knew personally, a wire assuring him he would be the next champion. Last Saturday each of the quintet received an autographed etching of Champion Braddock.

Twentieth Century-Fox is paying fourteen young women and three young men salaries on contract for the next six months to do nothing except study lessons in the studio "training school."

Grabel Starts New Style in Band Concerts

Innovations Win Applause from Audience.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It would not be beyond imagining that Victor Grabel started a new style in band concerts in his program in Grant park last night. There were several new features pointing in that direction.

One new feature, Leo Sowerby's American Rhapsody, had to be omitted, it is true. Broadcasting rights on the piece had not been granted, and Mr. Sowerby was not in the audience to arrange the formality. Several excerpts from "Aida" filled the interval, and then novel treatments began to appear.

The most pictorial and the one arousing the greatest applause was the appearance of Vera Mirova, Chicago dancer. While Mr. Grabel and his band were playing Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnol" she appeared in eye-filling Spanish costume for one episode of the piece, leaving the stage at its end to reappear in a few moments in another and more eye filling Spanish costume. It was dancing of a high order and she was an entrancing figure as she danced, with the result that the audience beat unavailing palms for more of the same.

But this was not all. That vivid piece of musical scene painting, Tschaikowsky's "1812" Overture, was also played with new features. Noble Cain's Chicago A Cappella chorus, a brilliant organization, appeared with the band, singing the choral section in the first part, and again, while aerial bombs were bursting overhead, in the last. This department wishes to testify that the addition of the chorus is a great improvement to the overture.

Later Mr. Cain himself took the stage and led the unaccompanied chorus through Gretchaninoff's "God, Hear My Prayer," a splendid performance, loudly applauded. And before that Raymund Koch did some fine singing in "The Two Grenadiers" and "Ol' Man River," again the occasion of loud applause.

Incidentally Mr. Grabel is general musical director and Mr. Cain general choral director of the Chicagoland Music Festival, which will take place in Soldiers' field Saturday, Aug. 17.

Leo Kopp will direct the Chicago Opera orchestra tonight. Sybil Goldberg, 12 year old pianist, and Flora Waalkes, soprano, will be the soloists. The program:

1. "Flying Dutchman"—Overture.....R. Wagner
2. Emperor Waltz.....J. Strauss

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

EISENACH, Germany.—Once more it is night, in a new German city, and before I toss the feather bed, that replaces a blanket or quilt in German hotels, across the footboard, and do away with that wedge-shaped bolster under the pillow—keilposter, I think it is called—some of the day's sights must be recorded.

Today we climbed the steep, the very steep, hill to the Wartburg, the stronghold built in the 11th century, and occupied by the Landgraves of Thuringia until the 15th century. We saw here the very hall always reproduced as the setting of the second act in "Tannhäuser"—the Saengersaal—where the traditional "lyric war" used to take place in olden times. A mural painting depicts one of these ancient song contests, and it was here Wagner got his inspiration for "Tannhäuser." The mountains near by are the actual Venusberg of the opera.

LONGER to be remembered, perhaps, than the famous Saengersaal, or the other sights of the castle, is Martin Luther's room in the castle and the superb view of the Thuringian woods and mountains to be seen from its window. The reigning duke gave Luther sanctuary in the castle during the storm that followed his nailing of his 95 theses to the door of the Castle church at Wittenberg, you will remember. In hiding here, he worked on his translation of the Bible. Luther's table, his footstool, his bed, his bookcase, and other memorabilia are there, and Cranach's fine portraits of his parents hang on the worm-eaten wooden walls. The guide obligingly indicates the spot on the wall at which Luther threw his inkpot at the devil, or rather where the spot used to be.

THE St. Elizabeth murals, depicting the good works of that daughter of a Hungarian king who married a Landgrave of Thuringia, and her chapel and her bedroom are other points of interest to visitors, but her room, alas, was not left in the natural state in which Luther's room fortunately has been preserved. The last kaiser ordered the room embellished with pretentious mosaic work. [His own portrait in the armor of a medieval knight is worked into the mosaics, as the guide pointed out.] That glittering chamber and the cross in electric lights on the castle roof were unpleasing features.

Visiting the Wartburg, which is 620 feet above the town of Eisenach and 1,345 feet above sea level, obviously is a favorite pastime of the Germans. It was Sunday, and there were crowds of visitors climbing the steep ascent; honest country folk in neat attire, bare-kneed walkers with rucksacks on their backs, a few foreign visitors like ourselves, and two girls in fake Bulgarian peasant costumes, who turned out to be advertising a brand of Bulgarian cigarets!

The thoughtful courtesy we have encountered everywhere was repeated at the Wartburg this afternoon. A German who was not sure we understood that the hall of the "lyric war" was the same one reproduced in "Tannhäuser" turned to us after the guide had finished his explanation, and explained it to us in labored English, singing a snatch of the opera, to be sure we understood.

Smart Blacks Give New Life to Wardrobe

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Nothing revives a jaded summer wardrobe like a dashing new inky black dress. You can find them of heavy dull black crêpe, of new crinkled silks, in sheer wools as thin as a black veil—and all of them quite the most distinctive "pickups" for that wilted feeling after weeks of cottons and other summer time materials.

Next to these simple, though super smart, all black outfits, come the daring new white accents that make these "august blacks" the devastating successes they manage to become . . . . exciting new snowy white frogs splashed swankily across the chest, chalk white cords tied tightly around a high neckline and into a bow with long ends dangling with big white tassels, or the demure ruchings that have suddenly taken the fashion world by storm.

If you own a perfectly good black dress that needs only a bit of rejuvenation to hide its vintage year, buy these ruchings by the yard. The secret is to wear them right, uncompromisingly high and snug around a perfectly round neckline, as old fashioned as anything that ever was filched from the old albums.

Ruffs or ruchings as white as driven snow come in various widths, quite wide affairs at least four inches for long necks, shorter widths, and you can choose from white net, white mousseline de soie as crisp and cool looking as a mint julep. Or later you can use pale flesh for subtle contrast for these same black clothes. Have and sew a half a dozen different ruffs around the necklines of these peasant plain black dresses, repeat the same gleaming white outline around the cuffs and you wear the newest black and white contrast in town.

Good Morning!

"Umm!" I thought, settling happily back in the nice cool seat in the nice cool Chicago theater, "I'm going to like THIS picture!"

I did, too, though, as regards story, "Shanghai" has little out of the ordinary to offer.

"East is east and west is west and never the twain shall meet," sings Mr. Kipling rhythmically, but not quite truly. For aren't east and west forever meeting—and mingling—and then, like oil and water, separating again?

"Shanghai" details the ill-starred romance of an American heiress and an Eurasian — son of a Manchu princess and a Russian nobleman.

Charles Boyer, with the aid of a single sentence—"You see, I was in the banking business before the revolution"—makes the practically overnight transition of a rickshaw boy into an all-powerful financier seem perfectly plausible. He's just that able an actor, you see.

Loretta Young is, in her warmly alive fashion, quite as believable as the heroine. Warner [Charlie Chan] Oland, lurking in the background, as the philosopher and friend whose sad, wise words finally force the lovers to face facts, is, as usual, the perfect oriental. Alison Skipworth scores as the heroine's loving eccentric auntie, and Fred Keating fills neatly the rôle of a spineless, tippling, American suitor. . . .

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

Nancy and Dick Heritage have been married for two years and are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by Edith Heritage, her mother-in-law, and she has come to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy is informed by Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, that she has been bequeathed £5,000 by Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. That evening an account is given in the newspaper of the assassination in China of Nancy's sole remaining relative, her aunt, and her aunt's family. Next morning Nancy, who hadn't informed her husband of an expected heir, is unable to get out of bed. Dick and his mother are displeased when they learn the cause.

INSTALMENT VIII.

A VOICE FROM THE PAST.

Nancy melted and sobbed in his arms, and Dick really did try to express contrition. He had been surprised, he said, by this news coming on top of all their other misfortunes.

No, no, of course, a baby wouldn't be a misfortune. He hadn't meant that exactly. Why would Nancy persist in misunderstanding him? Well, if he didn't get off now, heaven knew what time he would arrive at the office. He was going to be half an hour late as it was.

"Goodby, my sweet. Be a good girl and take care of yourself."

When he had gone, Nancy went up to her bedroom, locked the door and had another good cry.

If only her own mother was alive. Surely she shouldn't feel so ill and forlorn? Did all expectant mothers go through this unhappy experience?

But after a little while it occurred to her that she was indulging in an orgy of self-pity, behaving in a rather feeble-minded way in fact. She got up and began to tidy the room and presently found she was feeling as well as ever. The distressing symptoms had passed, as before.

There was always a lot to do in the mornings. Picking up after Dick took more time than one would imagine. He had not inherited his mother's gift of neatness.

How long was her mother-in-law going to stay in bed Nancy wondered. She didn't like to ask, but it would be a nuisance if the housework was held up until noon every day.

She had had neither time nor opportunity so far to glance at the newspaper, for they only took in one and her mother-in-law had commandeered it. There would perhaps be some further news about the poor Horsman family. Nancy shuddered. Although China was so very far away, her aunt's fate hung over her almost as though it had happened next door. Poor Aunt Laura. There was another instance of Miss Satchell's kindness, for while Nancy had been locked up in the reformatory, Miss Satchell had allowed her to have her aunt's letters addressed privately in care of herself, and the Horsmans had never known that Nancy had ever suffered such disgrace. They thought she was merely Miss Satchell's secretary, and that Miss Satchell herself was engaged upon some private philanthropic work.

As Nancy came back from the shops it occurred to her that if her mother-in-law really elected to stay in bed all day it might give her a better chance to run out again after lunch and arrange to open that banking account.

And with that idea came a warm feeling of security. It gave her confidence to face the future, even confidence to stand up to Dick if need be. Heretofore she had been so utterly dependent upon him—a pauper, really. Sometimes he had made little jokes about the presents she gave him at Christmas and birthdays. Dick was not always tactful on the subject of money. Playfully, he would suggest that Nancy's gifts came out of his pocket. "I wonder what I am going to give myself this Christmas?" he would say. And because he pulled Nancy's ear and kissed her when he said it, she had to pretend that she didn't mind that form of teasing.

In any other man she would have termed it caddish, but Dick was her husband, and she loved him in spite of some glaring faults.

Now, however, she began to see that she could stand up for herself. The security of all that money gave her what seemed a delightful sense of power.

A rich wife could be intolerable. One of Dick's cousins had married a girl with money and was repenting it ever after.

Nancy didn't mean to be that kind of a rich wife. No, but neither need she let Dick nor his mother intimidate her beyond all reason. Because of her dependence there had been times when she felt a lowly worm. Perhaps she had had no very great cause for such humble sensations, but neither Dick nor his mother had realized—and his mother had not cared—that Nancy happened to be sensitive on the subject. Even now it caused her cheeks to burn when she remembered that the Heritages, insisting upon a proper wedding, had been obliged to pay all the expenses, and Dick had secretly given Nancy money for what his mother called a suitable trousseau.

Of course his parents hadn't wanted the marriage to take place at all, but since they couldn't prevent it, they had done what they could to humiliate Nancy.

Dick's father hadn't been so deliberately unkind to her, but he had died so soon afterward that Nancy had never got well acquainted with him.

Entering the house with her shopping bags, Nancy was encountered by the sound of the telephone. Minnie came clattering down the stairs, with Edith Heritage's voice floating behind her:

"If that's for me, just take the message, Minnie."

"I'll answer it," said Nancy.

It was for the elder Mrs. Heritage, although at first Nancy misunderstood. The voice, a woman's, sounded peculiarly familiar.

"May I speak to Mrs. Heritage, please?"

"This is Mrs. Heritage speaking," said Nancy. "O, I'm sorry—perhaps you mean my mother-in-law."

"Sorry," said the curiously familiar voice. "It's Mrs. Laurance Heritage I wish to speak to."

"Mrs. Heritage isn't up yet," said Nancy. "Could you give me a message for her?"

"O, yes. Just tell her, will you, that Sylvia and I will be coming to tea this afternoon. We had Mrs. Heritage's letter. Thank her so much for the invitation—and we're looking forward to seeing her again. My name is Mrs. Lane."

Scarcely was that last piece of information needed.

Nancy murmured that she would give the message, and, hanging up the receiver, reeled away from the telephone.

"Nancy!" called Edith Heritage.

Nancy went up the stairs very slowly and found her mother-in-law out of bed and progressing favorably with her toilet. Indeed, she was almost dressed and partaking of hot milk and biscuits, which Minnie apparently had brought up to her a moment before.

"Was it a Mrs. Lane?" she asked.

"Yes." Nancy replied. "She says you asked her and somebody named Sylvia here to tea this afternoon."

Something in Nancy's voice caused the older woman to turn and look at her.

"Isn't it convenient?" she asked sharply.

"O, yes—quite. Only I—I won't be able to be here myself. I just remembered an appointment at the dentist's."

"Put him off, my dear. Dentists are used to being put off. They are such charming people, Sylvia and her mother. I met them last winter at Cannes, and when I knew I was coming back I wrote and asked them to call. The girl is quite wealthy, I believe. Some old woman who lived with them died and left her a lot of money. She's about Dick's age—a little younger than you, Nancy—and so sweet and pretty. A rather delicate little thing, and perhaps a bit spoiled—but all charming people get spoiled, don't they?"

Mrs. Heritage, herself, was supposed to be charming, and there wasn't the least doubt in the world that Dick was.

Letters About Theater Party Due Thursday

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Did you write your request for an invitation to see "Water Babies"? If you haven't you better get started on it pretty quick because if it isn't mailed sometime tomorrow it won't reach me in time to be selected. Winners will be selected Thursday morning.

Now you boys needn't stand off and say: "Aw, that's for girls"—because it's decidedly not! In fact, it's all about a boy named Tommy, who's a chimney sweep. Tommy falls into the water, but he doesn't drown like you or I would do—instead he meets the strangest things you ever heard of!

First there is the Otter, who is very wicked looking with big sharp teeth and a grinning mouth, and she swims around and is very disagreeable to Tom. Then he meets Mr. and Mrs. Salmon who are shining silver from head to tail.

If you'd like to see this interesting play, which is to be presented for us by the Jack and Jill Players, a group of talented youngsters under the direction of Marie Agnes Foley, you'd better sit right down and write me a letter telling me so. I'm going to invite 50 boys and 50 girls to attend this play with me in the children's theater—which is just like a real theater, but with everything made just the right size for children.

I want to take the youngsters who really and truly want to come—so tell me why you think you'd like to be my guest; remember to sign your full name, address, and age, and mail your letter so that it will be on my desk by Thursday morning.

vegetables. The show will open at 2 o'clock and close at 9 this evening.

Barringtonians were decidedly garden-minded yesterday, for the Barrington Garden club held a flower exhibit at the Barrington Hills Country club, and members of three other Barrington clubs were invited to attend it. Mrs. H. Stillson Hart won first prize in the large display class and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Evan Evans, won first prize in the medium sized exhibit. Mrs. Alfred L. Eustice was adjudged to have the best small exhibit.

Miss Louise Nellegar, daughter of the Jay Cromwell Nellegars of the Orrington hotel, Evanston, will become the bride of Parker Locke Jacobson, son of the Parker A. Jacobsons of Winona, Minn., on Saturday afternoon.

The wedding will take place quietly in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Charles R. Strong, in Winnetka, at 4:30 o'clock, and the Rev. Cristoph Keller of Trinity church, Highland Park, will perform the ceremony. Mrs. Kahn I. Fosdick will be her sister's only attendant. Mr. Jacobson and his bride will make their home in Evanston temporarily.

Miss Tevis Gibson to Become Bride.

In his summer home at Manitowish, Wis., last week Will A. Gibson Jr., of Bronxville, N. Y., formerly of Highland Park, announced the engagement of his daughter, Tevis, to Lieut. Robert A. Ermentrout, son of Mrs. Robert A. Ermentrout of Champaign, Ill. The wedding will take place quietly in Manitowish on Sunday, Aug. 18, with only relatives and close family friends as guests. Miss Virginia Gibson will attend her sister as maid of honor, and Lieut. John W. Hope will serve Lieut. Ermentrout as best man.

Miss Gibson has not seen much of Highland Park for the last two years. After Mr. Gibson moved east to Bronxville she went out west and spent one winter on the Linda Vista ranch near Oracle, Ariz., and several months in California and Mexico. She attended Miss Mason's school in Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson; the Finch school in New York and the Knox school in Cooperstown. Later she went to Northwestern university for a year.

The bridegroom-to-be was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1928. He is stationed in Manitowish, where he and his bride will make their home temporarily. After he leaves the army they hope to go to Texas to make their home on a ranch. Miss Gibson is spending a few days in Chicago with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Griffiths at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Tuells Wedding Is Announced.

At 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon Miss Ruth Frances Tuells, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis F. Tuells of 536 Sheridan road, Evanston, became the bride of Robert T. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton H. Wright of Lake Bluff.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, and was followed by a supper for the intimate friends and members of the families. There was no announcement of the wedding beforehand, as the bridegroom was unable to tell before when he could come west. He and his bride are honeymooning in New York and Washington, D. C. where he is located temporarily on business, and will eventually make their home in Lake Bluff.

On Aug. 29 at 8 o'clock in the evening Miss Lorraine Adele Donkle is to become the bride of George W. Weatherby III., son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Weatherby of 6933 Oglesby avenue. The wedding will take place at the home of Miss Donkle's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Lucius Boardman Donkle of 6939 Crandon avenue, and will be followed by a large reception at the South Shore Country club. The bride's sister, Miss Donna Donkle, will be her only attendant, and Mr. Weatherby's father is to be best man.

The couple are to go to New Orleans on their honeymoon, and from there will take a boat to New York. Upon their return they will live at 7552 Essex avenue.

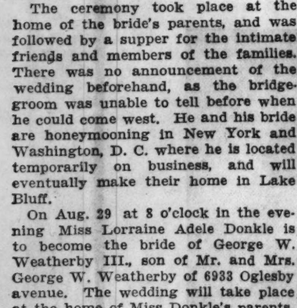
Miss Bayliss attended the University of West Virginia. Mr. Kaufman was graduated from Lehigh university. The wedding will take place in the chapel of the First Congregational church in Evanston at 4 o'clock on Aug. 17.

Texas Reader Is Contributor of Sagebrush Quilt



Sagebrush Block.

BY NANCY CABOT.

An interested correspondent from Texas sent me a pattern which is her conception of a sagebrush blooming. This appliqué pattern is undeniably attractive, and works up into a lovely coverlet. Soft blue, yellow, and green are suggested colors, but any combination harmonizing with the room in which the quilt is to be used, will be equally effective.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

WE'VE had lots of letters recently asking for a really nice foundation cream that will help out some of these wind-and-weather skins which the summer sun has distributed all too generously. There's one on the market that we think does the trick especially well. Delicate and light in texture, with a feminine and elusive scent that is delightful, it smooths on with the greatest of ease and disappears into the skin without the slightest tendency to streak or cake.

And with its vanishing goes every vestige of shine, and all signs of dryness—unless, of course, one happens to be in the out-and-out peeling stage, in which case, it still helps conceal the awful truth! And when its absorption is complete, you have a soft, dull matlike surface that is ideal as a make-up base. It seems to contain enough oil to avoid any tendency to be drying, yet not enough to be in any way visible; and it is therefore exceptionally good in concealing a dry condition of the skin, while at the same time, contributing at least slightly to its amelioration.

Soap and water addicts will find that it is ideal when used immediately after the morning scrubbing because of its softening effect. The just-scrubbed look, as exemplified by a high gloss, is replaced by the finely groomed appearance that every woman strives for. The skin looks cared for, supple and fresh.

And besides hiding away any mild tendency toward flakiness that may have been acquired during the summer, it prevents further drying out of the skin by forming a protective covering beneath the make-up.

As to those of you who may be in the unhappy stage of changing old skin for new, powder is frequently out of the question, and you may find it helpful to apply this cream, then your rouge and lipstick, and call it a day. It will at least help to conceal the ravelings! M. S.

Proportion Not Only Asset of Ideal Figure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Every little while there are presented, for tapeline comparison, ideal figure proportions. It may interest you to hear these measurements as subscribed by a corsetiere who has seen figures go through many an evolution in her thirty some odd years of business:

Waistline—28 inches.
Bustline—34 inches.

The above figures, presented by the corsetiere referred to, contribute the ideal proportions for the 1935 silhouette. She told, in a recent interview, that it has taken women thirty years to arrive at this ideal figure stage of beauty. The corsetiere finds that there are any number of women today who may be found subscribing to the ideal measurements.

But one gathers, from the expert's observations, the proportions alone are not what make the figure ideal. Ideal proportions they remain, but the ideal figure must yet subscribe to an ideal balancing of the body, a grace of motion and fitness generally that is earned by swimming and dancing and such other grace building and body balancing activity as is: commonly practiced by keen, energetic women of the day.

This point of ideal proportions not always making the ideal figure is one for women to ponder. In it one finds the difference between the young-old figure on the middle aged woman who has reduced within an inch of her life by diet alone and the young middle aged figure that permits other things along with diet to remold her after the pattern of youth. In some of the older diet reduced figures there often is the same stiffness of muscle, the same unyielding action of bone and muscle, as is common with the age when no reducing measures have been practiced.

In other words, dieting is all right for flesh removal, but for body beauty a little exercise in play or gym form must be included for the really youthful figure.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Paris dressmakers, through their organization, Pais, acceded today to the request of American buyers that the designers ship their New York-bound models on the French Ile de France, rather than the German Bremen, and turned their attention to the equally troublesome problem of waistlines.

Dressmakers not affiliated with Pais were expected to follow its lead, inspired by German anti-Semitism.

Some clung stubbornly to the natural line, but Vera Borea went in the other direction, pulling waistlines up 1 to 2 inches above normal by means of wide belts.

Trousered skirts appeared in afternoon frocks of black silk and velvet. They had a slender top skirt slit to the waist, disclosing the trousers beneath, and some of them let several inches of trouser leg appear below the skirt hem.

Among the new garments shown were afternoon dresses in black lame, in emerald wools, and in crêpes of vermilion, brown, and yellowish green. The fullness of the skirts came in front.

Some gray and brown wool sports frocks had exceedingly wide, full skirts.

Most of the new winter styles had high necklines and there were numerous lame and metal braid touches.

Earl of Craven, 17, Arrives for Visit in United States

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Traveling incognito as "Mr. Craven," the 17 year old earl of Craven arrived here today from London on the American Trader of the American Merchant lines. The earl, a shy youth, is 5 feet 8 inches in height and red headed. He looks even younger than he is. He was accompanied by his friend and tutor, Robert Bellord, a London law student. They will be the guests for the next three weeks of C. H. Hornberg at 419 East 57th street.

South has no bid and West has no bid; but as to North's position in the scheme of things, a few arguments may arise. Those who swear by the Sims system of "protection" will probably open the North hand; but North's hand is not of a protective pattern. North is not well enough armed to enter the bridge field of honor. His place is on the sidelines, watching with quiet amusement East's pitiful attempts to make a game.

North was playing Sims, however, with all flags flying! And North had not been known to pass third hand within the memory of living man. North, therefore, bid one diamond. East doubled, hoping that South and West would be taken with paralytic strokes; but South bid one spade and West two hearts.

Evidently the heart bid was just what East had been waiting to hear. He bounced into three no trumps and played it there—undoubled. A spade was opened. East went up with the jack and North went up with the queen. He was allowed to hold the trick and, after duly examining his hand in the light of the dummy, returned the suit. East took with the ace.

Some guardian spirit must have been hovering protectively over East. At any rate, he proceeded to knock out the ace of clubs, thus killing South's hand. South knew better than to disclose the fact that he was "hors de combat." He played back a spade just as if he had hundreds of reëntries. From this point on, East could sniff out his ninth trick.

It had taken the king and queen of clubs to pry South loose from his ace. Now East led the jack and North had a discard to make. Torn between two evils, North parted with the deuce of hearts. East promptly played the nine spot. South covered with the jack; the queen went up and North took it with the king. Here was where North slipped on the banana peel that the declarer had thrown carelessly before him. He returned a low diamond.

There was no trembling in the fingers that tossed the three of diamonds on the trick. North stared, popeyed. The declarer had allowed the diamond lead to ride to the dummy's seven spot. This play, born of desperation, gave East an extra entry to clear the diamond suit, and a few minutes later he was chalking up 100 points on his side of the ledger.

BY MARY MEADE.

If your summer sweet tooth has a cavity much enlarged from an hour of outdoor sport and still your candy making urge isn't as strong as it is of a chilly winter's evening—compromise! Don't give up the home made sweet and don't spend an hour fussing over the stove and wearing out your good right arm.

As a matter of fact we're not talking about the ready made fudge mix, which asks only the addition of a little liquid and smoothing out in a pan, creamy and delicious though it may be. Instead the reference is to home made uncooked sweets—the kind that you can stir together quickly and comfortably in front of a breezy window.

Or, if you like, this kind of candy making can be turned into a vacation pastime for the youngsters. It keeps them occupied and interested and they're sure to be delighted with the wholesome products of their labors.

Whether or not you've a horde of unmanageable young vacationists clamoring around the kitchen, here are two such suggestions for uncooked candies you're sure to like. They're a couple of smoothies made with sweetened condensed milk—delightfully easy to make and to nibble:

Walnut Fruit Loaf.

2 cups raisins
1 cup walnut meats
¼ cup sweetened condensed milk

Put the raisins and nut meats through a food chopper. Blend thoroughly with the sweetened condensed milk. Scrape the mixture into a buttered pan which has been sprinkled with confectioner's sugar. Over the smoothed top sprinkle more confectioner's sugar and cut into squares for serving.

Orange Coconut Balls.

¼ cup sweetened condensed milk
2 teaspoons orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup shredded coconut

Measure the confectioner's sugar after sifting and blend with the sweetened condensed milk, orange juice, and grated orange rind. Drop from a teaspoon into the shredded coconut and roll into small balls. Chill for several hours before serving. (These are nice, incidentally, as a highlight of the summer tea party.)

Now to veer abruptly (d'y' mind?) from candies to cookbooks. If you enjoyed reading and are using either of the Vicomte de Mauduit's previous books, "The Vicomte in the Kitchen" or "The Vicomte in the Pantry," you will be delighted to know that the bemonocled gentleman of the eyeglass has recently come forth with a new offering. "The Vicomte in the Kitchenette" is a collection of decidedly interesting recipes which may be prepared quickly in a limited space and with simple equipment.

In the words of the author, it's "to help bachelors—men and girls—flat dwellers, and folks who love good food but who are cramped by their means.' As a good standard cookbook it may not be the top, but it is crammed with a great many intriguing (and simple) recipes. The publishers are Covici-Friede, 432 4th avenue, New York; the price $1.75.

Heifetz Sees Larger Crowds for Music than for Football

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, predicted tonight that "within a few years classical music will draw more people to the stadiums of America than football."

He made this statement at Lewisohn stadium where, on bright autumn Saturday afternoons, Benny Friedman's city college football squad plays before meagre crowds.

In contrast, 3,000 extra chairs had to be lined along the gridiron to accommodate the crowd which came clamoring to the gates of the stadium tonight to hear Heifetz play with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society orchestra.

Heifetz said he felt "the amount of good music being played on the radio today has precipitated a musical renaissance."

He added he did not believe the people would be satisfied to listen to symphony music over the radio in the future just as they are not satisfied to listen to descriptions of the football games.

Couple Should Share Interest Outside Home

People Planning Marriage Must Consider This.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In a recent survey of marriage by several well known psychologists, it was found that interests outside the home, shared commonly by husband and wife, contributed a reasonable guarantee of happiness. Interests outside the home pursued by one to the exclusion of the other, the survey indicates, leads to estrangement.

There's more than a good tip here for such young couples as have not already signed up with the license bureau. As we hear it, in this department, from a number of young women contemplating marriage, the color of the ties the youth wears seems to be more of an argument for or against him or something equally superficial, than his quality as a longtime companion. It's a question whether we can expect to endow young people with the vision to look ahead to those hours that must be spent together with the current excitement of movies and dances and such other entertainment as they now pursue pushed into the background.

But if they could see ahead a few years, and were fortified with such harmonious interests as the psychologists suggest, there would be a great deal less registering of domestic troubles with the lawyers.

Our mail is cluttered with complaints from wives who love to dance but who find themselves married to men with unwilling dancing feet. The young woman builds up a fine case of martyrdom for herself on this account. She's young yet, she argues. She wants to live. A little vision ahead would have helped in such a case. Or, the situation may be reversed, the man being the excitement loving sort of person, the wife a born fireside one.

Where temperamental characteristics are so opposed, friction is difficult to avoid. It isn't to be assumed, of course, that a man who can't be dragged to the opera by a music loving wife is necessarily an unfit mate for her. So long as there are some outside interests that can be shared, a harmonious relationship may be established, but where no single outside interest is enjoyed in common, the chances are against a successful union.

Confusion Is Cause of Much Disobedience

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Son, I certainly am discouraged. Here it is lunch time and that curtain rod isn't up."

But, mother! I didn't know you meant for me to do it right away. I was going to put the rod up—really I was, mother—but I didn't know you meant right then, when you asked!"

If we had a full book on disobedience I believe it would be one of our six best sellers on behavior. And we could write a sizable volume on this subject alone—there are so many angles to be covered and so much that could be said that would be helpful to parents in answering their ever recurring question, "Why is my child so disobedient?"

Confusion is one reason for disobedience that we have not dwelt on much in this column. But it is often responsible for our feeling that a child is disobedient or even accusing him of it, quite unjustly. This episode of son and his mother and the curtain rod furnishes a good example of what I mean.

Children sometimes seem to disobey when they don't know just what we want. Either we may express ourselves too loosely, so that a young child doesn't understand, or we may take for granted that an older one can read our mind.

If we say, "Come home around 5, Margaret," Margaret isn't disobedient if she gets home at 5:20, and we would be unjust in finding fault with her. If we want her home on the minute, then we should say plainly, "Margaret, remember—I want you home by 5—surely by 5."

With the smaller child our directions should be most explicitly given and we should not expect an obedience that he is too immature to render—such as keeping track of time or being given a direction too far ahead. If we are clear and reasonable in what we ask, it will help the children in acquiring the habit of obedience.

FLOOD OF PLEAS RAPIDLY USING UP FREE ICE TICKETS

Expect Need to Increase During August.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A flood of emergency appeals to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund is rapidly exhausting the supply of tickets, according to Miss Edna Mae Wray of the United Charities, administrator of the fund.

With the "dog days" of August to look forward to, there seems to be little hope of abatement in the number of calls, Miss Wray said yesterday. On the contrary, they may be expected to increase. Consequently, the only hope of providing ice for the poor and the sick of Chicago lies in the open-handedness with which readers of THE TRIBUNE respond to their appeal for aid.

Readers Have Never Failed.

In former years TRIBUNE readers never failed to respond. It is hoped that they will continue their generosity throughout the remainder of the summer.

The children of Mayfair Presbyterian church, Ainslie and Kostner avenues, will appear in a benefit entertainment for THE TRIBUNE free ice fund at 3 p. m. today at the church. The program consists of piano solos, dances, songs, two playlets, "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Snow White and Rose Red" and a half hour of magician's tricks.

Among the latest contributors were three groups of children, all of whom turned into the ice fund coffers the entire proceeds of summertime entertainments given in their backyards or homes.

John Edmund Weise, 10 years old, 6150 St. Anthony court, sent in $3.47, the proceeds of an all day "Midway" given in his yard Aug. 1. The carnival started at 1 p. m. and continued into the night, lighted by lanterns. Assisting John were Rochelle Kallis, Ruth Kallis, Ruth Greenberg, and Sheldon Fienk.

Girls Turn Publishers.

Marion Walker and Ruth M. Reininga, both 12 years old, of River Forest, sent in a check for $2.30, the proceeds of a "small monthly newspaper containing stories, sports, news items."

From Joyce Chirpe and Josephine and Billy Lambrecht came $1 and the following note, written in round, childish letters: "We had a little show in our basement and made one dollar, which we are happy to send to you for the sick babies. We hope it will help them."

The ice fund here shivers a bit and begs the pardon of seven of its best boosters in Blue Island. With Lamar Landgraf, the seven put on a carnival, which netted $1.60 for the fund. Their names, however, were omitted when the donation was acknowledged. They are Ida Mae Roehm, Gertrude Mary Piedmont, Billy Parker, Marjorie Parker, Norma Jean Walm, Jackie and Teddy Landgraf.

A total of 1,120 mothers, children, and babies from the tenement districts of Chicago already have had two week outings at beautiful Camp Algonquin on the Fox river, Mrs. Astrid Save, superintendent, announced.

In addition, 40 boys and 40 girls from the stock yards district, selected because they were seriously underweight, soon will enter their third month of rustic fattening existence.

What Nine Dollars Can Do.

Nine dollars will send one child or one mother to the camp for two weeks. For many, child and mother alike, this trip is the first view of life outside a city street.

Current contributions to the Camp Algonquin fund are:

ILLINOIS TROOPS COULD FIGHT IN MONTH: LEADER

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—As guardsmen moved out onto a rain-drenched field today for instruction in the use of machine guns, howitzers, light cannon and automatic rifles, Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, acting commander of the 33d division, predicted they could be ready for actual war in 30 days.

"The guard, under the direction of Major General of Militia Roy D. Keehn, has reached a high state of efficiency and could be available for combat service in thirty days," he said. "However, in order to take the field with full wartime strength, we should have to double our present forces, obtain and train animals and get equipment in shape in a month."

Bell Bowl at Camp Grant tomorrow afternoon will be converted into a section of a battle field for the first war maneuvers of the year. Barrages will be laid down, troops will be sent from position to position, machine guns will be set up in strategic spots and officers from an elevation will direct the troop movement over a mile long sector.

THIRD WIFE, CALLING J. L. YOUNGHUSBAND CRUEL, ASKS DIVORCE

Reno, Nev., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ruth H. Younghusband, third wife of J. Leslie Younghusband, 36, wealthy cosmetic manufacturer of Chicago, today filed suit for divorce in the state courts. Mrs. Younghusband charges cruelty. She asks the custody of her child, a son.

Younghusband is president of the American Advertised Products, Inc., and of the Tattoo company. This is the second time in four years he has been a defendant in Nevada divorce courts.

He was divorced by Mrs. Shirley B. Younghusband, his second wife, here in 1931.

Mrs. Ruth Younghusband said her husband was sued in Chicago in May, 1933, a month after their marriage, by Miss Alyce Strand, a former employé, for $100,000 in a breach of promise case. That suit never went to trial. Younghusband's first wife died in 1927.

Joseph A. Ziemba, who has been general superintendent of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium since June 1, 1932, was nominated to the post of United States collector of customs in Chicago by President Roosevelt yesterday, authorities here were informed. The nomination must go to the senate for approval.

Ziemba, a former druggist, had been chief clerk of the tax extension department of the county clerk's office for ten years before his appointment to the sanitarium, and prior to that had been chief clerk of the board of election commissioners.

The nomination of Ziemba followed the recommendation of Senator James Hamilton Lewis and he had been backed for the post by Polish newspapers and Democratic leaders of Polish descent. The post became vacant last April 1 when Anthony Czarnecki, who had held the position since 1926, was not reappointed to the office upon the expiration of his term.

CARL BAUER NAMED TO DIRECT ILLINOIS PROJECTS FOR PWA

Carl A. Bauer, engineer and state construction inspector, was appointed Illinois director for the Public Works administration by President Roosevelt yesterday, according to dispatches from Washington. The appointment must be confirmed by the senate.

Mr. Bauer, who lives at 1215 Mulford street, Evanston, now is serving as engineer examiner for public works at Washington. He is 41 years old, and a graduate of the Northwestern university school of engineering. For several years he was general superintendent of construction for the Chicago Transfer Clearing company, and for 12 years was architect and engineer for a Racine plow manufacturing concern.

Under the new four billion dollar works program, administered directly by the President, a portion of the funds is allocated to the PWA and the rest to the Works Progress administration of which Robert J. Dunham is Illinois director.

JURY SELECTED FOR TRIAL OF BELLA BUTMAN

A jury to try Mrs. Bella Butman for her part in an alleged plot to gain by fraud the $100,000 estate of James Thomas Kelly, West Madison street flophouse miser, was selected yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Walter J. La Buy. Taking of evidence will begin today.

Mrs. Butman won a separate trial from six other defendants who are accused with her of trying to get possession of the estate through forging a will. She is represented by Attorney Harold Levy. Last June a jury disagreed as to the guilt of Attorney Julius P. Waitches, one of the defendants, and his retrial still is pending.

The other defendants are John J. Bagdonas, an undertaker; John Dailyde, and the "Rev." Paul Peter Zalink, who have admitted signing their names to the will after Kelly was dead; Nicholas Radis, an assistant of Bagdonas, who pleaded guilty, and Thomas Butman, son of the woman on trial.

THOMAS REGAINS LEAD; NAME COACHES TOMORROW

BACHMAN AND MADIGAN RUN SECOND IN POLL

Votes Still Swamp Tabulators.

BY ARCH WARD.

Frank Thomas of Alabama yesterday pulled away from his rivals in the national poll that will determine the coaching staf of the College All-American football players who will meet the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field Aug. 29. He has opened up a lead of more than 100,000 points on Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, and Charles Bachman of Michigan State, who are running almost on even terms for second place.

Newspapers in all parts of the country were swamped with the last day's vote. Today's standings do not include the final figures from Birmingham, Ala.; San Francisco, Cal.; Lansing and Detroit, Mich.; Madison, Wis., or Bloomington, Ind., where the voting has been heaviest. These will appear tomorrow when the winners will be announced.

The first four coaches at the finish of the poll will be invited to report at Northwestern to take charge of the squad next Monday morning. The one with the greatest number of total points will be named head coach and will be entirely responsible for the direction of the squad. The next three will be his assistants.

They're Still Counting.

At least a million votes, either directly or through other newspapers, reached this office yesterday. The contest department still was buried under the avalanche as this piece went to press. By working most of the night and all day today the 20 young women who are counting the returns will have the final figures available for the early editions tomorrow morning. The votes included in today's standings number 6,174,929. More than 25,000, suspected of being fraudulent, have been thrown out.

Thomas' lead this morning is traceable to the 98,806 he received Sunday night from East Chicago, Hammond, Gary, Calumet, and other cities in the steel district. Floyd Murray, Hammond attorney, who coached Thomas when he was an athlete at East Chicago High school, was largely responsible for getting out the huge vote. Every ballot had the name and address of the voter and hundreds were checked and substantiated yesterday by THE TRIBUNE. Dr. C. W. Spears of Wisconsin was second choice on nearly every vote.

The Thomas total will be increased sharply tomorrow when the final votes from the Birmingham News and Age Herald have been recorded. This was the telegram received early yesterday from Zipp Newman, sports editor of the newspaper: "Credit Thomas with 115,108 more votes, giving him total of 334,745 in News' poll. Air mailing all votes through noon today. You have made a wreck out of my staf. We have broken all records for Alabama contests by many thousands. Final batch will be wired tonight."

Spears' Support United.

"For first place, Spears, 72,269. For second place, Thomas, 55,591. For third place, Sutherland, 66,512. The grand total cleared through State Journal was 174,656. These came from practically every community in the state as well as from points outside. Never anything like it here. Steady stream of people came into this office with votes up to midnight Sunday."

Ben Kaufman, sports editor of the Bloomington, Ind., World, forwarded 42,550 votes for Bo McMillin, which had been sent there by admirers of the Indiana coach in the vicinity of Fort Worth, Tex. Robert A. Cook of the Indiana University Sphinx club

W-G-N REFUSES TO TAKE SPONSORED GRID BROADCASTS

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Although several Big Ten athletic departments resolved to sell exclusive football broadcasting rights this season, W-G-N yesterday announced all collegiate football broadcasts on THE TRIBUNE'S station will be carried as a public service on a sustaining basis and that no commercial sponsorship will be permitted.

In this new policy W-G-N will be supported by the National Broadcasting company. Niles Trammell, vice president in charge of the Chicago division of NBC, announced no sponsored football broadcasts will be carried locally by WMAQ and WENR, Chicago stations operated by NBC.

W-G-N for seven years broadcast the pick of college football games on a sustaining basis- that is, broadcasting without a sponsor and defraying all expenses of the program. Four years ago it began sponsored broadcasts of games to help pay the line charges and other costs involved in long distance broadcasting. But throughout all these years the station always retained the right to make its own schedule—drawing one each year that it felt would have the widest listening interest.

Ignores Public Interest.

Under the new setup, with schools selling their rights directly to an advertiser, W-G-N feels it would be losing control over broadcasts operated for the public interest and would be forced to put on the air some games secondary to others available on any particular day.

"Under the new plan to sell broadcast privileges to an advertiser," Manager Quin Ryan explained, "W-G-N feels the decision as to what games would be broadcast would lie with the sponsor alone. W-G-N believes that the schedule of football broadcasts should be decided on by the importance of games to be played. Our schedules have always been made up with the coöperation and advice of the football experts of THE TRIBUNE. Under the new plan the advertiser would make all decisions and would be bound by his decision throughout the year regardless of whether the team he selects is engaged in an important contest or one that has been rendered secondary by previous developments and is of no public interest.

"The listeners' interest is always paramount. We shall continue to pick a schedule that ranks the highest in importance."

Big Schools Refuse.

On learning that Big Ten athletic departments were shopping around for sponsors, W-G-N sent telegrams to the directors of athletics of all Western conference universities and Notre Dame asking whether their games would be made available to W-G-N for broadcasting on a sustaining basis.

Levinsky Drills in Secret as Louis Rests for Bout

BY WILFRID SMITH.

King Levinsky, 198 pounds, practiced in secret yesterday afternoon at Round Lake. Joe Louis, a bit subnormal in weight at 194 pounds, practiced relaxation at Julian Black's Michigan summer home. And Sol Katz and his staf of ticket men, far below weight and distinctly on edge, took $10,000 with practiced hands at the Morrison hotel from the many who wish to see the Kingfish and Golden Gloves Joe battle 10 rounds tomorrow night at Comiskey park.

JOE FOLEY.

Only the Fighters Are Cool.

Advance sales, so Mike Jacobs and Joe Foley informed the press yesterday after conferences with the practiced Mr. Katz, now have reached $114,000. This is positive evidence that the goal of $200,000 gross receipts will be reached particularly in consideration of the thousands of $2.40 reserved by section tickets which go on sale tomorrow afternoon. The financial success of Chicago's biggest fight since the days of Dempsey and Tunney seems assured.

Probably the most calm individuals, who have any connection with tomorrow's goings on, are the gents who'll do the fighting. No one ever has broken the cold, passionless expression of Louis, at least not in public, and Levinsky's reputation for insouciance is equally well publicized. But at the fight headquarters all is chaos.

You Probably Won't Get In.

The Illinois athletic commissioners—Chairman Joe Triner, George Getz, and Packy McFarland—yesterday had their moment. They reviewed the proposed plans, by which trafic will be handled and order maintained, and voted approval. In addition, the commissioners announced that Messrs. Levinsky and Louis would weigh in and be examined at 12:30 tomorrow afternoon in a special room on the thirteenth floor of the Mallers building. The other fighters will arrive at the usual time of 1 o'clock.

The Mallers building is located at

Long Shots Run Fast as Lincoln Fields Opens

BY FRENCH LANE.

Long shot players did everything but take over the race track when the Lincoln Fields Jocky club opened its 25 day summer racing season yesterday afternoon.

And it was no wonder they did.

They cashed on Tiny Kitty at $29.40 when she galloped home the winner of the first race. They came right back and started cheering louder than ever when Discriminate won the second race for them and paid off at $42.60. They danced a jig when Silverette took the third race and returned $82.80.

Yet that's only half the story.

Daily Double Pays $2,774.

The daily double combination of Discriminate and Silverette paid off at $2,774 for the usual $2 investment. Only two persons in the opening day crowd had hooked up the winning combination and they were quite modest about their superior judgment of horseflesh. In fact, neither would reveal his identity, address, occupation or how he came to adopt his system of picking winners.

The fellow who bought his winning ticket in the clubhouse cashed in on his investment, then hurried to Stuy-

Keokuk, Ia., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Officials of the Keokuk Western league team announced today Italo Chelini, pitcher, had been sold to the Chicago White Sox. He will go to the Sox at the close of the season. No purchase price was divulged by Larry Harlan, owner of the Keokuk club. Chelini is 19 years old.

WHITE SOX MAKE O'NEILL'S DEBUT AS BOSS SUCCESS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 5.—The White Sox made an involuntary contribution today to the success of Steve O'Neill's debut as manager of the Cleveland Indians. The third place Chicagoans, unable to do much hitting against Ralph Winegarner, whom the new manager found in the bull pen, were bowled over in the opener of the series, 4 to 2. It was the fifth defeat in succession for the Sox, giving them a new mark for losing streaks this season.

The Indians started their new boss, who succeeded Walter Johnson as manager last night, off on the right track by making use of the pitching of Vernon Kennedy and of their short right field fence. In the first inning Earl Averill lifted a homer over the wall and in the third hit it for a double after Luke Appling had errored with none out. This proved the starter of a three run rally that meant the ball game. Thereafter Kennedy and his successor, Whitlow Wyatt, were invincible, but it didn't mean anything.

It Was Questionable.

Winegarner, who under the Walter Johnson régime was just one of the boys who worked when not much was at stake, was good enough to get well started on a no hit achievement. He carried on in that direction for the first five innings, during which the Sox probably helped to make themselves feeble by building a mental hazard as they harangued the umpires continually about the young man pitching with his foot off the rubber. Finally in the fifth Umpire Bill Dineen cautioned him. Winegarner listened attentively and then proceeded to pitch to the finish in the same unethical fashion.

The Sox, no doubt feeling satisfied by Umpire Dineen's unheeded warning, broke Winegarner's hitless chain in the sixth and this brought on another rumpus. They let go with three hits in a row, but didn't score because the umpires, contrary to heated protest from the Chicagoans, ruled that Rip Radcliff had been hit by one of the hits. However, the Sox did manage to punch home a pair of runs in the seventh, but they promptly subsided and went through the eighth and ninth innings without cooking up a serious threat.

Kennedy Meets Trouble.

Kennedy's first inning was sort of strenuous, but the only real damage was done by Averill's homer. The latter got the Sox rookie into a 3 and 1 hole and the next thing that came along was a cripple. Averill lifted it over the nearby right field wall for his tenth homer. This happened with one out and the second out was recorded when Appling tossed out Vosmik. Then Trosky survived on an error

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 5. — Tinkering with the National league schedule to enable the Cubs to stay over here today turned out to be a grievous maneuver from the Chicago point of view. The second placers took a spanking at the hands of the Reds, 3 to 1, thus losing the series, three games to two, and winding up their road trip with five defeats as compared with four victories. The game was finished under protest, but as matters stand the Chicagoans now are four games behind the leading Giants.

The protest was based on a ground rule interpretation in the sixth inning when the umpires put Babe Herman on second after the fourth ball had gone into the boxes. The formal objection was lodged without anger and the final ruling is up to the president of the league.

Wally Gets 3 More.

Tex Carleton, who has been fortunate in ducking defeats despite frequent collapses, got stung with the decision today. Tex pitched well throughout, except for a four hit fainting spell in the second inning, during which the Reds made two of their runs. The other came after the protested play in the sixth. It was Carleton's fourth defeat of the year.

Al Hollingsworth, who generally is very wild, was steady today and had a shutout in hand until he tired a bit in the eighth. Wally Stephenson again caught for the Cubs and again led the team in hitting with three hits just as he did in his première yesterday. His third hit figured in the Cubs' shutout avoidance.

Cubs Miss Chance.

The Cubs blew a chance for heavy production in the second inning. Stainback opened with a single to center, paused while Demaree lifted a fly to Byrd and went to third on Stephenson's single to right. Hack was called out on strikes, but Jurges walked, filling the bases. Carleton ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then whiffed.

The Reds were considerably more successful in their second inning. Bottomley opened with a single to right and, after Riggs had fouled to Jurges, Erickson also singled to right. Bottomley stopping at second. Myers singled to center, filling the bases and Kampouris also singled to center, scoring Bottomley and Erickson and putting Myers on third. Kampouris vesant Peabody, president of the Lincoln Fields Jocky club, and asked that his name not be made public. It was not.

The other chap bought his $2,774 ticket in the big ring beneath the grandstand. He almost tore the railings down getting up to the cashier's window. A crowd gathered around him and all of a sudden he bolted away from the window and disappeared. Late in the afternoon he had not appeared again to collect his money.

Modest, to Say the Least.

The weather man again proved that he plays no favorites when he sent along a drizzle of rain yesterday which continued until mid-afternoon.

The opening at every track in Chicago this year has been marred by rain.

Early in the afternoon the track was good, but finally the rain got in its work and it was slow and holding. The rainy weather and changed track conditions held the attendance to 7,500 but the long shots kept everyone except the players of favorites in rare good humor.

The upset of the favorites continued through the running of the $1,500 Will County handicap, which was the feature race on the opening program.

This was a dash at 6 furlongs and Clang, the world's record holder at 7 furlongs, was backed almost to the exclusion of all the others.

But Clang Didn't Win.

Clang didn't win it, although he gave his hundreds of backers great confidence while he was running well out in front during the early stages of the battle. They were ready to rush for the cashiers' side of the mutuel betting plant when he headed into the stretch still better than a length in front.

Then along came Westmain. He had started slowly and remained far out of it until he started to wheel around the last bend. He sailed by Khamzen, Wise Bessa and Top Dog in quick succession and then took out after Clang.

He didn't appear dangerous until the sixteenth pole was reached. He put on more speed and Clang's strides began to shorten. On came Westmain. He collared Clang in the closing strides. He continued to race along in his long easy stride and was the winner over Clang by half a length.

Wise Bessa finished third. Cotton Club, which also finished very fast, landed in fourth place.

Westmain's Time Is 1:14 2-5.

Westmain, one of the most frequent winners of the year around Chicago, is owned by Charley Peck of the Board of Trade and is trained by the southern horseman, Tony Pelleteri. He ran the six furlongs over the slow track in 1:14 2-5.

He won five races in a row at Washington Park last June. Later on he trained off somewhat, but got into stride again today. His performance yesterday indicated that he is better than ever.

In the betting he paid $9.80 to win Even Owner Peck did not fancy him too well. He was afraid he couldn't beat the fleet footed Clang, so didn't make much of a wager on his color bearer.

Laddie Tonelli and Mike to Box Tonight

Laddie Tonelli of Marseilles, will make his first Chicago appearance in five months in a ten round bout against Petey Mike of Palm Beach, tonight at Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues. Tonelli returned recently from Los Angeles, Cal., where he had four bouts, none of which he lost.

Tonelli held Sammy O'Dell to a draw there. His victims included Ray Acosta and Tony La Rue.

Mickey Nolan and Sailor Born will box five rounds at 137 pounds in the semi-windup. Two of four supplementary matches will involve Joe Wiley and Tony Michaels at 135 pounds and Mickey Balaban and John Brown at the heavyweight poundage.

TINY KITTY raced through between horses when improving her position in first quarter, was aided by clever riding and, drawing out into a long lead when ready in stretch, won with something left. COFLIER, a strong factor from the start and forced to race wide, was under strong pressure the final quarter and held on well. SWEET CHARIOT, under steady restraint for three-quarters, could not get to winner when strongly urged and weakened in final eighth.

Winner trained by D. Womeldorff. Went to post at 2:51. At post ¾ minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

DISCRIMINATE, away fast and having speed, bore out badly on the turn, raced to the lead gradually when straight in stretch, swerved to inside when drawing out and unseated his rider following the race. BATTING EYE displayed good speed for the going from the start, saved ground the final three-eighths and weakened in late stages, but outstayed SYCORAX. Latter improved her position fast soon after reaching stretch and, continuing well to end, finished fastest of all.

SILVERETTE, going in her best form and having speed from the start, took command while coming wide on stretch turn and continuing well, held sway thereafter to win with something left. VANITA, away slowly, but well up after opening quarter, closed with determination in a fine effort. CHRYSOSTOM, far out of it for half a mile, came to outside in stretch and closed with a rush.

ONRUSH, going in his best form, forced the pace under steady restraint, took command gradually after reaching last five-sixteenths and weakening in final sixteenth, won under pressure. CHIEF MOURNER, well up from the start and forced to race wide, stood a long drive gamely. JEN'S SON was under vigorous riding after five-eighths, readily gave way to winner and faltered after seven-eighths.

GLITTERING, having ground throughout and under light restraint for three quarters, increased his advantage when urged and won with something in reserve. OPEN HEARTH, slow to recover after being taken back as he failed to get through between the leaders approaching far turn, came to outside in stretch, closing with good speed under strong handling, wore down SYNOD and ARSON. Latter, under steady restraint for three-quarters, did not improve her speed under vigorous riding thereafter.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,500. Net value to winner, $1,100: second, $225: third, $125: fourth, $50.

WESTMAIN, allowed to remain out of it for half a mile and brought to outside entering stretch, overtook KHAMSZEN, WISE BESSA and TOP DOG in quick succession approaching final eighth and, wearing down CLANG in last fifty yards, was ready to draw away. CLANG, rushed to front on inside, displayed good speed and held on with fine courage, but was not good enough. WISE BESSA weakened slightly in the drive, but outstayed COTTON CLUB.

FAIR TIME, reserved off the pace and under strong restraint for three-quarters, easily overtook STAR BANNER when ready but weakened after taking a good lead in final eighth, yet withstood MERRY GO ROUND'S bid. Latter, well up early, dropped back slightly when losing ground on stretch turn and taken to inside for the drive, closed badly. STAR BANNER, raced into a long lead when ready, but readily gave way to leaders, then came again mildly.

DUTCHY, going in his best form and showing the most speed from the start, came away fast after withstanding MISS GLACE'S bid, but had little left. MISS GLACE, on inside for seven-eighths, could not get up with a game bid under strong riding after coming out in stretch and weakened slightly in late stages, but held CULLODEN safe. DODGERS' RALLY IN 9TH IS SHORT; GIANTS WIN, 5-4

Leiber, Bartell Drive In All New York Runs.

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers pounded young Al Smith for three runs in the ninth today, driving the southpaw from the mound but fell one short of a tie as the New York Giants won their fifth straight victory, 5 to 4.

Hank Leiber and Dick Bartell drove in all the Giant runs, Bartell getting a homer with none on in the seventh, Bill Terry and Gus Mancuso hit safely three times each as New York hit Johnny Babich and George Earnshaw, who took over in the third, safely 11 times.

Two walks and Reis' double finished Smith in the ninth. Allyn Stout relieved him and snuffed the Dodgers out quickly after Jimmy Jordan's double scored two more. Score:

Indians Will Be Fighters, Says O'Neill

Cleveland, O., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Steve O'Neill, the Cleveland Indians' new manager, promised fans tonight he would try to make his team "a fighting ball club." He predicted that under his management the Indians "are going to be more aggressive."

"We're going to take chances, gamble," said the heavy set Irishman.

"Maybe sometimes the boys will look bad trying for an extra base or something like that, but we're going to take the gamble.

"You can't win in baseball by playing safe all the time," he added.

O'Neill said his immediate job would be to straighten out the crippled and failing pitching staf. He said he planned to use Lloyd Brown and Walter Stewart in the net two games with the White Sox and not call upon any of the regulars.

"We may take it on the chin for a couple of days," said O'Neill, "but we'll just have to make the sacrifice to gain some extra rest for our regular starters and give them a chance to regain their usual form.

"I feel that I stand 100 per cent with the players," the new manager continued, "and I expect every one to give me all he has on the field. I think we're going to win some ball games."

Yankees Whip Red Sox, 10-2, in Five Innings

Boston, Mass., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The New York Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox, 10 to 2, today in a game terminated by rain in the first half of the sixth inning. Red Ruffing pitched his first victory for the Yanks after four straight defeats.

Nine hits, seven walks and three errors gave the Yanks their ten runs off five pitchers, starting with Fred Ostermueller and ending with Stewart Bowers, right hander from Gettysburg college, making his big league debut.

A fourth inning shower held up the game 17 minutes and the fifth was a travesty, as, with more rain coming up and on the chance that the game would be called before the legal 4½ innings, the Red Sox tried not to get the Yanks out. Umpire Moriarty finally called a halt to these tactics and the side was retired.

L. WANER HURT; MAY BE OUT FOR SEVERAL WEEKS

Physicians reported last night that Lloyd Waner, brilliant center fielder, may be out of the Pittsburgh Pirates' lineup for several weeks after examining Waner at the Parkway hotel when the Pirates arrived from St. Louis.

Talking It Over

CHICAGO'S White Sox already have drawn more people this year than paid at the gate during the entire 1934 season. . . . They are about 150,000 ahead of last year's figure for the corresponding date. . . . Joe Louis will appear at a charity show on the south side tonight, proceeds of which will be contributed to a fund to pay for an operation on the eyes of Wolcott Langford, blind colored boxer, whose sight can be restored, it is said. . . . Mrs. Tiny Thornhill, wife of the Stanford football coach, never has seen her husband's team play. . . . Agua Caliente had enjoyed an unusually successful season and was about to pay an added dividend when President Cardenas of Mexico turned thumbs down on all border gambling. . . . Hollywood is betting that Fred Perry and Helen Vinson will never marry. . . . Don Budge, Davis cup player, has two weaknesses—hot dogs and milk shakes. . . . They say he has had as many as eleven milk shakes in one day. . . . By winning the recent cricket match between the schools Cambridge university defeated Oxford in the sixth major sports contest of the year, this being the first time in the history of the university it has happened. . . . Cambridge also won the boat race, the rugby and soccer football matches, the track meet, and the golf match. . . .

The insurance man who sold annuities to Jack Dempsey and Jimmy Braddock has added King Levinsky and Sister Lena to his list. . . . They will make their first payments on annuities the morning after the King's fight with Louis. . . . Fifteen months ago this department advanced railroad transportation from Detroit to Chicago to Louis so that he could join the Chicago Golden Gloves squad which was preparing to meet the champions of Poland. . . . A few days ago Louis turned down a $150,000 guarantee to fight Max Baer. . . . He wanted the option of a percentage, and he will get it, too. . . . Sandy Armour, brother of Tommy, is rated one of the most gifted story tellers in golf. . . . Pacific coast fans nicknamed Frank Sobrero of Santa Clara, half back who will play with the College All-Stars against the Bears Aug. 29, the Bomber because of his ability as a forward passer. . . . The Bomber throws all his passes with a hitch hike, releasing the ball while in the air. . . .

Heinie Mueller, the old St. Louis Cardinal, who once bunted with a runner on third and no one out in a close game, then stood around the plate cheering the runner trapped off third, is making a success of managing the Greenburg team in the Pennsylvania State association, a Cardinal farm. . . . Snake stories have a peculiar fascination for Sam Jones of the White Sox. . . . When snake yarns become scarce in the winter Sam runs off the film of the cobra-mongoose fight on his home movie set. David Butler, who has directed many of her pictures, will name a horse after Shirley Temple. . . .

Levinsky Drills Secretly; Louis Rests for Bout

the southeast corner of Madison and Wabash. The address is given, for undoubtedly it can't be kept secret, but you might just as well know now that unless you bring your army discharge papers, your membership card in the police department, or your brother-in-law who is a state senator, you will be stranded at the street level.

Maj. John Bauder of the police department unfolded his armload of diagrams of Comiskey park yesterday for the commissioners and announced his plans. The uniformed police detail will number 850. In addition there will be more than 100 plain clothes police and Andy Frain's 450 ushers. Numerically these figures eclipse preparations for Chicago's last world series, but the battle between the Yankees and the Cubs cannot be compared to the fight between Louis and Levinsky for uncertainties.

Park Is Well Policed.

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed rank, will share responsibilities with Maj. Bauder. They have assigned Capt. T. C. Wolfe, who will be assisted by Lieut. William L. McCarthy, in charge of details to the ball games at Comiskey park. The uniformed policemen will be commanded by eight captains, 24 lieutenants, and 48 sergeants. Officers will be placed in all sections and along the dividing lines between the variously priced ticket locations. About the only way one may hurdle the wall and reach the 8,000 seats on the field will be to vault over a policeman.

Another harassed individual yesterday was Lionel Levy, New York architect, who drew the plans for the seating arrangements. Yesterday he supervised 150 men who were materializing those plans. The ring will be pitched 150 feet from the back stop screen. It will be approximately 20 feet beyond the pitcher's slab toward second base. In addition to 8,000 field seats there are 56,000 seats in the stands.

Parking Room for 5,000 Cars.

Five thousand automobiles can be parked in the lots on the east and west sides of Comiskey park. Taxicabs will park on Shields avenue south of 35th street. Parking is prohibited as follows:

On 35th street and 33d street between the Rock Island tracks and Stewart avenue; on Shields and Wentworth between 33d street and 37th street; on 34th street between Wells avenue and Shields, and on Wells avenue between 33d street and 34th street.

Motorists are urged to drive west from Michigan on 33d street and unload in the parking lots. The $2.40 tickets may be purchased on the southeast and northwest corners of Comiskey park. Other priced seats will be sold at the southwest entrances.

There will be no broadcasts of the bout. Telegraph companies are not permitted to carry blow by blow descriptions to newspapers except under agreement that these reports will not be made available to radio stations.

Prevailing odds were 2 to 1 last night that Louis would defeat Levinsky. It is not considered likely the price will shorten. Whether the fight will end by a knockout is causing more argument than the result and the matter of odds in wagering on this depends entirely on the agreement between the betters.

Complete confidence is manifested by the Louis ménage. On the other hand, although Levinsky himself believes he will win, there is an atmosphere of "we hope" around Round Lake.

"All I want to see," Lena Levy, the King's sister, said yesterday, "is the King's duke in the air when the match is over."

Fighting Up to the King.

Issy Kline and Art Winch, who have conditioned Levinsky, frequently have asserted that the fighting is up to the King. They hope he won't forget his lessons.

Louis' managers have been criticized for their choice of training camp where thousands have paid homage to Joe and the caliber of sparring mates has reached a new low for a fight camp. By taking Louis to Michigan to rest they have tacitly admitted that the sunbaked Savoy arena wasn't the best place in the world to get ready for Levinsky.

This speculation is beside the point. Obviously the man in the street who pays for this fight is convinced that Levinsky has at least a chance to wind one up from his heels and land. If he fails, your average fan will settle for a knockout by Louis, the brown bomber who hammered Primo Carnera out of the heavyweight picture.

2 Rounds, Joe Says

Indians Beat Sox, 4-2, in Series Opener

Trouble came at a double pace in the third after Appling had let Galatzer's grounder seep through his hands. He went to third on Averill's fly ball, which hit the fence just inside the right field foul line for a double. Vosmik was purposely passed, filling the bases. Trosky banged a single to right and Galatzer scored, but Averill was cut down at the plate on Washington's throw to Sewell. Hale's fly dropped in short left for a double, Vosmik scoring. Trosky scored the third run of the inning while Knickerbocker was being thrown out. Berger filed to Simmons.

Winegarner Weakens.

The first man to get to base on Winegarner was Appling, who walked with two out in the fifth, after which Hopkins fanned. Then in the sixth the Sox not only broke the hitless spell but tumbled into their second jam with the umpires. With one out Kennedy singled through short for the first hit and sprinted to third on Radcliff's single against the nearby right field wall. The business of swarming on the umpires developed when Piet bounced an apparently legitimate single between Trosky and Berger. Trosky, endeavoring to head off the ball, was running neck and neck with Radcliff when the ball suddenly shot into right center. Radcliff kept on going until he reached third and Kennedy scored. The Indians howled that the ball had hit Radcliff, and Umpire Kolls ruled him out.

The Sox came bouncing out of their dugout to plead that the ball hadn't hit Radcliff but had been deflected by Trosky's glove. That is the way it appeared from the press coop. The storming, in which Manager Dykes led the chorus, availed nothing. The umpires refused to alter their viewpoint, so Radcliff was out and Kennedy had to return to third base. Then Simmons filed to Averill, and the inning ended without profit, despite three hits in a row.

Punch Is Lacking.

Two runs scored by the Sox in the seventh started with Bonura's single to center. Winegarner promptly filled the bags on passes to Washington and Appling. With a full house in front of him Hopkins fanned for the first out, but Sewell stepped into the picture with a single to center after running the count to three and two. The hit sent Bonura and Washington home. Then Conlan batted for Kennedy, but fouled to Trosky, and Radcliff was deposed on a roller to Knickerbocker.

Henshaw to Pitch Opener for Cubs Against Pirates

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Roy Henshaw will pitch for the Cubs in the opener of the Cubs' series with the Pirates at Wrigley field tomorrow. Roy beat the Pirates in Pittsburgh on July 31 for the Cubs' eleventh straight and stood to win his second game of the afternoon as a reliever until the Pirates busted loose after two were out in the ninth inning.

The Cubs are finished up for the season as far as visiting in Cincinnati is concerned. Two games scheduled for September were played off in the series just ended.

Vice President Grimm and Umpire George Magerkurth who had a spectacular quarrel here yesterday, met last night and canceled the names they had called each other.

and Myers tried to stage a double steal, but Myers was out at the plate, Stephenson to Bill Herman to Stephenson.

Both teams went out in order in the third, but the Cubs wasted two more singles in their half of the fourth. Stephenson made his second and the Cubs' third single with two out and stopped at second on Hack's single to left. Then Jurges forced Hack.

Riggs beat out a single past second with one out in the fourth. Erickson grounded to Hack and he and Riggs were safe when Bill Herman dropped Hack's throw. Then followed one of the Cubs' best defensive plays of the season. Demaree made a diving catch of Myers' liner to short center, somersaulted to his feet and threw to Bill Herman, who stretched his full length on the ground to get the ball and complete the double play.

The Protested Play.

After Cavarretta had fanned for the third straight time to start the sixth inning Stainback doubled to right, his second and the Cubs' fifth hit. Demaree lined to Byrd and Stephenson popped to Kampouris in short center.

With one out in the sixth the fourth ball to Babe Herman got past Stephenson and bounced into the stands. The Babe was waved to second base after a conference of the three umpires, a decision which caused a delay while the Cubs debated. When the Chicagoans resumed, Vice President Grimm announced the game would be formally protested if Babe Herman scored. Bottomley filed to Stainback, Herman taking third. Riggs doubled to right, Babe Herman scoring, and the formal protest was lodged. Carleton threw out Erickson.

The Cubs got runners as far as third and second in the seventh inning. Lindstrom batted for Hack and lined to Kampouris. Jurges walked and was forced by English, who batted for Carleton. Galan doubled to the left field corner, English stopping at third. Myers then threw out Bill Herman.

Warneke threw out Myers to start the home seventh. Kampouris singled off Lindstrom's glove, but was out trying to steal second. Hollingsworth fouled to Lindstrom.

Just a Formality.

Cavarretta walked to open the eighth, but Stainback filed deep to Byrd. Demaree filed to Babe Herman. Stephenson singled to left for his third and the Cubs' seventh hit, Cavarretta taking third. Lindstrom singled to left, Cavarretta scoring and Stephenson stopping at second. Brennan replaced Hollingsworth. Jurges filed to Byrd on Brennan's first pitch.

Byrd opened the home eighth with a single to center and advanced on Goodman's sacrifice. Babe Herman beat a slow roller toward third, Byrd reaching third. Bottomley fanned and Riggs popped to Lindstrom.

Klein batted for Warneke to start the ninth and fanned. Galan fouled to Riggs, then Bill Herman walked. Cavarretta popped to Riggs.

New York, Aug. 5.—Bond trading was considerably less active today, but prices on the whole were well maintained. Treasury 2⅞s sold below the average price at which the recent additional issue of $106,000,000 was allotted, repeating in this connection the experience of investors in the first auction sale of long term bonds, late in May.

The turnover in this issue, however, was not large enough to give the price movement any significance. Dealers found the treasury bond market thin, but there was a feeling that development of even a small demand might easily advance the price level. Other federal loans ended 1-32d to 3-32ds lower. Transfers in this division aggregated only $560,000.

Other Groups Are Irregular.

Outstanding performers on the upside included B. F. Keith 6s, up 2 points; Paramount 6s, up 1⅜; Baltimore and Ohio first 6s, up 1; Great Northern 4½s, up 1⅜; Chicago and Eastern Illinois 6s, up 5½; Marion Steam Shovel 6s, up 1⅜, and Warren Brothers 6s, up 4 points. Some new 1935 highs were made during the session, but extreme gains were not fully retained by all issues.

Secondary Rail Bonds Relapse.

Low priced rail bonds got off to a fairly good start and had edged upward fractions to nearly a point when profit taking appeared during the final hour and pulled them lower. Losses in most active issues were less than a point and several managed to hold even, including Rock Island 4s, St. Paul 5s, and Atlantic Coast Line 4½s.

The foreign division was heartened by a better tone in Italian 7s, which gained ¼ point, and Milan 6½s, up 1 point. Several Central and South American bonds also sold higher.

Transfers for the day aggregated $8,102,000, par value, compared with $9,201,000 last Friday.

Chicago Mail Order.

Investors' Guide: Please give me some information regarding Chicago Mail Order stock. Thank you—S. O.

Answer: Chicago Mail Order company was incorporated 33 years ago. It operates no retail stores, but sells merchandise and wearing apparel through the mails for cash.

Both sales and earnings during recent months have increased sharply. Sales during the first half of 1935 were $11,196,000, an increase of 45½ per cent over sales of $7,696,000 for the first half of 1934. Net income for the first six months of this year was $212,000, against $121,000 for the first six months of 1934.

Only a small proportion of the increase is believed to have resulted from the acquisition of the assets of M. W. Savage company, a Minneapolis mail order company, in April, 1935.

	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per share.
1934	$18,972,000	$698,000	$2.02
1933	17,973,000	218,000	.63
1932	20,514,000	623,000	1.80
1931	15,886,000	302,000	.87

Current assets on Dec. 29, 1934, were $4,835,000 and current liabilities were $1,174,000. Capitalization consists solely of 346,181 shares of $5 par capital stock. The stock pays regular dividends of 25 cents a share. Extras declared or paid so this year total 75 cents a share. Total dividends in 1934 amounted to $1 a share.

The stock deserves a fairly good rating.

New York Water Service.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate it very much if you would advise me as to the rating of New York Water Service corporation 5s, due 1951. Thank you very much for your past kindness.—Mrs. P. E.

Answer: New York Water Service corporation is a holding and operating company, controled by Federal Water Service corporation, furnishing water to a population of 625,000 in 40 New York state communities.

Since the bulk of its business is of the domestic type, earnings have remained stable over a long period of time. Although gross revenues in 1934 increased slightly over 1933, higher operating costs and increased taxes more than offset greater income. Fixed charges were earned 1.55 times in 1934, against 1.60 times in 1933, 1.46 times in 1932 and 1.66 times in 1931.

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets were $673,000 and current liabilities were $691,000. Working capital requirements of a company of this type are small.

The $13,940,000 first 5s, due 1951, are secured by a first mortgage on all properties of the company, subject to $1,585,000 divisional lien. They are a business man's risk.

EARNINGS RISE IN MIDDLE WEST UTILITY SYSTEM

Trustee Gives Units Self-Control.

Improved earnings, both for the Middle West Utilities company and its subsidiaries, were reported yesterday by Daniel C. Green, trustee for the parent concern, which once was the keystone of the fallen Insull utility empire.

D. C. GREEN. [A. P. Photo.]

In his report to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom reorganization proceedings are pending, Green drew an entirely new picture of Middle West. It now is being operated strictly as an investment company whose principal assets are stocks and bonds of utility holding and operating companies.

Each affiliate is being treated as a corporate entity "in the strictest sense of the word," said Green. "Upstream loans" from a subsidiary to a parent, are banned. Interlocking directorates have been abolished, nor may any company in the group loan money to officers or directors.

Fees and Commissions Cut.

Fees and commissions have been eliminated, except for supervision service and this has been reduced to six-tenths of 1 per cent of operating revenues. In the event that this is proved to be above cost, pro rata refunds will be made.

Progress in rehabilitation of the fallen giant of the utility world brought little cheer to stockholders, however. Green reported capital adjustments of $25,807,656 last year among the subsidiaries and the setting up of additional reserves of approximately $35,000,000 against losses on Middle West investments.

The unconsolidated corporate balance sheet of June 30, 1935, shows a net deficit of $231,770,258 in the surplus account, thus wiping out all equity of the outstanding preferred and common shares, whose face value is $220,223,886.

No provision is made in the balance sheet for $6,513,333 unpaid interest on $40,000,000 of serial notes nor $12,299,769 accrued dividends on preferred stock. Of the nearly $48,000,000 in investments, approximately $17,700,000 net book value has been pledged as collateral for $19,060,429 bank loans.

Subsidiaries Pay Bank Loans.

Cash resources of subsidiaries increased more than $6,000,000 last year, according to Green, cash balances being $17,047,693, compared to $10,871,270 at the end of 1933. They reduced outstanding funded debt by $3,539,400 par value, and no important subsidiary now is indebted to banks.

Improved agricultural and industrial conditions and intensive campaigns to build up use of electricity in their main territory through 15 states has brought material gains in the business of subsidiaries.

Kilowatt-hour sales of direct subsidiaries and operating companies supervised by Middle West Utilities increased 147,535,000, or 8½ per cent, from 1933. Residential sales were up 12 per cent.

CUNARD-WHITE STAR LINE HAS FIRST YEAR LOSS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The loss of $2,040,445 in the first year's working of the recently formed Cunard White Star, Ltd., was revealed today in the first report of the directors of the new company.

The report stated the company became responsible for the operations of the parent companies in the Atlantic trade as from the commencement of 1934, though the merged operation did not commence until Sept. 1.

"It is to be noted that the practical effectiveness of merging the companies' operations was not obtainable in any considerable measure before the commencement of 1935," the report added.

Work in connection with the superliner Queen Mary, with which Great Britain hopes again to capture the blue ribbon of the Atlantic, is "proceeding satisfactorily," the report stated.

Stewart-Warner Reports Record Orders for Radios

Orders for fall delivery placed at the national convention of radio distributors held here recently by the Stewart-Warner corporation were the largest in the history of the company, F. A. Hiter, vice president and general manager, said yesterday. These advance orders were 300 per cent larger than those filed during the convention last year, he said. The demand for higher priced sets this year, he said, probably reflects better market conditions.

Standard Oil Chief Assails New Tax Plan

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The challenge to big corporations contained in President Roosevelt's proposal to levy taxes on the basis of "bigness" was met yesterday by Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in letters to the company's 92,000 stockholders urging them to demand that congress refrain from taking more money away from them in taxes.

E. G. SEUBERT.

Seubert emphasized the fact that the tax collectors last year got four times as much out of Standard Oil of Indiana as did the 92,000 stockholders who own the company. Earnings of the company, before taxes, in 1934 amounted to $6.12 per share of stock. After paying out the equivalent of $4.88 per share in taxes of all kinds only $1.25 per share was left to be credited to the account of the stockholders. This was only 3.2 per cent on the invested capital.

Hit Small Investor.

Charging that the "soak the rich" slogan was a misnomer, Seubert pointed out that the proposed taxes would fall heavily on the small investor. The proposed graduated scale of taxes on corporations, he explained, by imposing a higher rate on big corporations merely because of their size would discriminate against the little fellow holding a few shares in a large company in favor of the rich owner of a company with a smaller total capitalization.

"The danger in present proposals," said Seubert, "is not so much in their immediate effects as in adoption of the principle of discriminating against a corporation merely because it is big and successful.

"What will be the next discrimination, and the next? The issues are clearly as to whether Americans want things done in a big and efficient manner or not, whether taxes are to be collected fairly in proportion to earnings and without penalizing small investors for seeking security for their savings in enterprises which they believe sound because of distribution of risks.

Return Actually Is Small.

"Although big in dollars and cents the income of a large corporation may be in fact a comparatively small return on invested capital. Your company had a net income of $18,949,640 in 1934, a seemingly large amount, yet that was only 3.2 per cent on its invested capital, or net worth, amounting to 606 million dollars. A $100,000 corporation owned by a single wealthy individual might be earning 15 per cent on the investment and still its income would be subject to tax at a lower rate.

"Large corporations have been singled out for discriminatory taxation, apparently in the belief that they are owned exclusively by the rich. Yet as a matter of fact 78,000 of the 92,000 Standard of Indiana stockholders own 100 or fewer shares. The average holding is 165 shares, and no single stockholder owns as much as 4 per cent of the stock. About 730,000 shares are owned by employés. Colleges and universities, insurance companies and philanthropic institutions own considerable amounts. Are these the rich to be soaked?"

Attacks Excess Profit Tax.

Seubert also attacked the proposal to levy excess profits taxes without regard for the relations of profits to the risks involved. Also, he pointed out that the proposed inheritance taxes would have the depressing effect of forcing the liquidation of large stock holdings at the death of their owners.

"Your knowledge of your own affairs enables you to determine whether you deserve 'soaking' be-

Link-Belt Co., in the six months ended June 30, had net profit of $532,584, equal, after preferred dividends, to 62 cents a share of common stock against $378,739 or 37 cents a common share in the first half of 1934.

Amerada Corp. and subsidiaries, in the June quarter, reported net profit of $419,024, equal to 53 cents a share on 788,675 no par shares of capital stock, excluding shares held by the company, against $496,457 or 64 cents a share in the June quarter of 1934. STRONG PRICES HINT OF CONTINUED GAIN IN STEEL INDUSTRY

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Hopes for a continuation of the unprecedented summer gains in the steel industry are emphasized by strength in the price structure and by an increase in the volume of miscellaneous orders which is offsetting the decline in purchases by automobile manufacturers.

Steel makers are looking forward to heavy and early purchases by the automotive industry in anticipation of new car manufacturing, and orders for building construction and fabricating needs are reported increasing.

Steel ingot production started this week at 46 per cent of capacity, compared with 44 per cent in the previous week, which was an increase of 2 points, or 4½ per cent, according to the American Iron and Steel institute. A month ago the industry was operating at 35.3 per cent, and in the corresponding week of 1934 at 25.8 per cent. This week's rate is the highest since March 25.

Competing Roads Oppose Cut in Wabash Coal Rate

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—A proposal of the receivers of the Wabash Railway company to reduce its rate on fine bituminous coal 12 cents a ton from $1.41 to $1.29 on shipments from Springfield, Ill., to Keokuk, Ia., was opposed today by competing railroads. A brief filed by counsel for the protestants said the proposal contained "probabilities and certainties of disaster" that the commission should "condemn as inimical to the public interest."

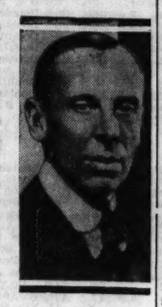
GEN. MOTORS DOUBLES RATE ON DIVIDEND

Goes on $2 Basis; Pays 25c Extra.

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Directors of the General Motors corporation today doubled the annual dividend rate on the common stock, by declaring a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, equivalent to $2 a year. At the same time an extra dividend of 25 cents a share was declared. The total disbursement of 75 cents a share amounts to more than $32,000,000 on the 42,772,000 shares outstanding.



A. P. SLOAN JR.

This is the largest regular dividend payment by the corporation since 1932, when the annual rate was reduced from $3 to $2 the first quarter, and then to $1 three months later. The latter rate has been maintained since then, an extra dividend of 25 cents a share was declared in 1933, and just a year ago an extra of 50 cents a share was declared. The new regular dividend is two-thirds that of the pre-depression period.

Comment by Sloan.

In commenting of the more liberal dividend policy, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, said the declaration reflected the current earnings, as well as the financial condition of the company and its future prospects.

"As to the increase in the regular dividend rate from 25 cents to 50 cents a quarter, I might state that it has been a long standing policy of the board to establish a normal or regular rate of dividend as generous as possible and one that can be reasonably counted upon by the stockholders, while at the same time reflecting the financial condition of the corporation, the current rate of earnings, and the future trend so far as that can ever be discerned. The increased rate ordered at this time reflects the judgment of the board with respect to all these factors.

"It must be recognized, however, that with things as they are there may be injected into the situation at any moment unusual circumstances that cannot be foreseen, such as may entirely alter the case. In such an event, the directors will not hesitate to reappraise their position and act accordingly."

Payable September 12.

The regular and extra dividends declared today are payable Sept. 12 to stockholders of record Aug. 15. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the $5 preferred was also declared, payable Nov. 1, to stockholders of record Oct. 7.

General Motors reported recently a net income of $88,729,838 for the six months ended June 30, which was equivalent to $1.85 a share on the average number of shares outstanding during the period. In the corresponding period of last year, the net profit was $69,586,613, or $1.51 a share on the common stock. The total profit last year was $94,769,131, or $1.99 a share on the common stock.

Since 1932, when the improvement in the automobile business began, General Motors' cash and current assets have been steadily increasing. Cash, United States government and other marketable securities as of June 30, 1935 totaled $229,855,180, against $186,966,609 on Dec. 31, 1934 and $201,713,115 on June 30, 1934. Net working capital, or the excess of current assets over current liabilities, totaled $340,667,357 on June 30, against $273,174,677 on Dec. 31, 1934, and $299,837,515 on June 30, 1934.

During the first six months of this year, the company sales totaled $594,883,990, against $519,677,906 in the corresponding period of last year.

O. E. Hunt, R. H. Grant, N. D. Mooney, and C. E. Wilson have been elected to the executive committee.

Regains Sales Leadership.

General Motors corporation has regained sales leadership in the domestic market, according to figures made available today.

At the same time available statistics indicate that the three leading automobile parts makers in the Chicago area—the Borg-Warner corporation, Bendix Aviation corporation, and Stewart-Warner corporation—will show the greatest aggregate net for 1935 of any year since 1929 when they reported $20,939,850.

New passenger car registrations in July are estimated by R. L. Polk & Co. at 285,000, against 280,360 in June. The total for the first half year is 1,460,940, against 995,020 for the 1934 first half, an increase of 46.9 per cent.

General Motors' climb to sales leadership was accelerated by a spurt in June as compared with May. For the first six months of 1935 registrations of new General Motors cars and trucks in the United States totaled 601,441 units, compared with 586,716 for Ford.

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Reversing normal seasonal trends, wholesale buying throughout the nation turned upward instead of downward in July, making the third consecutive month in which the usual summer letdown has been resisted.

The situation is disclosed by a survey made by the National Association of Credit Men, covering ninety major markets. Thirty-two cities reported July sales as "good," against twenty-five in June and twenty-two in May. The same number of cities reported collections as "good," compared with thirty-four in June and twenty-seven in May. Only eight cities reported collections as "slow." Nine reported "slow" sales. The remainder of the ninety reporting cities are in the "fair" column.

AUTOMOBILE GROUP WANTS U. S. TO STOP USING 'AAA' SYMBOL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—The American Automobile association has asked congress to do something about the Agricultural Adjustment administration's alleged confiscation of the association's copyrighted insignia.

In a letter to Senator Ellison D. Smith, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture and forestry, and Representative Marvin Jones, chairman of the house committee on agriculture, Thomas P. Henry, of Detroit, Mich., president of the association, said in part:

"In view of the confusion and oftentimes embarrassment that has arisen as a result of the use of our 'AAA' insignia as the alphabetic symbol of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, we feel in all sincerity that the American Automobile association and its 800 affiliated motor clubs throughout the country are entitled to relief from the congress of the United States.

"Our appeals to the Agricultural Adjustment administration have been in vain. Since the alphabet is still pretty flexible, would it be in order to suggest that the name be changed to Agricultural Re-adjustment administration?

"In my position I feel very keenly about this whole matter, especially when I read such headlines as 'AAA Gone Mad,' or 'AAA Seeks to Limit Export of Autoombiles' or 'AAA Gone on a Spending Spree' and so on and so forth."

POUND, FRANC GAIN SLIGHTLY AGAINST DOLLAR

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Foreign exchange rates held mostly steady today. Sterling gained ⅛ cent to close at $4.95⅞. In London the markets were closed due to a holiday.

French francs rose ¾ point to 6.34¼ cents, reducing the value of the dollar against francs to $1.0001, compared with $1.0013 on Saturday, and based upon the old parity of the franc the dollar was worth 59.07 cents, against 59.14 cents yesterday.

Dutch guilders were 2 points lower at 67.90 cents and German marks advanced 3 points to 40.40 cents, while other leading currencies were unchanged. Bar silver here was unchangd at 67¾ cents a fine ounce for imported metal.

INLAND STEEL AND RYERSON TO BE MERGED

Sets Up $117,000,000 Organization.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Merger of the Inland Steel company and Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., two leading Chicago steel companies, was approved last night by the boards of directors of the two concerns. Combined assets of the two companies will be $116,705,502. The company will rank seventh in size in the steel industry.

P. D. BLOCK. [Sieffens Photo.]

Approval of the plan, considered a formality, now awaits action by the stockholders of the companies and compliance with government regulations.

Ryerson to Keep Name.

The plan, announced last night in a joint statement by L. E. and P. D. Block, chairman and president respectively of the Inland Steel company, and Edward L. Ryerson Jr. and Everett D. Graff, president and vice president of the Ryerson company, provides that the Ryerson company will be operated under its present name and management as a wholly owned subsidiary of Inland. Mr. Ryerson will be one of the chief executive officers of Inland.

Inland is one of the largest and most successful independent steel companies in the country. Ryerson, besides being one of the city's oldest industrial organizations, having been founded in 1842, is the largest independent steel and iron service concern in the country.

Under the terms of the deal Ryerson stockholders will receive 59 shares of Inland stock for each 100 shares of Ryerson stock. That some action was impending was reflected in the recent action of the Ryerson stock, which made a number of sensational advances last week, closing yesterday at 46⅛, up 3⅛ points from Saturday. Its low for the year was 20. Inland has been selling near 84 recently.

Maintains Identity.

The Ryerson company, which has branches in Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and other cities, will continue to maintain its own organization. It is pointed out that acquisition of the Ryerson company will give Inland an outlet for the products of its great mills at Indiana Harbor and Chicago Heights and make possible greater stability in its rolling operations, since the output in quieter periods can be absorbed by the Ryerson warehouses.

Inland manufactures bars, shapes, plates, sheets, strips, rails, track accessories and tin plate. In recent years it has spent millions of dollars to modernize its plants at Indiana Harbor to enable it to produce steel at low cost. Its success in this direction has been demonstrated by its being able to make profits while older and larger companies were being operated at losses. The company recently declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on its common stock in addition to a 50 cent dividend.

OILS, UTILITIES KEEP STOCKS ON UPWARD TREND

New High for Year Made by 85 Issues.

New York, Aug. 5. — [Special.] — Mixed trading, with some stocks gaining and others showing small losses, made up the day in Wall street's market place. On the whole, the action of the market was favorable, with 85 issues reaching new highs for the year and withstanding profit taking in the final hour. The turnover was 1,739,000 shares.

Fully 40 per cent of the turnover occurred in the oil and public utility groups. Public utilities have been active for several days, but the oils have done little for a month or more. Lively trading at higher prices, following publication of the Phillips Petroleum quarterly report, set off the oils. In addition to Phillips, Seaboard Oil rushed forward. Gains of more than a point were made by the Standard Oil issues, and Continental Oil. Steels and rails took fractional losses.

Commonwealth-Southern Active.

In the utilities the heaviest dealings were in Commonwealth & Southern. The stock's volume of trading was the largest for any single issue in one session since Feb. 6 last year, when more than 375,000 shares of Commonwealth were transferred.

Some of the motor shares had a good run in the late trading. General Motors was dull at the start, but later managed to work up to a new high price for the year, in anticipation of something at the quarterly dividend meeting scheduled to be held after the close of the market. Cuban American Sugar common and preferred perked up. General Asphalt, General Baking preferred, Kaufmann department, Macy and Maytag advanced.

Among issues making new highs were American Telephone, Standard Gas and Electric 6 and 7 per cent preferred, Liggett & Myers B, Public Service of New Jersey, Sears-Roebuck, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Engineers' Public Service, and United Corporation.

Business News Favorable.

On the business side the news was favorable. Corporation earnings statements now coming in belatedly were mostly favorable and the season of higher and extra dividends is approaching. Meanwhile this week's account shows a 6 per cent rise in the use of bank checks over last week and a gain of 13 per cent over a year ago.

Passage by the house of representatives of the administration's new tax bill apparently failed to excite the equities list. Wall street had expected this. Steel shares failed to reflect the American Iron and Steel institute's estimates of a 2 point increase in current steel output.

CHICAGO STOCKS TURN UPWARD; 27 SET NEW HIGH MARKS FOR YEAR

The Chicago stock market turned upward yesterday with 27 issues reaching new high marks and 11 others selling equal to previous top marks. Trading totaled 47,000 shares.

Most of the advances were fractional, although several issues gained upwards of a point. Ryerson Steel, which merger with Inland Steel, was announced yesterday, shot up 3¼ points to close at a new high of 46¼. Its price ranged around 30 a month ago and at 34½ two weeks ago, with activity increasing markedly in the intervening time.

Walgreen continued its recent strength with a new high, although selling cancelled part of the gain in active late trading.

Cities Service, the most heavily traded issue of the day on a 3,900 share volume, was steady. Other leaders were Cord, which held even, and Chicago corporation common, which edged up to close at its previous high.

Bendix was the only one of the popular motor accessory shares to exhibit strength, gaining three-eighths. Houdaille-Hershey B was off fractionally and Born-Warner slumped 1⅛ in a selling wave. Automatic Products a Vincent Bendix company, went to a new high of 9½ in a burst of activity in which 3,200 shares changed hands.

Utilities shared in the advance. Commonwealth Edison gained 1½. Central and Southwest common lost an eighth in a 2,750 share turnover, but the preferred shares were up to new highs. Public Service common was off an eighth, but the no par common reached a new ceiling. Penn Gas and Electric again broke through its previous best price. Central Illinois Public Service preferred reacted 1⅛ from its high of last Saturday.

Brown Fence A was up 1¼ to a new high of 26½ in the wake of a good earning report. Others at new tops included Dexter and Gardner Denver, both making advances of a point or more. Zenith sold even with its best price in active trading.

BILL TO PERMIT SUITS OVER AAA TAXES MODIFIED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—A senate provision in the AAA amendments bill opening the courts to suits for the recovery of processing taxes today was modified in conference with the house of representatives to require a hearing by the commissioner of internal revenue before any recovery may be allowed.

Conferees expressed the opinion that the language of the compromise provision would affect pending suits, of which there are more than 600, but Chairman Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.], manager of the house conference committee, declined to say whether it would affect the Hoosac Mills case.

Senator John H. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], who bitterly opposed the senate amendment opening the courts to citizens, stated emphatically the compromise would have the effect of throwing out the Hoosac case, which is scheduled to reach the Supreme court at the October term.

Court Held AAA Illegal.

In this case the Boston Circuit Court of Appeals held the AAA unconstitutional, and the Supreme court might wipe out the act at an early date if the case progressed in an orderly way.

If the courts take cognizance of the proposed amendments and decline further jurisdiction in the Hoosac case until the commissioner of internal revenue has conducted a hearing and made a finding of facts, a Supreme court decision on the AAA will be delayed for months and possibly a year. That is what Senator Bankhead and other supporters of the administration in congress want.

Many lawyers, however, are of the opinion that the courts will not be influenced by the effort, through legislation, to prevent or postpone a final constitutional test of the processing taxes, but will be guided solely by the question of constitutionality itself.

Must Prove Taxes Absorbed.

The compromise provides that no refund shall be allowed on taxes paid before or after the effective date of the amendments unless "after a claim has been duly filed it shall be established, in addition to all other facts required to be established, to the satisfaction of the commissioner of internal revenue . . . that neither the claimant nor any person directly or indirectly under his control or having control over him, has, directly or indirectly, included such amount in the price of the article with respect to which it was imposed . . . or passed on any part of such amount to the vendee or to any other person in any manner, etc."

The compromise section further provides that the transcript of the hearing conducted by the commissioner shall be filed as a record in the case in any appeal to the courts and the findings of fact shall be conclusive "unless it shall clearly appear that such findings are arbitrary or capricious."

Floor Stock Tax Rule.

Besides the provision requiring hearings by the commissioner of internal revenue before recoveries can be allowed, the conference adopted a section permitting the recovery of floor stock taxes paid by any retailer or wholesaler in the event the act is held unconstitutional.

The conference completed action on the long pending and highly controversial amendments and the conference report probably will be acted upon by both houses of congress tomorrow.

The house accepted the senate provisions prohibiting Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from imposing minimum prices on all commodities subject to his "orders" with the exception of milk. In the case of milk, he may impose minimum prices paid to producers with the approval of three-fourths of the producers or producers of the three-fourths of the milk affected by a marketing agreement. Other commodities subject to his dictatorial orders are fruits and vegetables, except those for canning, beans, soy beans, tobacco, and naval stores.

Federal Tax Plan Will Upset Industry, Dr. Anderson Warns

New York, Aug. 5.—[Special.]—In one of the severest criticisms yet leveled against the administration's pending inheritance and income tax legislation, Dr. Benjamin A. Anderson Jr., economist of the Chase National bank, charges that the bill, as now drawn, will force changes in control of great industries and bankrupt large estates. The bill also involves grave dangers for American economic life, he states.

Writing in the bank's monthly bulletin, Anderson says the economic consequences to the country of a situation of this sort can hardly be exaggerated. The effect alone on real estate values of the forced liquidation of real estate held in any one of several large estates would be grave, he asserts.

Growth of Capital Paralyzed.

"But, apart from spectacular disasters of this character, the paralyzed effect in the long run upon the growth of capital in the country, and upon the willingness of men of fortune to undertake speculative ventures of the kind that develop new resources or that develop new ideas and new types of industry, would be fatal, he says.

"It is not a question of misfortune for a few individuals," he declares, but rather a matter of "danger for the general economic situation, due to the forced bankruptcies of great estates or, short of bankruptcy, the disintegration and liquidation at forced sale of large estates. The legislation will precipitate situations in which changes in control of great industries will come at unexpected times, with undesirable changes in personnel and policy."

Present Tax Burden Increased.

The economist points out that the nation must now reckon with the combination of the present existing taxes—the high federal estate taxes, state income taxes, state inheritance taxes—and the proposed new federal inheritance taxes and increases in the "already very high federal income taxes in the higher brackets." This combination, it is contended, creates a total of exactions which "are not merely, as the rates themselves would indicate, an approach to complete confiscation but which would produce, in practice, absolutely and definitly 100 per cent dissipation of assets in the typical case of a very large estate."

Anderson says he has long been favorable to reasonable inheritance and estate taxes, though holding that, to the extent that they are a tax on capital, the proceeds ought to be used by the state for capital purposes rather than "dissipated in operating expenditures."

Wants Able Future Generations.

He expresses his belief that inheritance taxes, without slowing down the activities of the creative business man, could be pushed far enough so that "if a great fortune is to reach grandchildren and great-grandchildren, each generation must add substantially to it by productive ability."

Top bracket British estate and inheritance rates, "high as they are, do not begin to approach the rates which will exist in this country if this new tax legislation passes," Anderson states in discussing rates of death duties in different countries. British rates, he explains, fall far short of the rates which now exist in the United States when state income taxes are included.

"When one looks about for experience of other countries as a means of gauging the consequences of the taxes now proposed for the United States, one does not find such experience because such taxes exist nowhere in the world as far as I can find," he says.

Roosevelt Expected to Invoke Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—President Roosevelt probably will send a special message to congress based on a virtual agreement on emergency oil legislation for this session of congress which was reached at a White House conference this afternoon.

At the conference were Secretary Ickes, Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.], Representatives Rayburn and Cole, and Charles Fahey, chairman of the petroleum administrative board.

Agree on Four Points.

Four points were said by Senator Thomas to have been agreed upon for federal legislation, as follows:

1. Ratification of state compacts providing for regulation of production and prevention of waste. Such compacts have been passed by the legislatures of Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, and New Mexico. Other ratifications are pending.

2. To extend and make permanent the Connally "hot oil" law.

3. To provide for voluntary agreements between states for limitation of production.

4. To limit imports by Presidential order.

Denies Control Over Industry.

Senator Thomas said if there was a board, it would be a research and fact-finding organization appointed by the President without authority to control the industry.

One of the unsettled controversies over the new bill is whether the proposed new administrative board should act as an independent agency or be under the supervision of Secretary Ickes.

SHARP ADVANCE IN LARD AS CASH INTERESTS BUY

Buying of September and October lard attributed to cash interests, and regarded as reflecting shipping sales, carried prices up sharply yesterday, with the October delivery selling at a new high for the season. Strength in hogs had considerable influence on sentiment, and, while there was selling of September lard early against purchases of corn to close spreads, the finish was at the top with net gains of 15 to 37½ cents. Bellies were 7½ cents higher.

Owing to the continued small receipts of hogs packers are said to be unable to accumulate any additional supplies of the cured product, and even the subnormal demand is more than sufficient to take care of the current output. As a result stocks are reported as being steadily reduced. Current supplies of lard in cold storage are believed to be the smallest at this season in fifty years or more, while meats are the lightest of any period in about twenty years. Cash lard closed at $15.25; loose, $15.40; leaf, $15.50, and bellies at $18.87 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

ELEVATOR SALE BY ROSENBAUM GRAIN DELAYED

Transfer to Norris Firm Meets Objections.

Consummation of the reorganization program whereby the elevators formerly operated by the Rosenbaum Grain company were to be transferred to a new concern managed by the Norris Grain company was delayed yesterday by last minute objections on the part of bondholders and representatives.

The committee appointed by Federal Judge William H. Holly to represent the bondholders of Chicago Elevator Properties, Inc., a Rosenbaum subsidiary, requested more time to study some of the provisions of the reorganization. Attorneys for the Norris interests wanted the liabilities which they would assume under the program to be limited.

Hearing Postponed Until Today.

As a result the hearing on the plan was delayed until this afternoon by Judge Holly. Attorneys indicated a general agreement would either be reached by today or the plan would be abandoned.

Earlier yesterday Judge Holly conducted a hearing on the motion of the Chicago Board of Trade seeking dissolution of the injunction which restrains the exchange from taking disciplinary action against officers of the Rosenbaum corporation. Attorneys for the Rosenbaum corporation told the court they had no objections to vacation of the order and Judge Holly indicated the injunction would be formally dissolved Aug. 14. The restraining order has been in effect since last April, when the Rosenbaum company originally filed a petition for reorganization under the amended bankruptcy law.

Plan Filed with Court.

Attorneys Benjamin F. Golstein and Irving Herriott filed with the court the plan under which the elevator company was to be taken over by a new firm. The action was taken under 77-B of the bankruptcy act.

The plan provides for a 15 per cent cash payment to bondholders of the company and refunding of the balance of the funded debt. A $500,000 preferred stock issue in the new company would be turned over to the Rosenbaum Grain company in exchange for its present common stock holdings. The Norris interests would get the common stock in return for which they would lend working capital on the new firm, divert to it grain storage business, and furnish management.

COTTON AVERAGES LOWER ON FAVORABLE CROP NEWS

Cotton prices held within narrow limits yesterday, averaging slightly lower as the result of favorable crop reports. The government estimate on the yield will be issued on Thursday and is expected to show between 11,500,000 and 12,000,000 bales, compared with 9,636,000 bales harvested last year. Highly conflicting reports are being received from Washington concerning the loan basis which will be announced shortly. Some messages indicated there would be no loan basis this season, while other reports expressed great confidence it would be placed at 12 cents per pound, the same as prevailed during the 1934-'35 season.

July cotton in New York dipped below the 11 cent level yesterday for the first time this season. Closing trades in Chicago were unchanged to 3 points lower while other markets were 3 points higher to 7 points lower. Spot cotton closed unchanged with New Orleans and New York, 11.90 cents; Houston, 11.70 cents, and Galveston, 11.75 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

INLAND STEEL AND RYERSON TO BE MERGED

Plan Sets Up $117,000,000 Organization.

provements was a $10,000,000 mill at Indiana Harbor with a capacity of 300,000 tons annually for continuous rolling of sheets, plates, etc. It also built a tin plate mill which for a long time was operated at capacity.

Inland controls its sources of raw material and either owns outright or owns important interests in iron ore properties in Minnesota and Michigan and coal mines in Illinois, Kentucky, and Pennsylvania.

Net profit of the company for 1934 stood at $3,729,889, compared with $166,693 in 1933. Its profit for the first six months of this year was $4,858,306.

Net profit of Ryerson for 1934 was $1,380,897, the largest since 1929, compared with $301,490 in the preceding year.

Operated by Founder's Family.

The Inland Steel company was incorporated under the laws of Delaware on Feb. 6, 1917, succeeding to the assets and business of a predecessor company incorporated under the Illinois law on Oct. 30, 1893. The officers of the original company were J. E. Porter of Ottawa, Ill., president; C. H. Jones, vice president, and P. D. Block, treasurer. L. E. Block became interested in the management of the company in 1897. Like the Ryerson company, several members of the Block family take an active part in the management, the third generation being represented.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today, and as no sales were reported, prices were unchanged at 3.20c per lb for spots. Trading, however, was dull, with sales of 7,000 tons in the No. 3 contract including considerable exchanging, and 200 tons in the No. 1.

Raw sugar prices in cents per pound:

TREASURY WILL MOVE BULK OF GOLD STOCK TO INTERIOR CITIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The treasury announced today that under a new policy only a small amount of the government's $9,147,000,000 in gold will be stored at seaboard bases. At the same time, the house passed and sent to the White House a bill authorizing transfer of the site of the new $500,000 "bullion depository" at Fort Knox, Ky., from the war department to the treasury.

Secretary Morgenthau said that the new $1,250,000 San Francisco mint, for which the contract was awarded last week, will be designed to take care of a gold supply sufficient for only three months' normal requirements. It was explained that "normal requirements" would consist of small stocks to be used in supplying possible needs of Central and South American countries.

The treasury's policy was said to contemplate removal of approximately $3,000,000,000 in gold from the New York assay office to Fort Knox as soon as the Kentucky fortress is completed. The contract for its construction will be let Aug. 22.

SENATE PASSES HOUSE CHANGES IN TRUCK BILL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The senate today concurred in house amendments to the administration bill for federal regulation of motor bus and truck transportation of freight and passengers in interstate commerce. The bill now goes to the White House.

Representing several years of effort, the bill is one of a series advocated by President Roosevelt for regulating all forms of transportation and concentrating the task in the interstate commerce commission. The measure places both common and contract carriers by motor under commission control as to rates and services. It generally exempts private truckers.

FIVE TRUSTEES FOR MILWAUKEE ROAD NOMINATED

Edward E. Brown of First National Selected.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]—Five representatives of banks and insurance companies were named today by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company as voting trustees under a reorganization plan submitted by it to the interstate commerce commission at a hearing on the reorganization proposal.

Edward E. Brown, president of First National Bank of Chicago; Max W. Babb, member of the board of trustees of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company; Philip A. Benson, president of Dime Savings bank, Brooklyn; George B. Cortelyou, director and member of the finance committee of New York Life Insurance company and former president of Consolidated Gas, and Frederick H. Ecker, president and director of Metropolitan Life Insurance company, largest holder of the St. Paul bonds, were nominated for the position.

Tells Causes of Troubles.

Various restrictive clauses in the bonds outstanding which were designed to protect the bondholders, coupled with declining earnings, made filing under section 77 of the federal bankruptcy act last July a necessity, Swayne said. One such clause mentioned was the requirement that equipment be maintained at its value as of Jan. 1, 1929.

The company was reorganized in 1928 after a three year receivership. Interest and rentals then were scaled down from $20,000,000 a year to $12,500,000 and $70,000,000 new capital was subscribed to by stockholders to pay the $52,000,000 due to the federal government after the government surrendered wartime control.

Earnings Slump Sharply.

Earnings of the road in 1928, Swayne said, were $30,000,000, and in 1929, $28,000,000. From then on they slumped sharply; in 1930 they were $17,900,000; in 1930, $9,000, and in 1931 there was a loss of $300,000.

The new proposal, Swayne said, cuts the stockholders' par value from $230,000,000 to $40,000,000. Bondholders are asked to extend maturities and to put interest payments on a contingent basis for 10 years. The Reconstruction Finance corporation and Railroad Credit corporation are asked to extend their loans ten years.

WHEAT RALLIES ON MILL DEMAND FOR CASH GRAIN

Buying by Speculators Is Also Factor.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Wheat rose two cents a bushel yesterday in a buoyant market on the Chicago Board of Trade. Fresh speculative buying in the futures market was brought about by the aggressive demand for cash wheat which is coming from flour millers.

In Minneapolis wheat futures advanced 5 cents a bushel, the maximum allowed under the exchange rules, and this was the signal was the release of new buying here. The September future closed at 92 cents a bushel, 2¼ cents above Saturday's price, while other contracts showed gains of slightly less than 2 cents.

In the main it was the same speculative interests which were the heavier sellers of wheat late last week that furnished the buying yesterday. Wheat had lost six cents a bushel from its recent high quotations and this setback invited the reinstatement of speculative holdings.

Commercial Demand Quickens.

The quickening commercial demand for wheat is currently an important market influence. In the southwest flour mills are reported to be increasing their purchases as a result of the more active flour market. News that one baking company had placed an order for 100,000 barrels of flour gave emphasis to these reports. In Minneapolis the flour demand is said to be slow, but the extreme bullishness of the crop situation in the northwest provides the background for advancing prices.

Nearly 200 cars of new spring wheat were received in the Minneapolis market yesterday. Although premium wheat is bringing prices well above the future market quotations, much of the new wheat is of low quality and is selling at a discount.

Buy Canadian Wheat for Mixing

The high percentage of low grade wheat which is expected to be harvested in the territory this year is the basis for the reports that domestic millers are buying Canadian wheat for mixing purposes. Canadian wheat is being imported in bond. As the need arises it is expected the duty will be paid on this grain and it will be used for domestic purposes.

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .92	$ .89¾	$ .92¾
Corn	.77¾	.77¾	.76⅞
Oats	.31	.30¼	.33⅜
Rye	.44¾	.43¾	.47

The corn market was weak yesterday. Losses ranged up to a cent a bushel. The generally favorable crop situation, together with the abundance of other feeds, has invited selling of the new crop corn futures. The abnormal shortage of supplies remaining from last year's harvest, however, lends support to the September future, which will expire before the new crop is harvested.

GAINS IN MEAT PRICES BOOST ALL LIVE STOCK

Advances in fresh meat markets and short live stock receipts laid the foundation for further substantial advances in prices of live stock yesterday. Beef at the various distributing points sold steady to $1 higher per hundred pounds than at the close of last week and $1 to $2.50 higher than on the previous Monday. Veal was steady to $1 higher for the day and $1 to $3 above a week ago.

Fresh pork sold steady to $1 higher than late last week and 50 cents to $1 above the preceding Monday. Lamb was more uneven, selling from 50 cents lower at some points to $1 higher at other places compared with the close of last week and steady to $1.50 higher for the week.

Prices of live hogs advanced 10 to 15 cents yesterday, to the highest levels since October, 1926, processing tax included.

Lambs sold strong to 25 cents higher, top classes bringing the best prices since July 9 and $5 cents more than two weeks ago.

Advances of 25 cents were general in steers and yearlings yesterday, and gains of as much as $5 to 50 cents were evident in the plainer classes of heifers, with the majority of cattle selling 75 cents to $1.25 above the low time of two weeks ago.
